The Late Speaker.
Morrow for Vice President.
Bad News, and Good.
If You Were Dying.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE DEATH of Speaker Longworth will be deeply regretted in Washington and throughout the country. He was able, witty, good-natured, tactful. His colleagues liked him, the nation respected him for his ability and character.

The country feels deep sympathy for his widow, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt.

REPUBLICANS continue discussing vice presidential candidates for 1932 in place of Mr. Curtis. They want someone from the East, and Dwight W. Morrow is suggested.

President Hoover, whose renomination is certain, comes from California, Morrow from New Jersey.

One thing you may predict. Mr. Morrow would not be submerged, lost or forgotten in the vice presidential office. He would see to that personally. And he might easily and gently glide from the Senate to the White House in 1936.

THE BAD NEWS from Europe deals with probable revolution in Portugal.

Cheerful news tells of better feeling between Italy and France. President Doumergue calls Italy "a noble and friendly nation" and recalls Italy "fighting gloriously and valorously at the side of France."

France, said President Doumergue, had suffered enough from war to appreciate the value of peace, "but she has also acquired too much experience through her own history to ignore the fact that there is no durable peace without security of frontiers."

FOR US, there is no durable peace without security, based on dominating force in the air.

The sooner we realize that the safer we shall be.

France stands first in air power, Italy second, Uncle Sam third.

A GREAT German military authority, Gen. Berthold Von Deimling, declares that Germany no longer needs a great army, because flying machines, explosives and poison gas will alone be important in the next war.

In the next war, says he, the fighters will attack entire populations with poison gas. He declares:

"Against attack from the air there can be no real defense and no protection—at least for the masses of the population."

THE GENERAL assures you that "upon the completion of the first mobilization the warring powers will overhelm one another with their air fleets."

Somebody ought to tell all that to our Army and Navy, which still look upon airships as a not too important "auxiliary." They remind you of the English king who said powder and bullets would never amount to much, and offered special prizes to yeomen growing trees suitable for making bows and arrows, upon which, said he, "England must always rely."

WHAT IS your answer to this question raised by the Etude?

"If you had only 24 hours to live, and could hear just one piece of music, which would you select?"

Billy Sunday would like to hear "The Sweet Bye and Bye." Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith would prefer "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

The Rev. Henry VanDyke wants a regular concert, Beethoven's "Eroica," also "Lead Kindly Light," "Abide With Me" and Handel's "Largo."

SOME OF us in our last 24 hours would say:

"No music, thanks; this is a time for thinking, not for tunes."

Cyrus H. K. Curtis would like to hear at the last moment "Softly, Low the Light of Day."

MANY NOT so highbrow would like to hear the old song "Long, Long Ago." For when age, disease and death approach, not the present hour, but earlier, happier days seem worthwhile.

THE MEDICAL TIMES, read by 14,000 doctors, attacks birth control on economic grounds, criticizing clergymen, including British bishops, that approve birth-control propaganda.

The Medical Times is worried about "standardized mothers" and fears that women will be "thwarted in the fulfillment of her destiny."

HOWEVER, EDUCATED women, unless controlled by religious conviction, will continue to regulate the size of families, as they always have done.

The important question is, can you properly keep from poor

AUDIT PROBING PRIVATE FUNDS

TEACHER TELLSHOW SHE SLEW SPINSTER

WILKES BARRE, Pa., April 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frances Thompson, 29, Wellesley College graduate, former Pittsburgh school teacher and mother of three children, today confessed, police announced, that she had killed Miss Minnie Dilley, aged 76, wealthy spinster, of Forty Fort. The body of Miss Dilley, with her throat cut, was found in her home last Saturday. Mrs. Thompson was quoted as saying:

"I did it in self defense. It was her life or mine."

Miss Dilley, who lived alone, was found in her home Saturday night with her head battered and throat cut. Mrs. Thompson was a former neighbor of Miss Dilley and moved to Pittsburgh, where she was arrested Wednesday.

RE-ENACTS KILLING

Sitting in the same room of the Forty Fort house where Miss Dilley's body was found, the woman prisoner re-enacted the killing for police authorities and newspapermen.

Mrs. Thompson said she struck down Miss Dilley when the spinster attacked her. With the Forty Fort woman stunned, Mrs. Thompson said she took a bread knife from her own umbrella and

CITIZENS COMMITTEE TURNS TO NAMES LINKED IN BUYING

Private investigators have been employed by the Citizens' Committee to look into the financial affairs of a number of persons whose names have been linked with city affairs as a result of the double audit.

Henry Oliver Evans has announced that he will call 68 city inspectors of construction to testify in the investigation of the Department of Public Works, in which he is seeking to prove that poor business methods in estimating and letting contracts have "opened the door to fraud on the city."

PALMER SEES LANG

I. Charles Palmer, sewer engineer in the Department of Public Works, accused of holding a directorate in the West Penn Sand and Gravel Company, of which Mike Mannella, who has been awarded city sewer contracts involving hundreds of thousands of dollars, is president, called at Director Edward G. Lang's office today. Palmer conferred with Lang a few minutes, after which Lang said:

"Mr. Palmer is a very sick man. I did not get a chance to question him closely regarding his reported connections with the West Penn company. Because of his condition, I ordered him back to bed."

Lang said that he had instructed Palmer to put his explanation of his reputed "outside connections" in writing, bringing it to his office when he has recovered. Palmer has been connected with the Public Works Department several years.

CALLS FOR SAMPLES

Although the proposed check to determine if canned goods delivered, at Mayview, by the L. H. Parke Company are of the same high quality for which the city paid, has been deferred until next week, Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin conferred with S. C. Irwin, a director of the Parke Company, relative to food purchases.

Colvin said that he had invited representatives of the Parke company to be present when the

LONGWORTH'S BODY ON JOURNEY HOME

AIKEN, S. C., April 10.—(INS.)—Nicholas Longworth began his last journey home today.

Through the hushed streets of a town stunned by the death of a distinguished visitor, the mortal remains of the late Speaker of the House were conveyed to Union Station and put aboard a train that will arrive at Cincinnati at 7 a. m. tomorrow.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Cincinnati, where Mr. Longworth—affectionately known as just plain "Nick" to his friends in every walk of life—was born 61 years ago, and where he began his brilliant political career that has extended across a quarter century of American history.

The funeral train is composed of three coaches—a funeral coach, a coach for reporters and the

LONGWORTH'S WIFE URGED FOR CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth was urged in a public statement today by Representative Schafer (Rep.), of Wisconsin, to become a candidate to succeed her husband as member of Congress from the First Ohio District.

Declaring that the daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt is eminently qualified from her long experience in political life, to take the speaker's place, Schafer predicted she could be elected without difficulty. He said:

"The nation has suffered a distinct loss in the death of Speaker Longworth. In expressing my own grief I want to add the hope that his widow will become a candidate for his position, and carry on his able work for the country.

"She would be a bulwark of strength to those in the House who are fighting the sumptuary prohibition law. I should be willing to go into the district to campaign in her behalf."

Despite widespread speculation as to the possibility of "Princess Alice" entering politics in her own name, close friends do not expect her to seek the congressional seat vacated by her late husband.

Although she is one of the best informed women in the country on politics and congressional life, they hold she will prefer to remain in private life.

KLINE PRONOUNCED ON WAY TO RECOVERY

If no complications set in, Mayor Kline's recovery is assured, his secretary, Frank Swaney today quoted Dr. William O'Neill Sherman as saying.

The Mayor spent a restful night in St. Francis Hospital and is improving steadily, Swaney said Dr. Sherman had told him.

City detectives today were assigned to the Mayor's floor in the hospital to keep out the scores who flocked to the hospital to see the patient.

The Mayor was admitted to the hospital Monday when a carbuncle on his neck threatened complications.

ELINOR'S AIR MARK CHECKED IN CAPITAL

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—A sealed instrument was sent to Washington today to determine if Miss Elinor Smith, 19, has the altitude record for women fliers.

Flying above Manhattan yesterday with the temperature 18 degrees below zero, she watched the altimeter on the instrument board register 32,500 feet—slightly more than six miles. The present record of 28,418 feet, now only a month old, is held by Ruth Nichols. Miss Smith may have beaten also one of 30,453 feet for commercial planes, held by George Haldman.

Until Miss Nichols made her flight a month ago, Miss Smith held the altitude record for women as well as the record for endurance flying. Her mark surpassed, she waited two weeks and then took off from Roosevelt field to recapture her lost honors.

At 25,000 feet she lost control of the plane, fell five miles through the air, and escaped unhurt though her ship turned over in landing. It was the same plane in which she soared above the city yesterday.

STEEL ORDERS SHOW 30,136-TON GAIN

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation increased 30,136 tons in March to a total of 3,995,330 tons March 31. In February a decrease of 167,157 tons was reported.

The backlog as of February 28 was 3,965,194 tons. On January 31, unfilled orders aggregated 4,132,351 tons against 3,943,596 on December 31. On March 31, 1930, unfilled orders amounted to 4,570,653 tons.

Wall street had looked for only a nominal change in the figures for the last month-end. Although steel operations improved during most of March, activity began to taper off late in the month. However, the industry was helped by demand for structural materials, and United States Steel received the contract for the 125,000 tons required for New York's Radio City. It also shared in the Pennsylvania Railroad's 100,000-ton order.

Contracting prior to April 1, when price advances on certain basic lines became effective, was not particularly vigorous and consumers have bought only for immediate needs.

There is a difference of opinion as to whether the seasonal peak in mill operations has been passed. Some observers believe that the industry now faces a slow and perhaps irregular decline into the normal summer dullness. Others believe the automobile business still has further ground to cover before its seasonal turn is reached and that this expansion will take up some of the recent slack in steel.

Mahatma Has Pants Problem, Even as Dawes

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Mahatma Gandhi will wear pants while visiting Buckingham Palace.

We all remember Charley Dawes' diplomatic squabble over the same kind of wearing apparel. Charles refused to wear silk knee breeches because he had knees that looked as if they were inflated with liquid helium.

Dawes and Mahatma could save money by teaming up on one suit of clothes. Gandhi could wear the coat, Charles the trousers and save the vest for more formal affairs.

There is something dignified about those official levees at the Court of St. James that makes a man wish he were the Scotch envoy, thereby solving the

MELLON NOT AGAINST CITY MANAGER BILL

W. L. Mellon, former chairman of the Republican State Committee, today announced that he could "see no objection to the passage of a bill in the Pennsylvania Legislature permitting the people to decide for themselves the form of local government they believe best meets their needs."

Mellon was referring to the Moore bill, which comes up for final pasage in the House Monday, and would allow the voters of second and third class cities to decide whether they want a city manager.

The forces of Mayor Kline are opposed to the bill. Mellon's stand is expected to add strength to the rumors that he is not on the best of political terms with the Kline forces.

The complete statement of Mellon, who has just returned from a two-months' vacation in the West Indies:

"When you ask me about state and local conditions, you must remember I have just returned to Pittsburgh after a long absence.

"However, I can see no objection to the passage of a bill in the Pennsylvania Legislature permitting the people to decide for themselves the form of local government they believe best meets their needs."

From Harrisburg today there came reports that the Moore bill has obtained some unexpected support from Philadelphia. Philadelphia members of the Legislature were said to be unopposed to the bill because it provided local option and did not, as it now stands, apply to first-class cities.

The bill continued to gain support from rural members and this, with the Philadelphia aid, may enable it to pass the House.

The Moore bill was indorsed by the board of directors of the Pittsburgh Council, Churches of Christ in America yesterday.

BRUSH BLAZES MARK BIG FIRE ANNIVERSARY

While Thomas L. Pfarr, the county fire marshal, was tolling the bell of Old City Hall today in commemoration of the great fire which on April 10, 1845, destroyed much of Pittsburgh's downtown, 14 brush fires were keeping firemen busy in different parts of the city. The old bell is now on the threshold of the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society, Bigelow boulevard.

Firemen were pressed to extinguish the large brush fire back of Beechwood boulevard near the Pittsburgh Country Club. Before firemen arrived the flames worked through an area a half mile long and 300 yards wide.

Others who participated in the observance of the anniversary of the fire of 1845, included Capt. C. A. Lippert, deputy county fire marshal; Robert M. Ewing, president of the society; Thomas S. Brown, secretary, and John E. Potter, treasurer.

Fire Chief Richard L. Smith today wrote a letter to be read in all public schools asking pupils to refrain from building fires, and to warn their parents of the fire hazard. The chief said most of the alarms were sounded during the noon and school recess hours.

'BOMBSHELL' AT QUIZ HINTED

Bus Lines Taken From Him By Benn, Witness Says; Tells of Threat to Kill

HARRISBURG, April 10.—(AP.)—Revelations that will constitute "the bursting of a bomb" can be expected from testimony being given before the State House of Representatives committee investigating public utilities, the Rev. James R. Cox, one of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's "observers" on the committee, declared in a statement here today.

LEADS TO ONE MAN

The pastor of Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Pittsburgh asserted that testimony regarding the transportation situation was leading to one man "who not only controlled all the utilities but the United States government." He declined to name the man, asserting:

"Last year in our Pittsburgh taxicab trouble, the management (transportation interests) was there, represented by the Parmelee officials, and they brought on a man to take care of the situation, who said he would remain as general manager and who had been for years with the Mitten Management in Philadelphia.

"We learned these companies were owned and controlled by one gentleman. Now I am not going to mention the name because we don't have the facts, but it seems to be leading up to one. They not only control the utilities, but they control the United States government, and when the bomb bursts, it will show one dominating figure in political life."

"THREAT TO KILL"

At today's session of the committee, Wilbur F. Menke, Philadelphia, who charged his bus lines were taken from him by Public Service Commissioner James S. Benn and the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, said that he had threatened to kill him once when Benn "shooed" him out of his office.

Benn, who preceded him on the stand, charged that Menke told untruths before the committee and said he would never talk to Menke unless there were witnesses present.

Representative Turner asked who the witness was and Benn pointed to a man in the audience.

Turner had him sworn in. He said he was C. L. P. Russell, former Pennsylvania Railroad employe, later employed by the Pub. Service Commission. He said he formerly lived in Pittsburgh, Oakmont and Philadelphia and testified:

Menke told me Mr. Benn wouldn't talk to him. He asked me for bus application blanks. I gave them to him. He told me he couldn't fill out the blanks. He said he didn't have the necessary money. I told him he didn't need money. He added that he couldn't fulfill the provisions of the application.

"My influence is that Menke wanted to make a deal."

Menke, recalled to the stand, said he was in Benn's office a dozen times since he lost his bus lines, seeking aid and denied Russell's version of the testimony.

and ignorant women unable to care for their families properly, the knowledge given freely to more prosperous mothers that might support more children?

ONE MILLION, FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND British workers have accepted reductions in pay during the last month, including the best organized labor unions in Great Britain.

Such cuts obtained by negotiation are suggested in this country, as an aid to the depression. But a cut in wages means a cut in buying power. And that means a cut in prosperity. Any cut in wages should not, in any case, exceed the actual reduction in cost of living, due to reduced prices of necessities.

slashed Miss Dilley repeatedly across the throat.

Mrs. Thompson said that when she went into the house she carried a bread knife concealed in an umbrella in her hand. She said she sat down in the chair she occupied during the confession and that Miss Dilley sat facing her.

Miss Dilley refused "to make friends," however, the prisoner declared. A quarrel resulted.

At this point in her confession Mrs. Thompson seemed to skip some details but a moment later said that Miss Dilley had attacked her, adding:

"I struck in self-defense."

HITCH HIKES HOME

With Miss Dilley felled by a blow from a ginger ale bottle, later found by the police, Mrs. Thompson said she bent over her victim. From the folds of the umbrella she took the knife and hacked the victim's throat, she said.

After committing the crime, Mrs. Thompson said she went to the kitchen of the home where she washed up. She then left the house to hitch-hike her way back to Pittsburgh.

Following Mrs. Thompson's recital, police took her to the second floor of the Dilley home where she was questioned further.

The constant fear that the aged spinster was alienating the affections of her husband, Carl Thompson, a salesman for an eastern lumber company, drew Mrs. Thompson back to the town she left almost five years ago with the intention of taking the older woman's life, according to police.

Mrs. Thompson told Pittsburgh police that Miss Dilley had exercised a "strange influence" over her husband and that she wanted him to become leader of a "love cult composed of former school teachers."

Jamaica Shipper Fined, Paroled

BOSTON, April 10.—(INS.)—Harry Gross, of Boston, arrested in connection with shipments of Jamaica ginger, which caused widespread sickness, today entered pleas of guilty for himself and the Hub Products Company, Inc., of which he is president. Federal Judge James A. Lowell gave Gross a suspended term of two years at the Worcester House of Correction and placed him on probation for two years. The products company was fined $1,000.

DISCUSS CANAL WITH PINCHOT

HARRISBURG, April 10.—(INS.)—Members of the Pittsburgh-Lake Erie State Canal Board will confer with Gov. Pinchot here late this afternoon relative to a campaign for recommendation to Congress, by army engineers and the Harbor Commission, to begin work on the project.

It was anticipated the Governor would be requested to name Lieut. Col. J. P. Leaf, of Rochester, to the board in place of A. B. Sheppard, named to the post, but not accepting it.

The Governor has already received a letter from C. C. McGovern, Allegheny County Commissioner, urging appointment of Leaf. Whether the matter of routing of the proposed canal would be discussed was uncertain.

DENY HYMIE'S COUNSEL DELAY

CLEVELAND, O., April 10.—Attorneys for "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, convicted of murdering former Councilman William E. Potter, were denied a delay today in the arguments on a motion for a new trial, scheduled to be heard by Common Pleas Judge Walter McMahon tomorrow.

Defense Attorney William E. Minshall said it would be impossible to have his argument prepared by that time, and that he would take recourse to the Court of Appeals.

Detectives Frank Dodson and Thomas Mulvihill arrived here today, from Pittsburgh, to enlist the aid of Detective Bernard Wolf, Cleveland, as a witness in a proposed perjury prosecution of Sol Schaecter and Lou Frischman, Pittsburgh haberdashers, who tried to give Martin an alibi at a habeas corpus hearing, in Pittsburgh, prior to his conviction in Cleveland.

President Invited To Coal Meet Here

POWER OUSTER SUIT TO START NEXT WEEK

Senators, Counsel Agree On Petition Attacking Smith's Right to Post

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The Senate court battle to oust George Otis Smith from his post as chairman of the Federal Power Commission will be started early next week, it was announced today following a conference between senators and the Senate's special counsel.

The form of the petition, which the Senate will file in the District Supreme Court attacking Smith's right to hold office, was agreed upon at the conference attended by Senator George W. Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee; Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, leader of the ouster fight; John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President in 1924, and former Gov. Alexander J. Groesbeck, of Michigan, special counsel.

FORM OF SUIT

The fight to oust Smith will be in the form of a quo warranto proceeding, brought under an old statute giving any citizen the right to file suit to discharge a public official from an office illegally held.

The case will be prosecuted to the United States Supreme Court, regardless of the outcome in the lower courts, because the issue at stake affects the powers of two branches of the government.

Smith will be represented by ex-Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, and will have the moral support of the Department of Justice, which ruled he was holding office legally and which advised President Hoover to ignore the Senate's demands for his removal.

AROUSED SENATE

Smith aroused the Senate's ire when he dismissed two veteran employes of the commission as soon as he took office and it recalled the nomination papers of all three commissioners—Smith, Claude L. Draper and Marcel Garsaud. The President refused to return the papers and the Senate thereupon reconsidered the nominations, reconfirming Draper and Garsaud, but rejecting Smith. Since then the commission reinstated one of the discharged employes, William V. King, chief clerk.

The legal issue is whether Smith holds office legally, since the Senate reconsidered his nomination and rejected him.

STOLEN AUTO BURNED IN PARK

Bandits Hold Up Motorist And Take Machine; Car Later Found Destroyed

An automobile stolen by two highwaymen from a motorist whom they forced to the curb in Washington boulevard, was found completely destroyed by fire two hours later in Highland Park. The machine, according to police at the East End Station, was owned by Ralph Benach, of 4300 Murray avenue.

Benach reported to police that he was driving in Washington boulevard when two men forced him to the curb. At the point of revolvers they stole his car and $14 in cash. A short time after the report of the robbery had been received by police, an automobile was discovered burning in the Negley avenue entrance of the park. An investigation proved that the destroyed machine was the one stolen from Benach.

BANDIT TRIO SOUGHT

A bandit trio whose leader held up three North Side groceries within a half hour last night and a short time later with his accomplices robbed an East End drug store, was being sought by police today.

From his first victim, Mrs. C. E. Edwards, proprietress of a store at 820 Western avenue, the robber obtained $12, police said.

His loot in the second holdup on the store of Sam Arena, at 1108 Irwin avenue, amounted to $30. The bandit ended his North Side raids with the robbery of the grocery of C. B. Swanerick, at 1113 Sherman avenue, where he obtained $27 and a $10 check.

The leader and his companions invaded the Schiller and Davis Pharmacy, at 5400 Penn avenue, and escaped with $20, leaving four customers unaware of the holdup.

RINGS STOLEN

The theft of two diamond rings valued at $1,500 from the home of Catherine Walsh, at 302 Coltart square, was reported to police last night.

Miss Mary Delhart, of 925 North Lincoln avenue, North Side, reported to police and detectives this morning that two rings valued at $850 disappeared while she was returning home in a taxicab early today. The woman said she boarded a taxicab in the Hill district and at the time she was wearing the rings. Upon arriving home she noticed they had disappeared.

EIGHT DOOMED MEN IN RIOT

GADSDEN, Ala., April 10.—(AP.)—Protesting against their sentences, eight Negroes, ranging in age from 16 to 20, condemned to death at Scottsboro yesterday for an attack on two white girl hoboes aboard a freight train, rioted in the Etowah County Jail today, but were subdued by guards who placed them in irons.

Attorneys here said they believed passing death sentences on eight persons for the same offense on the same day was without parallel in the history of the nation.

A mistrial was ordered for the ninth Negro, Roy Wright, 14, of Chattanooga, after a jury deliberating 19 hours was unable to reach agreement as to punishment.

New Still Found In Old Coal Mine

Federal prohibition agents believed they nipped the installation of a moonshine distillery in an abandoned coal mine, opposite the cemetery, Clairton road, in Clairton. They reported finding a new 35-gallon still in the mine which had not yet been placed in operation.

Weather Conditions.

A low pressure area is centered over Ontario, north of the Great Lakes, and extends southward over the lake region and the Ohio Valley states to near the mouth of the Mississippi. It produced light to moderately heavy rains over the Central and Lower Mississippi Valley states and over the Ohio Valley states and rain is falling elsewhere in the Ohio Valley from Ohio to the Mississippi and northward over the lower lakes. Another disturbance appears in the Far Northwest causing cloudiness over that section, but as yet no rain. High barometer covers the Rocky Mountain states and the plains states attended by mostly clear skies. Temperature changes were small generally, towards rising over the West and towards cooler over the central valleys.

River Conditions.

The Monongahela River is about stationary, the Allegheny and the Ohio are falling. Stage at Franklin 5.8 feet. Lock No. 7, 15.8; Pittsburgh, 15.7. Dam No. 4, 13.1; Dam No. 6, 13.8; Dam No. 10, 14.7; and Dam No. 13, 16.0. The rivers will continue to fall slowly.

samples are inspected. Irwin said after the conference that the books of the Parke company would be open for inspection by officials of the district attorney's office, providing they sent representatives to the home office in Philadelphia. He added that all order sheets and expense accounts of salesmen who sold the merchandise to the city would be furnished the inspectors.

Colvin said he has not yet received sufficient samples and brokers' list prices to start work. He has asked the Parke Company to send samples of canned products similar to the $10,000 lot sold to the city last fall. The samples will be compared with those obtained at the city home, at Mayview.

1929 AUDIT ENDS

Auditors of Main & Company working for the Citizens Committee have completed the audit of the records of the controller dealing with the Department of Supplies in 1929, and are today ready to start in the 1930 accounts.

Many developments of a startling nature have already been uncovered, according to reports. At the present rate of progress, auditors believe they may be occupied for another month.

Evans yesterday conferred with Lee C. Beatty, counsel for the Department of Public Works, and both sides agreed to present as much testimony as can be properly prepared before the hearing reopens Monday morning.

American Found Slain in Mexico

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—American Consul Sokobin at Saltillo, Mexico, reported to the State Department today that the body of a man believed to be that of Ben Franklin, of Chicago, had been found near Saltillo, April 7. The man, about 55, was believed to have met with foul play.

ZEPPELIN FLIES OVER EGYPT

CAIRO, Egypt, April 10.—(INS.)—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin visited the land of the Sphinx this afternoon.

Arriving over Cairo at 4 p. m. the huge airship circled the city several times, then headed for Upper Egypt, where it will cruise all night. A landing at Heliopolis is planned for tomorrow.

Commanded by Dr. Hugo Eckener, the Graf made good progress here, arriving 13 hours ahead of its schedule. Three of the passengers are women.

Bank Clerk, Short $1,000, Arrested

Alleged to have been nearly $1,000 short in his accounts of the South Hills Trust Company, Shiloh street, Mt. Washington, where he was employed in the real estate department, G. C. Friar, 45, of 20 Prospect street, was arrested by Constable William Duncan, of Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan's office. He was at liberty today under $15,000 bond. Information was filed by C. F. T. Lancaster, of the State Banking Department, charging Friar with embezzlement. He will be given a hearing Wednesday.

Carroll, Here, Sees End Of $6 Theater Tickets

Earl Carroll, producer of musical revues, in Pittsburgh today to visit the grave of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Carroll, predicted the end of the $6 theater seat.

With Mr. Carroll were his two brothers, Norman and James. It was their tenth annual pilgrimage to their mother's grave in Uniondale Cemetery.

The producer, at the William Penn Hotel, discussed his new theater which will be opened in New York in August. He said unemployment has affected the stage, but has benefited cheap entertainment.

He said:

"The legitimate show charging $6 a ticket is doomed. In my new theater the price range will be from 50 cents to $3. There will be no need to cut salaries of the entertainers. I shall be able to give better shows because of the larger number of people I can accommodate."

Coolidge Cites Progress By Ingenuity of People

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., April 10.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

We cannot make any proper estimate of the present or the future without taking into consideration the natural and unconquerable impulse of human nature to improve, produce and progress. Left to itself it will find a way.

Mr. Coolidge

A reliable publication recently stated that last year over 600 new tools were perfected to make the labor of man more effective and more expeditous. The record of new corporations organized in the state of New York for the March quarter was over 6,500. That was 31 more than for the corresponding period in the previous year. A survey of industrial conditions about the metropolitan area of New York City discloses that four years ago there were 34,000 manufacturing plants with an average of 29 employes.

These accomplishments are not the result of huge aggregations of capital and great engineering skill, they represent the inherent creative energy and ingenuity of the people. This is apparent in every workshop and on every farm in the land. That is the spirit of life. Nowhere has it been so predominant as in the United States. It is a guarantee for the future. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

BUTTERFLY'S DIARY CLEWS DROPPED

'Mystery' Theories Fall On Evidence That Robbery Was Strangler's Motive

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 10.—After the public mind had been fed many bizarre and intriguing theories for weeks, the indicated solution today of the celebrated Vivian Gordon murder mystery came as a distinct anti-climax. For, instead of a personage of power or prominence having a hand in the crime, the police have pinned it on a small-time Broadway racketeer, alleged dope peddler and petty thief.

Harry Stein, an ex-convict, is the man the police have formally charged with the slaying of the titian-haired Broadway butterfly, who was mysteriously strangled on the night of February 26 and tossed from an automobile into a thicket in Van Cortlandt Park.

But Stein insists he didn't do it. "Not guilty," was his plea when arraigned after he had been interrogated by police. He will be given a hearing next Tuesday.

With the small-time racketeer accused of the crime, the other—and more sensational—theories fall by the wayside. The moneyed men, the rich play boys of Broadway whom Vivian mentioned in diaries she left behind are out of it.

At the same time, suspicions that police might have had a hand in the crime also are disposed of.

DEATHS OF 5 IN BLIZZARD TOLD ON AIR

Survivors Relate How Snow And Cold Froze Pupils; Hero Plays on Harmonica

LAMAR, Col., April 10.—(AP.)—Bryan Untiedt and his classmates in the Pleasant Hill school district in Towner, Col., probably have attended their classes for the last time until next September.

The shock of the tragedy that claimed five lives last March 28 and the gradual recovery of the 15 survivors who were marooned for 36 hours in the storm-bound bus has caused directors of the school to consider abandonment of spring classes.

Yesterday the children, in a nation-wide broadcast, retold their experiences in the tragic blizzard. The youth who has been acclaimed as the hero of the tragedy—young Untiedt—introduced his school mates to the radio audience, then played a selection on his harmonica.

Bryan, who plans to leave next week for Washington to visit President Hoover, was at his ranch home today, reading letters from all parts of the nation. They accumulated while he was a patient in Maxwell Hospital, Lamar, recovering from frozen feet, legs and arms. He still is bothered by pains in his feet, and physicians have ordered him to remain in bed as much as possible.

LUDEN'S WIFE GIVEN DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—(AP.)—Out of four days spent in describing Hollywood parties, which wrecked a romance, begun "back home in Reading, Pa." Mrs. Lisabeth Seltzer Luden has drawn a divorce from Jack Luden, motion picture actor.

The trial of the case, in which the Ludens mutually charged habitual intoxication and cruelty, ended yesterday. Superior Judge Joseph P. Sproul read a severe lecture to both before granting the woman a decree. The judge said:

"This is a case of too much liquor and too many parties. There is plenty of evidence of cruelty on either side, but I think Mrs. Luden, rather than her husband, is entitled to a divorce. Mr. Luden seems to have been the victim of overindulgence by his wealthy family."

The court ordered that Luden pay alimony of $25 a month for two years. An attorney asked Luden what was the last picture in which he worked. When he replied, "Wild Party," even the judge laughed.

Try Congressman Over Job Selling

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Assistant Attorney General Nugent Dodds said today he would be present at the trial of former Representative Harry Rowbottom, of Indiana, on a charge of selling postoffice appointments. Rowbottom's trial is scheduled to begin on Tuesday in Indianapolis. Dodds said the prosecution would be handled by the district attorney and that he had not planned to take any active part.

2 JURY FIXERS SENT TO JAIL

Harry Southworth, 26, of 2336 Carson street, and Joseph Yayo, 25, of Carrick, convicted of conspiracy to influence a juror, today were fined $50 and sent to jail for nine months by Visiting Judge R. P. Sherwood, of York County.

In pronouncing sentence Judge Sherwood refused a plea for parole for Southworth contained in a petition signed by 300 South Siders. The court said:

"We are living in an age when two things seem rampant—attempt to fix jurors, and extortion in public office. These are things the court cannot overlook."

The prosecution charged that Yayo arranged with Southworth to try to influence the relatives of a juror who was sitting on a case in which Yayo was a defendant.

Yayo and Joseph Perrella, of Carrick, were convicted of assault and battery and another serious charge. On these counts they have not been sentenced.

Wallace Beery Flies To Mother's Burial

ST. LOUIS, April 10.—(INS.)—Wallace Beery, motion picture star, took off from here for Hollywood, Cal., this morning, where he will attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Frances Beery, who died yesterday. Beery was flying his own plane.

COURT UPHOLDS 5-CENT FARE

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—The five-cent fare on both subway and elevated lines of New York City was sustained today by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

The decision was in two suits, one brought by the City of New York, acting through the Transit Commission, against the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, and the other was in the matter of the application of the I. R. T. as petitioner for an order against the Transit Commission and the City of New York.

In the suit brought by the city, the judgment was affirmed. In the second action the application was dismissed.

MacNider, Canadian Minister on Flight

OTTAWA, April 10.—(AP.)—R. J. Manion, Canadian minister of railways and canals, and Col. Hanford MacNider, United States minister to Canada, left by plane today for Washington.

The purpose of the flying visit was not disclosed, but it inspired rumors there may be a discussion at the United States capital on the St. Lawrence waterway project.

Baroness Rothschild Dies in Paris at 84

PARIS, April 10.—(AP.)—Baroness Therese James Rothschild, widow of Baron James Eduard de Rothschild, who died in 1881, died here yesterday at the age of 84. She was a cousin of Baron Edmond de Rothschild, head of the French house of Rothschild, and mother of Henri Rothschild, physician and playwright.

Important Notice To Entrants in the Pershing Contest

Readers of the Sun-Telegraph who followed Gen. Pershing's "Own Story of the World War" with the added purpose of participating in the $3,000 Pershing test must have their answers in the office of the Pershing Contest Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., before midnight tonight. The office of the contest editor will be open until that hour.

All entries placed in the mails, sufficiently covered by postage, early enough to bear today's postmark—April 10th—will be within the rules although they will not be delivered to the office of the contest editor until tomorrow or later.

Entries personally delivered by contestants later than midnight tonight will be disqualified.

KIDNAPERS HOLD RICH BREWER

MONROE, Wis., April 10.—(AP.)—Fred J. Blumer, 50, a Monroe brewer of near beer and former president of the Wisconsin Brewers' Association, today apparently was in the hands of kidnapers who were demanding $150,000 for his release.

to keep an appointment.

His disappearance was followed by an anonymous telephone call from Rockford, Ill., in which a man notified R. C. Wells of the ransom demand. Wells and Charles Strock, with Blumer are owners of the Blumer Products Company, of which Blumer is president.

CERMAK TO FIRE 800 MORE

CHICAGO, April 10.—(INS.)—With 2,220 temporary employes dropped from the municipal payroll by one stroke of his pen, Mayor Anton J. Cermak today continued to scan the payroll list for additional names.

The newly-elected mayor, who began his sweeping campaign yesterday against the administration formerly headed by William Hale Thompson, is expected today to cut 800 more off the payroll.

Most of the employes were those who had been added to the Thompson administration to strengthen the political machine for the recent battle.

The new mayor, who defeated "Big Bill" overwhelmingly in Tuesday's election, will leave next week for a vacation in Florida.

Meanwhile, Thompson, accompanied by a party of friends, is cruising toward the Mississippi River in the interest of waterways development.

Lloyd Recovering From Operation

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—(AP.)—Harold Lloyd was recovering at a hospital here today from an operation for removal of an inflamed appendix. The screen comedian underwent the operation yesterday and last night was reported in "very good condition."

The hospital was the one in which Harold Lloyd, Jr., was born prematurely January 25. The infant was taken home recently weighing seven pounds. He had gained four pounds in an incubator.

ROYAL VISITORS GUARDED IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Extra guards were assigned to protect Prince and Princess Takamatsu, of Japan, today after police received reports that Communists were planning demonstrations of protest.

Arriving on the Aquitania, the royal couple was met at quarantine by representatives of the State Department and the city and brought to Battery Park this afternoon.

Mayor Walker will welcome the Prince at city hall tomorrow morning, and the day will be spent in official entertainment.

Former President Of Guatemala Dies

NEW ORLEANS, April 10—(AP.)—Gen. Lazaro Chacon, 56, former president of Gautemala, died at his home here early today, following a stroke of paralysis.

The General came to New Orleans in December after he had resigned the presidency.

KING RESUMES OFFICIAL TASKS

LONDON, April 10.—(INS.)—King George was permitted today to transact official business, but must remain indoors at Windsor Castle while making "slow but satisfactory progress" in recuperating from an attack of bronchitis.

Normal routine has been resumed at Windsor, the government explaining that His Majesty's three physicians will continue to visit him as a precautionary measure against relapses. Lord Dawson of Penn, Sir Millsom Rees and Dr. Henry Martyn, after a consultation, announced themselves as satisfied with the progress of their royal patient.

Queen Mary has resumed her London shopping tours.

SLAYS WOMAN, ENDS OWN LIFE

ERIE, Pa., April 10.—(INS.)—Climaxing a violent quarrel, Nelson Beyers, 44, former steward at the Erie Eagles lodge, today shot and killed Mrs. Lila Holby, 35, and then turned the gun on himself, dying instantly.

The bodies were found in Mrs. Holby's apartment. Mrs. Holby's body, partly clothed, lay across a bed, while Beyers was found crumpled on the floor.

Mrs. Holby had been shot twice and Beyers once.

WIFE DEAD, HINT SUICIDE PACT

CHICAGO, April 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin C. Simmons, with a bullet wound in her head, was found dying early today in the arms of her husband, a branch manager for Armour & Co.

Simmons said his wife shot herself accidentally. Police expressed a belief that the couple, grieving over the death a year ago of their 3-year-old daughter, Barbara, had made a suicide pact, and that Simmons was discovered by his wife's parents before he could kill himself.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred N. Grant, of Dodge Center, Minn., heard the shot, rushed to the kitchen of the Simmons' Rogers Park home, and found Mrs. Simmons embracing her husband, a bullet wound in her head and a pistol on the floor. She was taken to a hospital, but died within an hour.

The woman's father said his daughter and Simmons attempted suicide several months ago by taking an overdose of sleeping potion. Later, Simmons again tried to end his life, Grant said, by gas.

G. O. P. WORRIES INCREASED

By GEORGE E. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Death, the irresistable, has poked an inquisitive finger into the tangled political situation affecting the Seventy-second Congress and rendered it still more uncertain today which of the two major parties is to organize the next House of Representatives.

The passing of "Nick" Longworth has enormously increased the worries of the Republicans already harassed by doubts and worries. Probably the death of no other single individual could have so profoundly affected the unprecedented situation that exists in the new congress elected last November.

Not only must the Republicans retain the Longworth seat from the first Ohio district to be able to organize, but they also were confronted today with what promises to be a first class row over who is to succeed him as a candidate for Speaker. Either situation is serious enough. From the party standpoint, taken together they form a predicament of monumental proportions and manifold possibilities.

DEATH SECRET TO PAULINA

CINCINNATI, April 10.—(INS.)—While all of Cincinnati knew of and bowed its head in grief today over the passing of Congressman Nicholas Longworth, there was one—a 6-year-old child—to whom the news was yet a secret. She is little Paulina Longworth, daughter of the Speaker.

Relatives said they had determined to await the arrival of Mrs. Longworth, the child's mother, before telling her the sad news.

Little Paulina is attending school here.

Convention Building Afire in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—(AP.)—The uncompleted $5,000,000 convention hall in West Philadelphia caught fire today, and flames soon ate their way through the roof. The fire was believed to have started in scaffolding in the interior of the big building.

Gandhi Has Pants Problem

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

trousers problem by wearing short skirts.

We can hardly blame Dawes for his refusal to go in for satin pantalets. It doesn't sound quite right for a dressing ambassador to yell, "Where are my silkies?"

Probably this etiquet business is responsible for most of the mistakes at the peace conferences. No diplomatic blunder can be censured if you're dressed correctly for the occasion.

Just when we were becoming accustomed to the exingencies of prosperity the Treasury threatens us with a non-partisan tax increase.

The whole difficulty is with the annual budget. The only way to make both ends meet is to bend the budget in the middle.

The fiscal year is figured from June to June on the brightly colored calendars and this June there will be a deficit that will knock your hat off the rack.

We are only $700,000,000 in the pink and going south like a busted dumbwaiter.

That means new taxes more economy, neater evasions and another bath in red ink. It also makes us a nation of great thinkers. The government thinks it will collect, and your lawyer thinks it won't.

There is nothing to worry about in this situation. A government's stability is based on its borrowing power. Instead of paying the rent you sign another lease.

All governments are up to the ears in debt and listening for more.

What we need is a dive into the sinking fund. We can balance the books by tearing out the wrong pages.

The administration does not want to raise the tax rate and Andy Mellon can solve the rebus by printing new certificates. When you have a dollar bill in your pocket that is only a piece of paper.

It means that there is a dollar in silver in the Treasury. But what we want to do is to get Andy to reverse the process.

When there is a silver dollar in the Treasury can Andy guarantee that we have the twin paper in our pocket?

That's what we would call justifiable finance in moments of great stress.

When you've got all those certificates in one haypile you have got the national budget. It looks like a terrific load but it never stops the sun from rising on schedule.

We've been in worse fixes before and we've always managed to get the pitch hot in time.

And while it is not the fault of this administration, nor of Coolidge's, we think the Republicans could show their smartness by losing the next election and be in a spot to blame it on the Democrats for a while.

private car of Charles Clark, son of the former Montana senator, occupied by Mrs. Longworth and other members of the funeral party.

Accompanying the widow, who rushed here from Washington Wednesday when she learned of the seriousness of her husband's illness, was Mrs. James F. Curtis, her hostess here at whose home Mr. Longworth contracted pneumonia; Col. Campbell B. Hodges, military aide to President Hoover and his representative on the funeral trip; Kermit and Archibald Roosevelt, Mrs. Longworth's brothers, and several others.

Mr. Longworth for several years had been in the habit of coming to this Carolina resort for sunshine and recreation after finishing his work in Congress. He came here this year on March 30, and a few days later contracted a severe cold which resulted in the fatal pneumonia.

HOOVER TO ATTEND

Prominent Washington officials, including President Hoover and many of Mr. Longworth's colleagues, will attend the funeral in Cincinnati. They will arrive on a special train from Washington tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., Mrs. Longworth's mother, and her sister, Mrs. Ethel Roosevelt Derby, will attend the funeral also. The services will be held in Christ Episcopal Church, and will, according to Mrs. Longworth's plan, be extremely simple.

CAPITAL SHOCKED

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—President and Mrs. Hoover, deeply affected by the death of Speaker Nicholas Longworth, today prepared to lead a host of mourners to Cincinnati for the funeral.

A pall had settled over official Washington, shocked by the sudden passing of one of the best-known and most-loved figures in the capital in the last generation.

A Congressional party of more than 100 was to leave here at 6:30 p. m., arriving in Cincinnati for the funeral services tomorrow. It included all members of the Ohio House delegation, at least one member from the other 47 states, and 12 Senators.

President and Mrs. Hoover, Vice-President Curtis, Joel T. Boone, White House physician; Secretaries Newton and Joslin, military aides and cabinet members, are to leave on the Baltimore and Ohio tonight.

The active pallbearers for the funeral will be relatives of the Speaker, including Kermit and Archie Roosevelt, Buckner Wallingford, of Cincinnati, a brother-in-law of Mr. Longworth, and his three sons, Landen, Buckner, Jr., and Nicholas.

HONORARY PALLBEARERS

Col. William Donovan, E. R. Grasselli, Gen. Clarence C. Williams, Cleveland Perkins, John F. Wilkins, Percy Pyne, Henry Spencer, Joseph Leiter, Postmaster Gen. Walter F. Brown, Former Speaker Frederick H. Gillett, Walter Herrmann, Will Rodgers, William F. Wiley, Former Senator James W. Wadsworth, Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, R. Livington Beeckman, Charles Porterfield Light, Efrem Zimbalist, R. L. Agassiz, Quincy A. Shaw, Wallace Goodrich, Thomas Nelson Perkins, Frederick Winthrop, C. Bascom Slemp, Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, Judge John F. Carew, Gen. Charles L. McCawley, Woodbury Blair, Count Laszlo Szechenyi, Fulton Cutting, Clarence F. Mackey, S. V. R. Crosby, White House Secretary Walter H. Newton, Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Federal Tariff Commission, Leland Harrison, George Garrett, Fleming Newbold, Judge Finis J. Garrett, John W. Geary, Albert Lasker, and the following members of the House:

Isaac Bacharach, Richard Aldrich, Robert L. Bacon, John N. Gardner, Bertrand H. Snell, Charles R. Crist, Sam Rayburn, John O. Tilson, John McDuffie, and Will R. Wood.

CINCINNATI MOURNS

CINCINNATI, O., April 10.—(INS.)—Wrapped in a cloak of mourning, Cincinnati today prepared to pay a final tribute to one of its most beloved sons—Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Funeral services for Mr. Longworth will be held at Christ Episcopal Church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will take place in the Longworth family lot at Spring Grove Cemetery.

The final detailed funeral preparations for Mr. Longworth were being made today at the home of the Speaker's sister, Mrs. Buckner A. Wallingford, here. Miss Mildred E. Reeves, secretary to Mr. Longworth, was to arrive today to assist in the arrangements.

Super-Scrap Book Tells History Of Longworth

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—A history of Nicholas Longworth, by hundreds of authors, was left behind by the late speaker.

It was a super-scrap book of newspaper clippings covering 35 years of his personal and political career from his beginning as a member of the Cincinnati school board to the close of six years as speaker.

Miss Mildred E. Reeves, who has had the keeping of the scrap book in charge for 15 years, estimated that there are 80 large volumes of the pasted clippings. Most of them are stored in his Cincinnati home. She said:

"The stories on his death and funeral will close the series."

60 Cases Reported For City Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever 8, diphtheria 2, measles 14, whooping cough 4, mumps 11, chickenpox 13, pneumonia 7 and erysipelas 1.

WOMAN JAILS, FREES MATE

Arrested on his wife's complaint, Michael Vido, 42, of 2736 Shelby way, refused to post a forfeit for himself when he learned his wife wanted him out, according to police.

Police said they were called to the Vido home last night by his wife, Mary, who told them her husband was abusing her. Michael was en route to the police station when his wife called and asked that he be released. Vido declined to post $25 of the $108 he had with him for a forfeit, declaring that since his wife caused his arrest, she ought to borrow the money to get him out, according to police.

Mrs. Vido raised the money and her husband marched out of the police station with his bankroll intact.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

People I've Met.

JAMES J. WALKER, Mayor of the City of New York. That's a tough job for any man. The best you can get is the worst. He honestly wants to do his level best for the community. He revels in the remarkable popularity that has always been his in the past. If anything happens to him in the pending investigation, he will age 20 years in the next one.

It is impossible to dislike Jimmy Walker. Once you have met him, he remains your friend. He can make the greatest speech you have ever heard at a moment's notice. He is close to the man on the street because he likes to feel that he is the man on the street. But when I sum the entire thing up I feel that Jimmy missed his real vocation. He should have been an actor.

What Walker was once a songwriter everybody knows. His best known effort was "Will You Love Me in December as You Did in May?" Many people think that was his one and only effort. Such is not the case.

Back in 1907, Jimmy wrote "Black Jim," which was one of the first mammy songs. I hope the investigating committee doesn't hear about that mammy song. They'd never give Jimmy an even break then.

Still others of the Walker collection were "In the Valley Where My Sally Said Goodbye," "The Moth and the Flame," "Rambling Rose," "After They Gather the Hay," "I Like Your Way" and "Kiss All the Girls for Me." It was in the last-named number that our charming Mayor employed the famous line: "My Mother Is My Best Pal After All."

Thus it was about 24 years ago that James J. Walker turned from the scales of music to the scales of justice. After that you know his story as well as I do. He scaled the heights to become New York's Mayor, a great political figure, a national character—and a pretty lonesome gus.

Suddenly, just when it seemed certain that Walker could remain Mayor just as long as he pleased, things began to break against him. Charges of corruption in the magistrates' courts started the ball rolling. Then came the notorious vice squad investigation. Scandal after scandal popped up in the administration.

Somehow the entire thing doesn't seem quite fair to me. As a Mayor, he has been a fascinating figure. He has accomplished something of a modern miracle by injecting a little humor into the deadly dullness of political routine.

If he does take a drink on occasion, what of that? If he happens to be attracted by a pretty lady, what of that? When we Americans begin to rap a man for those habits, just about nine-tenths of the male population will go down with the ship.

I haven't many occasions to be with the Mayor. He is no particularly good friend of mine, although he always has been swell in all his dealings with me. Therefore, when I say that he is lonesome or that he should have been an actor, I am merely making some personal observations.

Although I have never asked him, I know full well that Jimmy would reply to one question just as so many other Broadwayites have always replied to it. Ask them where they would like to be and the answer is almost inevitable.

"I'd like to be anywhere," they will say, "except where I am. I'd like to be in some peaceful little spot many miles from Broadway. But what can I do? I find it impossible to get away from the racket."

I think that Jimmy Walker must often feel the same way. It would, of course, be impossible to leave now. He has the biggest fight of his career on his hands. And exactly how it will turn out no one can say.

But in the middle of all this excitement and intrigue — I'm pretty sure that Jimmy must sit back on several occasions, sigh heavily and wish he were just about a million miles from the city of New York.

And then, when he was there, he could sit back, gaze up at the stars, sigh heavily and wish he was back in the city of New York once again. . . .

COUNTESS CATHCART. I just happened to gaze over an old magazine and found her name there.

Remember the Cathcart yarn? That was a story for your whiskers, my hearties. By some strange process of reasoning, the United States decided to bar Vera, Countess of Cathcart, from the United States. She had confessed an attachment with the Earl of Craven and the technical ground for not admitting her was "moral turpitude."

It took Vera exactly 13 days to convince the authorities that other women had been admitted to America without the convenience of a spotless past. The English finally got back at us for that episode, you know. They barred Harry K. Thaw without giving any reason at all.

At any rate, Vera had come to this country to produce her own play. It was a piece of junk called "Ashes." I wasn't working on the original story but I did get around to see her when the play finally went into rehearsal. And I liked her quite well.

For a countess, Vera was a pretty regular scout. Her face would never cop any prizes in a beauty competition, but she had a certain definite charm.

The next time I saw Vera was on the opening night of her play. The audience assembled did not come to cheer the lady. They came there with avowed purpose of giving her the Bronx salute as soon as possible. In other words, they never gave her a chance.

When the curtain went up, the crowd laughed. When Vera stepped on the stage in the leading role, she was applauded in kidding fashion. The Countess was as nervous as Walter Winchell on horseback. But those people—like Winchell's horse—gave her no rest.

As time wore on, "Ashes" grew worse, if possible. The audience did nothing to restrain itself now. Funny or unfunny, the customers laughed at every line. Vera was a terrible actress, but she refused to quit. As she went on struggling that opening night, she reminded of a beaten prizefighter who refuses to stay down no matter how often he is hit. It was sameness in a background of tragedy.

"Ashes," of course, never got anywhere. It was a first-class argument against the theory that the public will always pay to see a notorious person. The play closed shortly after, and the Countess went back to more hospitable shores.

I'm glad I thought of her name for this column. I hope she has had a little better break from life since 1926. Because, after that opening night, I knew she had plenty of heart.

And, countess or scrubwoman, the dame that's game deserves a break. . . .

No proposal will be considered unless accompanied by a CERTIFIED CHECK to the order of the State Treasurer, or by a BOND in accordance with instructions submitted with schedules.

Proposal schedules must be executed in accordance with instructions, and on blanks which will be furnished upon application to the Secretary.

JAMES F. MALONE, Secretary,
Department of Property and Supplies.

WESTINGHOUSE MEDALS GIVEN

Awards were presented last night to 41 apprentice and intermediate students in the trades apprentice course and the intermediate course of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. The awards were made at a dinner in the auditorium in East Pittsburgh.

Gold, silver and bronze medals were presented to the three winners in each division. In addition, a gold medal was presented to W. F. Hughes, 21, of Nemacolin, Greene County, as the outstanding student of the maintenance course.

Near Beer Sale Voted Down in Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 10. (AP.) The temperance committee of the Alabama House of Representatives voted to return an adverse report on a bill to legalize the sale of "near beer" in the state.

The bill provided for repeal of the Alabama statute which prohibits the possession or sale of any beverage that "looks like, tastes like, or smells like beer," and would have placed a tax of three cents per pint on all cereal beverages for the benefit of the state educational trust fund.

Porcupine Mystery Puzzles Munhall

While hunters finally identified it as a porcupine, Munhall police today were attempting to learn how the animal happened to seek refuge in the Jacobson and Gordon Garage, 540 East Eighth avenue, Munhall. George Johnson, Negro attendant, trapped the porcupine in a truck when it ran into the garage early today.

McKees Rocks Man Killed by Locomotive

Struck by a shifting engine on the Pittsburgh, Chartiers and Youghiogheny Railroad in McKees Rocks, Henry Sanders, 66, of Boquet street, McKees Rocks, was killed early today. Sanders was crossing the railroad tracks en route to work when struck.

LODGE RUM CASE RULING HELD UP

A hearing was held before Judge Nelson McVicar in an injunction suit against the Fraternal Order of Eagles, No. 282, of Erie, in which violations of the prohibition law on the lodge premises were alleged. The court reserved decision. Attorney Miles B. Kitts, of Erie, told the court plans are under way to sell the Eagle lodge property to the Young Women's Christian Association.

At the March term of court at Erie the lodge was fined $500 and Edward Viet, steward, was sentenced three months to jail, for violating the dry law.

You'll like this smart new PONTIAC . . . particularly at its new low price $759* DELIVERED EQUIPPED

Buying a car on price alone is unwise, of course. Selecting mainly by any other feature is equally uncertain. That is why Pontiac likes to give you as many plain facts as you will read. Putting these together as best suits yourself—checking them against past experience—you can quickly decide the question of value. . . .

BODIES BY FISHER—Those three words might be ample indication of body style, comfort and safety, except that Fisher craftsmen are continually bettering their own high standards. In the new Pontiac bodies they have attained remarkable new insulation against outside heat, cold and noise. The upholstery, of genuine whipcord or mohair, combines good taste with the wearing qualities which help so much to maintain a car's value. And ample roominess assures comfort to all in the car.

NEW 60 H. P. ENGINE—Power alone never meant satisfactory performance in a motor car. Pontiac engineers have attained fine-car smoothness along with power more than ample for all driving needs and desires. After all, the motor is the heart of the car—and Pontiac's motor is superbly dependable.

CHASSIS CUSHIONED WITH RUBBER—At more than 40 points where road shocks are ordinarily registered, the Pontiac chassis is cushioned with specially processed rubber. Riding ease is notably increased—also the car's steadiness on the road. The rubber-cushioned spring shackles which form part of this insulation system not only add to comfort but greatly prolong the performance life of the car.

LARGE, POWERFUL BRAKES—In any emergency—whether it's a dog crossing a country road or a careless motorist "pulling out" from a city curb—the Pontiac driver has full control. Surely, evenly, powerfully, the big brakes grip all four wheels.

These are just a few of Pontiac's features and advantages. Others include five wire wheels as standard equipment; Lovejoy shock absorbers; heavy single-bar bumpers; inbuilt radiator screen; fender indicator lamps.

Naturally you can't know how well Pontiac combines these fine-car features until you have driven the car. A demonstration will be arranged at your convenience.

* This is the price of the 2-door Sedan or Coupe delivered to you in Pittsburgh and equipped ready for use.

Equipment includes front and rear bumpers, shock absorbers, five wire wheels, and extra tire, tube and tire lock. Other models are priced as follows: Sport Coupe, $799. 4-door Sedan or Convertible Coupe, $829: Custom Sedan, $869.

GANDHI PLEADS FOR 'LIBERTY'

AHMADABAD, India, April 10.—(AP.)—Mahatma Gandhi arrived here today from Amritsar with a white cloth wrapped around his head, a departure from custom which he explained with the statement that he still was suffering from fever.

He pleaded with the huge crowd which met him not to kill him with love. He said:

"A few months ago I was a prisoner of the government; now I am a prisoner of the people."

He struggled to free himself from the multitude of his partisans.

If his health permits he will make a three-day speaking tour of the Surat and Gujerat districts to urge the peasants to resume payment of taxes in accordance with the terms of the new Delhi truce.

Baby Scalded by Tea, Taken to Hospital

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 10.—Sarah Belle Waggle, year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Waggle, of Juniata, was taken to Connellsville Hospital yesterday when her face and chest were scalded by hot tea, spilled on her at home.

OBITUARIES

Haggerty Funeral.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning for Mrs. Irene Morris Haggerty, 37, wife of Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, who died Wednesday in her home at 352 Melwood street. The services will be held at 10:45 o'clock in St. Paul's Cathedral and burial will be in Calvary Cemetery. She was a life long resident of Pittsburgh and was a member of the Cathedral. Besides her husband she leaves three brothers and two sisters.

Thomas J. Blair.

Thomas J. Blair, of 5537 Fifth avenue, renting agent for the Jenkins Arcade, died in Atlantic City yesterday. Mr. Blair, one of the best known real estate men in the city, had gone to Atlantic City to regain his health. He will be buried in Franklin, Pa. Mr. Blair for several years was engaged in real estate business in McKeesport, going from there to New York. Later he came to Pittsburgh and was instrumental in having the Jenkins Arcade erected, assuming the renting agency when it was completed. He was a member of the Duquesne Club, the Pittsburgh Press Club and the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board.

Mrs. Martha Dithridge.

Mrs. Martha Black Dithridge, 91, widow of Edward D. Dithridge, died last night in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles R. Mitchell 219 Thorn street, Sewickley. Mrs. Dithridge was a former teacher in the old Grant School. Her husband was a pioneer glass manufacturer in Pittsburgh. She leaves three sons, Edward P. Dithridge, of Port Hope, Can., J. Duncan Dithridge, of New York, and W. L. Dithridge, of Sewickley; her daughter, Mrs. Mitchell, and a sister, Mrs. R. Munroe.

Alfred Callender.

Funeral services for Alfred Callender, operating manager of the Union Trust Building, Frick Building and Annex Building, who died Wednesday, will be held tomorrow afternoon from the T. P. Hershberger & Son funeral chapel, South Main street, West End. Mr. Callender was a director of the Chartiers Heights Country Club, vice president and director of the Building Owners' and Managers' Association, of Pittsburgh, a member of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and the National Travel Club. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Cecelia Thubron Callender; two brothers, James and Fredrick Callender, and a sister, Jennie Callender.

Mrs. Mary A. Krouse.

Mrs. Mary Ann Krouse, 52, widow of Josiah Krouse, died last night in her home, 5538 Forbes street. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. W. E. Dorrance and Mrs. W. D. Scheurer, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. E. Paul Whetstone, of Everett, Pa., and a son, James Arthur Krouse, of Pittsburgh. Funeral services will be held Sunday night in her residence.

SLAIN BANDIT'S WIDOW QUIZZED

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—Mrs. Mary Anne Hayes, widow of Joseph Jervis Hayes, 30, alias Tracey Cartwright, of Chicago, carrying her infant son, "Jimmie," was being questioned today while the body of her husband lay at a morgue in Upper Marlboro, Md.

He was found dead on the floor of the First National Bank in Upper Marlboro yesterday after two bandits, one carrying a submachine gun and the other a pistol, attempted to rob Claude H. Owen, the cashier. Instead of turning over his money he opened fire upon the two with an automatic pistol. He identified Hayes as one of the would-be robbers. His companion escaped in an automobile in which a third man waited.

Police obtained little information from the widow about her husband's recent activity and it is expected she will be released so she can bury him. They had been living here only a short time.

INNER MISSION PLANS PUSHED

Fifty Lutheran ministers of the Pittsburgh district were dinner guests last night of William P. Siebert, president of the Inner Mission Society, at the Inner Mission conference held in the First Lutheran Church, Grant street. The clergymen discussed plans for a roll call, to be held April 25.

The Rev. Dr. J. W. Claudy, executive secretary of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches, spoke on "The Place of the Inner Mission in Pittsburgh Religious Work." Other speakers were Miss Henrietta Lund, the Rev. William A. Logan, editor of the Lutheran Monthly; the Rev. L. O. Burry and the Rev. S. C. Michelfelder, superintendent of the society.

A. J. Stone, Erie Rail Chief, to Wed

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—(AP.)—Albert James Stone, vice president and general manager of the Erie Railway, and Miss Keith Hayden, both of New York, yesterday filed notices of intention to wed.

Stone gave his age as 58, and his address as New York City. Miss Hayden said she was 34, and gave the same address. Stone had been married once. He said he and Miss Hayden would be married in "about 10 days."

$7,000 Awarded Man In Auto Crash Suit

A verdict of $7,000 damages in favor of Joe Cuteri, of Merrittstown, Fayette County, for injuries in a crossing accident, was awarded by a jury in Common Pleas Court in his suit against the West Penn Railways Company. His automobile was struck by an electric train March 3, 1928, at a crossing near Merrittstown, and hurled over an embankment, the suit averred.

Deafness

STORK'S VISIT CHEERS CREW OF NAUTILUS

Son Born to Mechanic's Wife, Incident Seen as Omen of Success on Trip to Pole

By HERMAN GIESKE

YONKERS, N. Y., April 10.—All's well now aboard the trans-Polar submarine, Nautilus, for the household of a member of the crew has been visited by the stork! That, say the seafaring men, is a sure omen of success.

Van Stephens, 42, motor mechanic of the expedition, is the proud father, all the crew wanted to provide a name for the little one, a girl, who arrived at Stephen's home, Milford, Conn., on Easter Sunday.

The name they suggested was "Nautilus," but Stephens demurred saying:

"The little baby had been expected for some time, and we'd already decided to give the name Gerald or Geraldine, as the case might prove to be."

MECHANICAL EXPERT

So Geraldine it is, but to the Nautilus crew she will always be Miss Geraldine N. Stephens, mascot of the expedition.

Neither submarines nor babies in his household are any novelty to Motor Mechanic Stephen. He has four others: Frances, 12; Caroline, 10; Gilberta, 8, and Robert, 4.

They all dwell with their mother in Milford, while Stephens goes roaming the seven seas.

One of the most important men in the expedition is Stephens, who is a mechanical expert. He will be in charge of the aeration system of the Nautilus when she is submerged beneath the Arctic ice pack.

That means Stephens must be constantly on guard at the air compressor mechanism in the aft compartment. For fresh air the Nautilus crew must have, or die.

THRILLING EXPERIENCES

Normally, Stephens will aerate the Nautilus every four or five hours while the boat is submerged. When the boat goes down it contains 140 cubic feet of air compressed at 2,500 pounds pressure. The process of reaeration consumes only about 20 or 30 pounds of that pressure.

That is why the Nautilus could remain submerged without anyone dying, for five to six days.

In the Navy maneuvers in the Atlantic, off Panama in 1917, Stephens had a close call aboard the C-5. Submerged at a depth of 90 feet, the C-5 was swimming along, undisturbed by a violent storm raging overhead.

Suddenly the boat ran headlong into the submerged breakwater. Her bow was battered, but fortunately she took no water, but was forced to remain submerged all night, while on top of the ocean frantic seamen vainly searched and signaled for her. The next day she floated to the top like a bubble.

So if the Nautilus does hit a submerged iceberg, Stephens will be one of the coolest men aboard, for, better than an ordinary submarine, the Nautilus has a hydraulic, pneumatic bowsprit to absorb such shocks. Stephens has a plain explanation as to why he's going. He says:

"I like submarines. I'm curious to see what it will be like at the North Pole."

FRIENDS HONOR NEWS WRITER

Thomas Morgan, former Pittsburgh newspaperman, who is now Rome correspondent of the United Press, was honor guest last night at a testimonial dinner held in Greencastle Inn, Babcock boulevard. Newspapermen, political leaders and representatives of the Italian consular service attended the dinner, given by Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, who was Mr. Morgan's guest during a recent visit to Rome. Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell was toastmaster.

Dust Storm Makes Lights On Autos Necessary

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., April 10.—(AP.)—A severe dust storm visited Eastern South Dakota, causing no damage except for the inconvenience.

Automobiles ran with headlights turned on to prevent collisions in the blinding dust clouds.

Farmers Oil Mules, Fight Gnat Scourge

CLARKSDALE, Miss., April 10.—(AP.)—Farmers built smudge fires and oiled their mules along the Mississippi delta today in an effort to save them from a scourge of buffalo gnats that have so far slain a thousand of the animals in this state, Louisiana and Arkansas.

CHERRY BLOOM TRIP OUTLINED

The Japanese cherry trees, which attract thousands of visitors to Washington each year, are expected to be in bloom Saturday and Sunday, the Pittsburgh Motor Club was notified.

The best route to Washington, outlined by the Motor Club, will take motorists from Pittsburgh to Chambersburg on U. S. Route 30; then to Hagerstown, Md., on U. S. Route 11. From Hagerstown to Fredericksburg, the National Highway, U. S. Route 40 is used, and the same route is recommended from Fredericksburg to the capital.

COYNE CONFERS WITH M'GOVERN

Tongues in the Courthouse are wagging today as a result of the visit of State Senator James J. Coyne to the office of Commissioner C. C. McGovern yesterday.

The two conferred on legislation pending in Harrisburg which would liberalize the tax-paying qualifications of voters. Neither conferee would announce the result of the meeting.

The visit again started talk that Coyne is a prospective candidate for county commissioner.

Coyne said he talked with McGovern about two bills pending in Harrisburg.

The Senate has passed the Coyne bill, permitting voters to be assessed until 60 days before a primary.

DIET LECTURER FREED ON BOND

Charles R. Cox was at liberty today under $1,000 bond pending a grand jury investigation of charges that he practiced medicine without a state license. Cox, arrested Tuesday during a lecture in the Fort Pitt Hotel on the subject of dieting, was arraigned yesterday before Alderman Thomas D. Jones.

Mrs. Louise M. Calhoun, of 6203 Monitor street, was one of the principal witnesses against the accused. Other witnesses included Miss Nellie O'Donnell, of 71 Beltzhoover avenue, and Miss Sara McClanahan, of 2519 Webster avenue. Cox was represented by Attorney Peter M. Cancelliere; the state was represented by David Glick, special deputy attorney general.

Grotto to Sponsor Smoker at Bellevue

Islam Grotto will sponsor a neighborhood smoker and entertainment at Bellevue Masonic Hall tonight. Masons from Avalon, Bellevue, Emsworth, Ben Avon and West View have been invited. Islam's officers, Walter F. Weberg, monarch; J. Clifford Franz, chief justice; Ralph H. Axthelm, master of ceremonies, and Fred C. Hopton, veiled prophet, will be in attendance. This meeting will be in charge of the representatives of that district.

Gold Discovered By Golf Club's Ditch Diggers

DETROIT, April 10.—(INS)—Gold-bearing rock, assaying $400 a ton, has been discovered on the grounds of the fashionable Hawthorne Valley Golf Club, near here.

The rock was uncovered by workmen digging a ditch for a water main. Extension of the ditch came to an abrupt halt while workmen dug deeper, hoping to find more of the valuable rock.

Possibility of a gold mine being discovered under the clubhouse lawn was discounted by Roy H. Montgomery, president of the club.

Youth Kills Himself In Fiancee's Grave

LARAMIE, Wyo., April 10.—(INS)—Standing in the grave of his sweetheart, Esthel Frisbey, 22, today fired a bullet through his head and died. He had been despondent since the death of his fiancee last week.

BID INJUNCTION DISMISSED

Application for an injunction to restrain the County Commissioners from awarding a contract for 550 steel lockers for the county golf courses to other than the lowest bidder was denied today by Judge Sylvester J. Snee in Common Pleas Court before whom the petition was heard.

The action, termed a taxpayer's suit, was filed by Sallie Greenwood and sought to prevent the awarding of the locker contract to the Lyon Metal Products Company whose bid of $2,392.50 was $110 higher than the lowest bidder, the Northwestern Steel Products Company. The Northwestern Steel Products Company was refused the contract because it did not meet the contract specifications.

Judge Snee in dismissing the suit placed the costs on the plaintiff.

BIRTH CONTROL BILL INDORSED

Indorsing the birth control bill now in committee in the House, letters are being dispatched to the Allegheny County representatives at Harrisburg by the social service commission of the Pittsburgh conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, it was announced today.

Many prominent members of the church, whose membership numbers approximately 125,000, are sending letters urging passage of the proposed legislation, which would permit physicians to give advice and instructions, and authorize the sale of drugs and appliances for birth control. The bill has been indorsed by the Pennsylvania Birth Control Federation.

The letters point out that birth control legislation has been approved by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to make the "assumption of parenthood a consecration and not an accident."

Unbelievable
but true!

Amazing new method from Paris trains a natural, lasting wave in your hair

It is true! Absolutely!

You can train your own hair, at home, into an alluring deep wave that is natural and lasting! A wave that actually deepens after a hot bath, a shampoo, a swim, or in rain!

After ten years astounding success in Paris, the marvelous lotion, La Gerardine, was brought to America. Now, 75,000 American women have become enthusiastic users of La Gerardine.

If you prefer, your own hairdresser can give you the treatment. More than 3,000 leading beauty shops endorse and use La Gerardine for their patrons. "Permanent wave" specialists recommend La Gerardine as a setting lotion, for it increases the life and beauty of the wave.

La Gerardine contains no alcohol, glycerine or oil and is neither sticky nor drying. It is made from rare herbs, beneficial to the hair and scalp. It does not affect the color of any type of hair.

Begin today to develop your natural, lasting wave with La Gerardine. At leading department and drug stores—$2.00 the bottle.

Follow the treatments faithfully and your natural wave will grow deeper until it becomes lasting.

Complete home treatment kit including regular $2.00 bottle of La Gerardine, imported application brush, six hard rubber combs and special atomizer; price $3.50.

V. E. Meadows, international authority on beauty, uses La Gerardine and recommends it. "Avoid water—thick, gummy solutions—and excessive heat. Train and develop your wave naturally; La Gerardine meets all requirements," says Mr. Meadows.

Mr. V. E. Meadows, noted authority on beauty culture, recommends La Gerardine.

CITY MAY LOSE GLIDER CONTEST

Pittsburgh will have to bid against Elmira, N. Y. and New York City if it wants the 1931 national glider contest Donald F. Walker, manager of the National Glider Association, declared yesterday.

Mr. Walker, here on invitation of Gus Haller, Mt. Lebanon glider enthusiast and holder of several national and world records in motorless flying, spoke at the weekly luncheon of the Aero Club in the William Penn Hotel.

He praised Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania as ideal for glider competition and recited a brief outline of last years meet at Elmira where Haller, competing for the first time in this country, took nearly all the honors in a glider of German design. Haller is building ships of the type in Mt. Lebanon, one of his models being on exhibit in the Chamber of Commerce Automotive Show at the present time.

GYM EXHIBIT AT MUNHALL

Munhall High School students will have a physical education demonstration in their gymnasium this evening at 7:30 p. m., under the direction of Miss Helen Upton and T. M. Rutter, instructors.

The demonstration will open with a grand march of all participants, followed by a mass calisthenic drill of freshman boys and girls; sophomore girls' balloon drill; basketball drill by boys; boys and girls' gymnasium games and junior girls' clog dance.

A boys' tumbling act will precede a wreath drill by senior girls, to be followed by hand apparatus drill by boys; a clown dance, a natural dance by girls and a pyramid by boys.

O.N.U. Alumni Plans Founder's Day Meet

The Ohio Northern University Alumni Association, Pittsburgh chapter, will hold its annual founder's day dinner in honor of Henry Solomon Lehr, Monday night at Fort Pitt Hotel. Dr. Robert Williams, president of the university, will be the principal speaker. Following his address, officers of the chapter will be elected.

3 Minds With But a Single Thought

"To get to the Bathroom Before the Hot Water Gives Out" . . .

Who gets the hot water? Certainly not all three, because there is not enough to go around, and no one has sufficient time to wait around while the lazy, inefficient water heater in the basement replenishes its supply . . . So it resolves itself down to a race of, "who gets there first" and those that come in either second or third have to bathe in cold water or do without.

$10 For Your Old Water Heater

Why not trade in your old water heater on either an Equitable Automatic or Kompak. No matter if the whole family are washing, shaving or bathing at the same time there will be enough for everybody . . . And clean, rust-free hot water too because they are of all-copper construction and will not corrode.

MOTHER FIGHTS TO KEEP SON

A fight to retain custody of her 4-year-old son was carried to the Superior Court yesterday by Mrs. Mary Miller, who appealed from an order by Judge Ambrose B. Reid in Common Pleas Court in a habeas corpus action by her husband, Joseph T. Miller.

Judge Reid ordered that the child, Joseph Francis Miller, be placed in the custody of Mrs. L. R. Russell, Millvale, sister of Miller with whom he lives, for six months from April 1 each year for the next two years. The other six months of each year custody is awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sloop, 3526 Whitney street, Mrs. Miller's parents.

The order was entered last month. This week a petition was filed by Mrs. Russell alleging she was refused custody of the boy and asking that Mrs. Miller and her mother be adjudged in contempt. A rule was granted with a hearing fixed for tomorrow. Miller had averred his wife neglected the boy and had denied him permission to see him. They separated February 24, 1930.

Judge James B. Drew granted a supersedeas and fixed argument on the appeal for the April session of the Superior Court here.

Real Estate

The Freehold Real Estate Company has sold for Irvin S. Rauch to Albert A. Frey a stone bungalow in Braddock road, Edgewood Acres plan, Forest Hills, for $16,000. In the same plan a two-story brick dwelling in Cascade road has been sold by Rollinger and Shaffer to Leslie R. Allison. The Freehold Real Estate Company also consummated this sale. The same brokers have sold for the East Wilkinsburg Improvement Company to Herbert J. Graham, a building lot in Roxburg road, Edgewood Acres.

Robert J. Brownlee, Dormont and Mt. Lebanon realtor, has sold for John Larson, builder, to J. R. List a new all-brick, English type home containing eight rooms, two baths and a two-car garage, in Beverly road, Mt. Lebanon, for $15,800. The lot measures 50x125 feet.

A brick home at 336 Forty-second street, Lawrenceville, has been purchased by Karoline Plank from Adam Ramski for a private consideration, according to the Gribbin Company, realtors.

The Keystone Development and Home Building Company, builders and developers of the Paul plan, Brookline, has completed several model homes in Lamarido avenue, near Pioneer avenue, that are now open for inspection. S. S. Klein, president of the company, reports that he has already sold several of the homes and is constructing many more.

The Porter and MacDowell Company, renting agents for the Standard Life Building, have rented 39 offices this spring. The building, according to the agents, is now 95 per cent occupied.

The weekly report of C. C. C. Stotler, secretary-treasurer of the Title Guaranty Company, shows that a total of 357 mortgages, valued at $1,570,132.27, were placed on record from April 2 to, and including, April 8; 310 of this total were straight mortgages with a valuation of $1,367,007.47. The remaining 47, according to the report, were purchase money mortgages and had a total value of $203,124.80. Most of the mortgages went to building and loan associations and corporations.

Applications for building permits follow:

Fourth Ward—A. Silverman and S. Linton, concrete-block building, 532 Boulevard of Allies, $3,000.

Eleventh Ward—A. E. Siedle, alterations, 6011-13 Penn avenue, $25,000.

Fourteenth Ward—George D. Schreibeis, brick dwelling and garage, 6405 Wilkins avenue, $7,500.

Sixteenth Ward—J. A. Heinz, frame extension, 137 Pine street, $1,200.

Eighteenth Ward—J. Schulte, alterations, 364 Bailey avenue, $1,200.

Shriners to Give Show for Children

Children of the members of Syria Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at a motion picture show in Syria Mosque. Mothers of the children have been invited to attend. The show was arranged by Potentate Thomas M. Heard, Jr., and will be in charge of the entertainment committee.

WABASH BRIDGE OPPOSED FOR VEHICLES

City Planning Body Asks Changes to Speed Traffic; Harrisburg Bill Delayed

Objection to the use of the Wabash Railroad property as a new traffic artery unless certain suggestions are carried out was made today by the Citizens Committee on City Plan, of which R. B. Mellon is vice president and Marcus Aaron, Arthur E. Braun, W. S. Arbuthnot and Howard Heinz, among others, are directors.

In its publication, Progress, the committee offers a preliminary analysis of the County Commissioners' plan to purchase the Wabash property and create a new outlet to the South Side.

The committee implies that the conditions which require the new artery for traffic relief were created by the congestion which exists on the south end of the Liberty Tubes. The committee suggests that this condition at the tubes was foreseen and the failure to correct was a serious error.

It is pointed out that the Wabash tunnel would allow for only one lane of traffic each way and that this condition invites catastrophe.

CHANGES ASKED

The committee suggests giving over the two-lane width between the trusses of the Wabash bridge to a one-way movement and constructing a new two-lane roadway for the opposite movement on either side of the bridge.

The committee points out several weaknesses in the plan to lower the elevated right-of-way to form a ramp at Fourth avenue and predicts that Liberty avenue traffic would delay, and be delayed by, the bridge traffic at Fourth avenue. Several disadvantages to the use of the Wabash Building as a traffic island also are cited.

Purchase of the $3,000,000 Wabash Tunnel by the County Commissioners will be delayed at least another month, it was learned at Harrisburg.

Two bills, sponsored by Dr. Joseph C. Steedle, which went to Gov. Pinchot several days ago, were recalled, and today reposed in the office of the Attorney General.

CODE CHANGES SOUGHT

The recall, like that of a score of bills sent back by the Forester, was in line with reported plans of the administration to make all changes in the county code at once, in the form of an omnibus bill.

There are a number of other changes to be made in county laws, many of a minor nature and proposed to clear up some specific intent of the laws, The Attorney General, it is said, hopes to make all the changes at the same time.

The Steedle bill, which provides that the county can purchase the tunnel, is an amendment to a vague point in the present law. Although they are not certain the bill is necessary, county solicitors have pointed out that the word "purchase" does not occur in the present law and the lack of it might be interpreted as meaning the county cannot buy a tunnel.

Beechview Boosters Meeting Tonight

The Beechview Civic Club, reorganized last month, will hold a mass meeting in the auditorium of the Beechwood school, Alton street, Beechview, tonight, the purpose being to map the itinerary for the current year and to boost a membership drive. The organization will make application to join the Allied Boards of Trade.

Roland Brady, secretary of the Real Estate Board of Pittsburgh, will be the principal speaker. President C. V. Roper will preside.

Nine-Cent Gasoline To Go on Market

CHICAGO, April 10.—(INS.)—A new grade of gasoline, selling for nine cents a gallon, will be placed on the market in the principal cities of 10 states, according to an announcement today by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

In addition, prices on the company's present grades will be reduced one cent a gallon commencing tomorrow.

Woman Asks $50,000 For Husband's Death

A suit against Willis C. Logan, of Coraopolis, was filed in Common Pleas Court by Julia Richards, of Moon Township, asking $50,000 damages for the death of her husband, Frank Richards, by an automobile. He was walking home the Narrows Run road, Moon Township, April 10, 1930, when an automobile operated by Logan struck him, resulting in his death that night, according to the suit. Four children, aged 8 to 18, were left by Richards.

Mae Marsh Returns To Movies in Talkie

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 10.—(AP.)—Another name, famous in the old days of silent motion pictures, was added today to the talkie roster. Mae Marsh, who has given the last 11 years to rearing a family, signed a contract with Fox to play the mother in "Over the Hill."

The actress came into prominence in 1914 when she appeared in "The Birth of a Nation." After her marriage to Lee Arms, a newspaperman, who since has become a short-story writer, Miss Marsh retired in 1920. She has three children—Mae, 11; Brewster, 5, and Marguerite, 2.

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

William Pfarr

The Bums Club is a group of prominent, patriotic Pittsburghers who feel keenly the criticism which followed their annual meeting last year. This year they hope to recapture public fancy. Each year the Bums meet for two days or more behind locked doors. They just sit in a room drinking sarsaparilla and things and when everything has been consumed they break up.

When they were ready to break up last year one of the officers discovered he had lost his false teeth. There was much consternation. The Bums avowed they would not unlock the doors until the teeth had been found. And they didn't, although the finding required two more days.

Well, the Bums have a plan this year, and we know what it is. The eight members of their club who enjoy false teeth will be required to check said teeth as they enter the clubroom. They will be given a ticket with which, when the sarsaparilla has been done away with, they may redeem their teeth. A special menu of soup, gelatines and such items will be listed for them. The officers of the Bums Club are determined no more false teeth will be lost and that once more their organization will stand among the city's first clubs. On their courageous, daring plan we congratulate them.

It almost goes without saying that ward chairmen are the monarchs of all they survey. Especially in a ward which lends itself to speakeasies and gambling joints and what-nots. Your shrewd ward chairman doesn't stop at merely seeing to it that the various joints can run; he wants to and often does select the bartender, the janitor and the doorman. He wants jobs for his followers. He wants them on payrolls, satisfied and well-off. His political existence depends on the number of jobs he can supply, for the more jobholders who owe their well being to him, the more votes he'll muster at the polls. As powerful as some ward chairmen are, there is at least one gullible soul who attributes too much influence to them. And the gullible soul is the young man who, seeking a job as a reporter, called up the city editor of this newspaper yesterday and asked if this cause would be furthered if, to use his language, he got his ward chairman's O. K.

At the dinner to Mr. Burchfield, James Francis Burke complained about the names given certain thoroughfares years ago. When it was first named, Diamond way was a street of anything but diamonds, there never was a cherry tree on Cherry way, and strawberries were foreign to Strawberry way. Somehow or other, in this connection, we keep thinking of the Armstrong tubes.

At last, a miniature machine which combines the worst, or best features, of the numbers racket and the slot machines. . . . Instead of peaches and lemons and bars, there are numbers. . . . You choose a number, then you pull the handle. . . . If your number hits, you win $15 for 5 cents. . . . The one we heard of was in a confectionery. . . . Speaking of confectioneries, what's become of those long penny sticks of licorice? . . . And the cent shops where the bell tingled when you opened the door? . . . And the bag of candy the grocer always gave you when you paid the bill, if you paid the bill? . . . When he was 12 years old Harry Nossokoff, who has too much of a bay window to try it today, could play the piano with his feet.

DELAYS RULING IN PRISON FAKE

Judge Nelson McVicar reserved his decision after arguments on the motion of Samuel Y. Rossiter, Erie attorney; Joseph Donovan and Lester Beals, of Erie, for a new trial upon their conviction, March 23, on a charge of conspiring to substitute a government prisoner. The motion was opposed by Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh.

After arguments the court allowed the defense attorneys five days in which to file additional briefs in support of their arguments. United States Attorney Louis E. Graham was at the counsel table with his assistant.

Sunday to Speak Twice Here Sunday

"Billy" Sunday, famous evangelist, will speak twice in Pittsburgh Sunday, under auspices of the Anti-Saloon League. In the morning he will speak on "Booze Foul and Out," in the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, North Highland avenue and Rippey street. Sunday will speak again in the evening at a union meeting of three North Side churches in the First United Presbyterian Church.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 10.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The President says to Minister Hanna, "I wonder what Rogers can find humorous in our pitiful plight." Well, you know these little shakes occur quite frequently. Just as the reveille bugle was blowing yesterday, one came and everybody jumped out of bed. So now they are going to use a quake instead of reveille every morning.

Here is some divine spark of Will Rogers relief for the anti-prohibitionists. Everything in town was destroyed but the brewery. It was an act of Providence at that, for the waterworks were destroyed and all they had to drink was beer. The commandant sent 20 marines to protect it and with the 100 that was already there they were able to hold it.

Even a quake has its good points. The Senate and Cabinet run out of town and haven't shown up since. What Hoover would give for the recipe.

Flew with Maj. Mitchell, head of the air forces of the marines, over the bandit country they patrol. You have to see this terrible mountainous country to see what these aviators have been up against.

The poor people just walk about dazed. They need money to help feed 'em and restore some sort of roof over their heads.

Yours, WILL.

Foch Resented Slur By Clemenceau Over Elevation by Allies

Disaster that threatened the Allies under the impact of the great German drive of March, 1918, was described vividly by Marshal Foch in yesterday's instalment. The British 5th Army under Gen. Gough had been shattered by the German thrust in the St. Quentin region and Foch realized that unless some decisive Allied action were taken quickly "we were marching toward certain defeat." In today's instalment, Marshal Foch, tells of the famous conference at Doullens on March 26, 1918, at which the British and French agreed to place in his hands the co-ordinating of the Allied operations on the Western Front.

By MARSHAL FERDINAND FOCH

Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Armies During the Closing Phases of the World War.

Translated from the French by Col. T. Bentley Mott.

CHAPTER XIII.

At the Compiegne meeting Gen. Petain described the greatly disorganized condition of the British 5th Army and the steps he had taken to come to its help—namely, the dispatch of 15 divisions, of which six were already heavily engaged. He asserted also that he could do no more for the present, having given the necessity facing him of defending the road to Paris, now threatened from the valley of the Oise, and perhaps from the direction of Champagne.

Being asked to give my views, I showed, as in my note of the previous day, that the urgent danger lay in the direction of Amiens, where the German offensive had broken through the Franco-British front and produced a large gap, the first result of which was the separation of the British and French armies.

It was essential, at all costs, to re-establish this front and restore the liaison between the two armies, even should that entail some risks elsewhere. Bring up the number of divisions required to close the breach and bring them up quickly, such, in my opinion, was the line to pursue, the direction indicated for all our efforts.

To what extent were the British able to co-operate in this plan? In the absence of his military advisers, Lord Milner was unable to reply to this question put to him by M. Clemenceau. He suggested, however, that another meeting be held the following day, the 26th, with the British generals present. We therefore separated at Compiegne about 5 p. m., having arranged the meeting for 11 a. m. the following day at Dury.

At the moment this discussion at Compiegne was proceeding without any decision being taken Field Marshal Haig was having a conference with Gen. Wilson at Abbeville. Fully alive to the peril to which the Entente was exposed through the separation of the British and French Armies and convinced that it must at all costs be prevented, Sir Douglas proposed to the Chief of the Imperial General Staff that Gen. Foch be immediately nominated commander-in-chief. His advice was as yet only partly heeded.

Marshal Foch

Gen. Wilson reached Versailles that same evening and, after having a talk with Lord Milner, he came to see me in Paris about 11 p. m. He suggested assigning to M. Clemenceau, whose technical adviser I would be, the task of "ensuring a closer co-operation between the armies and a better utilization of all available reserves."

Sought Co-operation

I had no difficulty in pointing out to him how little the realization of this plan was to be desired, since, far from simplifying matters, it was likely to make them still more difficult. The arguments I developed at this meeting are clearly summarized in Lord Milner's memorandum:

"As far as Gen. Foch was concerned he had no wish to command anything. All that he asked was that the two governments should definitely assign to him the mission of ensuring the maximum amount of co-operation between the two Commanders-in-Chief. In other words, he asked to occupy the same sort of position as he had formerly held during the battle of Ypres in 1914, when Gen. Joffre had entrusted to him the task of bringing about, if that were possible, a closer co-operation between the British and the French. In the present case, however, he wished this appointment to be made by virtue of a special and higher authority, that of the two Allied governments."

Lord Milner and Gen. Wilson

ADOPTS WIFE'S BROTHER

Mathias A. Smith, 73, of 311 Thirty-fifth street, McKeesport, today is the father of his brother-in-law, Fred M. Eisele, 53, of the same address.

Smith is likewise grandfather of his nieces and nephews, and great-grandfather of his grandnieces and grand-nephews.

He assumed this relationship yesterday when he formally adopted Eisele, through his attorney, Cecile S. Goldberg.

Smith married Eisele's sister about 50 years ago. Eisele's parents died when he was six years old, and Smith took him into his home. The two have lived together since that time. Mrs. Smith died in 1929. Eisele is married, has children and grand-children. The adoption took place yesterday to settle possible problems of inheritance and family right. Smith says:

"We've really been father and son for many years. This is really only a form. We've been meaning to do it for years."

$3,300 DAMAGE IN TWO FIRES

Two frame dwellings, one in the West End and the other in Sheraden, were damaged by fire last night.

Damage estimated at $2,500 resulted from a fire in the home of Thomas Clark, at 3137 Delroy street, Sheraden. The blaze, which started on the second floor, had spread to the roof when firemen arrived.

The home of W. Ashley, at 125 Frustrum street, West End, was damaged to the extent of $800 by fire which broke out in the basement last night. The cause was undetermined.

R. L. Vann Leaves For Tuskegee Fete

Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh attorney and editor of the Pittsburgh Courier, appointed by Gov. Pinchot as state representative at the fiftieth anniversary celebration of Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., left today to participate in the ceremonies. The program starts April 12 and continues until April 15.

DEATH SUSPECT FREED BY JURY

Emil Schoen, 35, of Bellevue, is free today following his acquittal in Criminal Court of the charge of murdering Walter A. Thompson, 31, 500 East Ohio street, during a fight at the home of Adolph Giger in Jacks Run road February 1. The jury that had been listening to the testimony all week before Visiting Judge O. Clair Kent, of Crawford County, returned the verdict of not guilty after 45 minutes consideration.

Guadalupe J. Gonzales, 29, of 3000 Carson street, on trial before Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County, charged with murdering Luis Talamantez, 3001 Carey way, in a quarrel over a woman, may learn his fate today. The jury retired this morning. Yesterday afternoon was taken up with arguments of Assistant District Attorney M. B. Reid and Attorney M. A. Shapiro.

Emergency Body States Aim of Fund Drive

The Allegheny County Emergency Association, to explain its purpose and plan of operation to the Pittsburgh workers to whom it is appealing for one day's salary, today issued the following summary of its plan of operation:

"The association was organized by the business interests of Pittsburgh to hasten business recovery and relieve distress by putting the unemployed back to work.

"It is doing this by supplying the labor and paying the labor for public improvements in the city and boroughs and townships.

"The municipalities furnish the materials and tools for these improvements, which have been planned solely for the emergency.

"The employment thus provided is given to persons whose unemployment has compelled them to seek aid from the charity agencies. As soon as they are given jobs, they cease receiving charity support.

"Up to date, 2,500 persons have been given employment by the association.

"The association has received nearly $800,000 from the public so far, with which it will be able to keep employment going on the present scale for perhaps two months longer.

"But several thousand unemployed wage earners have applied to it for jobs in addition to the 2,500 now being taken care of, and their applications will be in vain unless the public gives the Emergency Association a great deal more money.

"The employes are being asked to contribute one day's pay on the basis of their 1929 payroll, which was a prosperous industrial year. Therefore, the employes are being asked to base their contributions on the 1929 basis.

"The sum of $3,000,000 is required. Checks should be made payable to Roy A. Hunt, treasurer."

NAME OF BIG DONOR KEPT SECRET

Westinghouse Contributes $75,000; 5th-Day Report Shows $962,484 Total

Two gifts—one $50,000 and another $75,000—spurred workers of the Allegheny County Emergency Association who reported a total of $962,484.45 on the fifth day of the two-weeks' campaign for $3,000,000 for the Pittsburgh plan of employment stabilization.

The $50,000 gift came yesterday from a prominent Pittsburgher, whose identity was not disclosed. The $75,000 donation came from the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and was reported today as part of the $85,468.46 for the entire day.

Contributions throughout the two months that the Pittsburgh plan has been in operation reached a total of $876,874.99 yesterday. Of this sum, $140,490.99 has been contributed since the opening of the campaign last Monday.

Frank R. Phillips, chairman of the operating committee of the association, was the principal speaker at yesterday's luncheon.

Speakers today who were to address groups throughout the city include L. B. Harnish, at Kaufmann's Forbes street warehouse, Horne warehouse employes on the North Side, employes of the Zemmer Company at the Sennott street plant, members of the College Club and the warehouse employes of Spear & Co.; E. C. Stone, of the Philadelphia Company, at the American Cleaning and Repairing Company's East End plant, 6339 Penn avenue, and Mrs. H. D. Stark, president of the Outlook Alliance, at a meeting of the Women's Club of Turtle Creek.

LEADERS HELD U. S. NEED

What America needs are leaders and citizens, and not scholars, declared Dr. H. C. McKown, in an address before an administration conference held today at the Board of Education in conjunction with the Western Pennsylvania Education Conference. He said the schools are wrong in selecting their valedictorians on the basis of scholarship alone.

Dr. McKown pictured education as the biggest industry in the country; pointing out that:

"Out of every $100 spent in taxes in Pittsburgh, $34 is spent for public education. The next highest figure is $17 spent for public safety."

Charles F. Lewis, director, Buhl Foundation, compared newspaper publicity to a high spirited horse, dangerous in inexperienced hands and recommended that every school have a trained publicist who "is more important to a school than an expert football coach."

Health Club to Hear Lecture on Food

Dr. William Howard Hay, of Buffalo, N. Y., will address the Pittsburgh Health Club Friday night, April 17, in the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street. His subject will be "Health Via Food." Dr. Hay will answer questions pertaining to health at the close of the lecture.

VOTE MACHINES SEEN AS AID TO WOMEN

McGovern Warns Against Propaganda and Forecasts Halting of Thefts at Polls

Women will find it easy to cast ballots when voting machines are used, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern told an audience of 300 women voters at a luncheon yesterday in the Young Women's Christian Association, Chatham street.

He warned his audience not to be frightened from the polls by false propaganda that the mechanical features of the voting machines will make it impossible for feminine citizens to vote intelligently. He said any person who can vote the present Australian ballot would have no difficulty operating a voting machine.

McGovern explained that the printing press feature of the machines ordered for Allegheny County would provide a total of ballots cast in a given election district for all candidates one minute after the polls closed. Copies of the printed tally would be available to newspapermen, candidates' representatives and other interested persons. McGovern said:

"Vote thieves are not efficient. They need time to falsify the returns. Under the present system, they determine how many votes will be required for a favorite candidate on the basis of early returns from uncontrolled districts and they proceed to report a total that will overcome any deficiency elsewhere. In some instances these crooked returns are not reported until one or two days after election."

ROMANCE SEEN IN INVENTION

Demonstrating some of the advanced radio-electric marvels of the age in the course of an address last night before the Society of Automotive Engineers meeting in William Penn Hotel, Dr. S. M. Kintner, assistant vice president of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, lauded Pittsburgh as a city of romantic invention.

Mr. Kintner

Dr. Kintner's subject was "Westinghouse and the Automotive Industry." He painted vivid word pictures of the advance of science through the work of several of the foremost Pittsburgh inventors. He told of major developments affecting worldwide progress which had their beginning here. He began with Dr. S. P. Langley and his work in fundamental aerodynamics; he told of Prof. R. A. Fessenden's work in radio, of the work of Dr. H. P. Davis, "father of radio broadcasting," and concluded by lauding George Westinghouse for his early research and development along electrical lines.

QUAKE LOSS SET AT $20,000,000

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 10.—(INS.)—Property damage caused by the earthquake and fire, which demolished Managua nearly two weeks ago, was estimated at $20,000,000 by government officials today.

The figure included merchandise and other possessions consumed by the subsequent conflagration. Only part of the destroyed property was protected by insurance.

The estimate was given out after announcement by President Moncada that Managua would be reconstructed and retained as the seat of the Nicaraguan government.

Insurance Man Seeks To Change Name

Israel Rogalsky, adjuster for a Pittsburgh insurance company, asked permission to change his name to Irwin Ringold in a petition before Judge Sylvester J. Snee in Common Pleas Court, averring that his name at present is of foreign origin and difficult to pronounce.

What A Skinny Girl You Are, Mabel!

Don't embarrass your friends and yourself with your poor, skinny anemic appearance. Put red blood and pep into your veins, add flesh and fill out those curves so necessary for 1931's fashion decree. Men, too, can now become robust and forceful without spending all their time in exercise. The I. S. Johnson Laboratories, Pharmacists for over 110 years, have discovered that Vitamins B, C and D when added to certain other ingredients create a chemical condition in your body that adds pep and weight. These are combined in Vitalex tablets—easy to take. Purchase a package today. At all drug stores.

$413,000 JOBS HIT BY LACK OF FUNDS

Contracts Held Up After Utility Advises Failure to Meet Last Assessment

Street repaving work totaling $413,000 is delayed pending Council's action on the letter from the Pittsburgh Railways Company, complaining the company was unable to make its last quarterly assessment of December, 1930, for street repaving, Public Works Director Edward G. Lang announced today.

The work delayed, he said, is where trolley tracks run along thoroughfares. Lang ordered the delay by directing Chief Engineer Charles Reppert and Division Engineer John J. Croak to hold off advertising for contracts until Council determines whether the railways company can pay its assessments.

Part of the money paid the city is applicable to repaving.

Work already advertised for will not be stopped, the director said.

It is expected Council will take action on the railways proposition at its meeting Monday.

TOMORROW, A GOLDEN FLOOD OF PURE, TREE-RIPE ORANGE JUICE

Will Melt and Pour over PITTSBURGH!

If you stood in a tropical grove and squeezed luscious oranges as you picked them yourself, this is exactly the same healthful juice you'd get. Phone us now to begin leaving "National Dairy" Orange Juice in the morning!

THERE is an orange tree at your doorstep! You will discover it tomorrow. And after you have tasted the rich, sun-flavored juice, you will exclaim with delight, "This is the first real orange juice I ever tasted!"

If you have thought that the juice from store-bought oranges was satisfactory, you will think this juice from tree-ripe oranges is perfect!

The scientifically developed quick-freeze process brings this orange tree to your doorstep. If you have ever squeezed oranges right at the grove, you know the difference between juice from tree-fresh oranges and oranges picked for marketing before they reach full maturity. No preservative has ever been devised which keeps the original, natural, tree-ripe taste in orange juice.

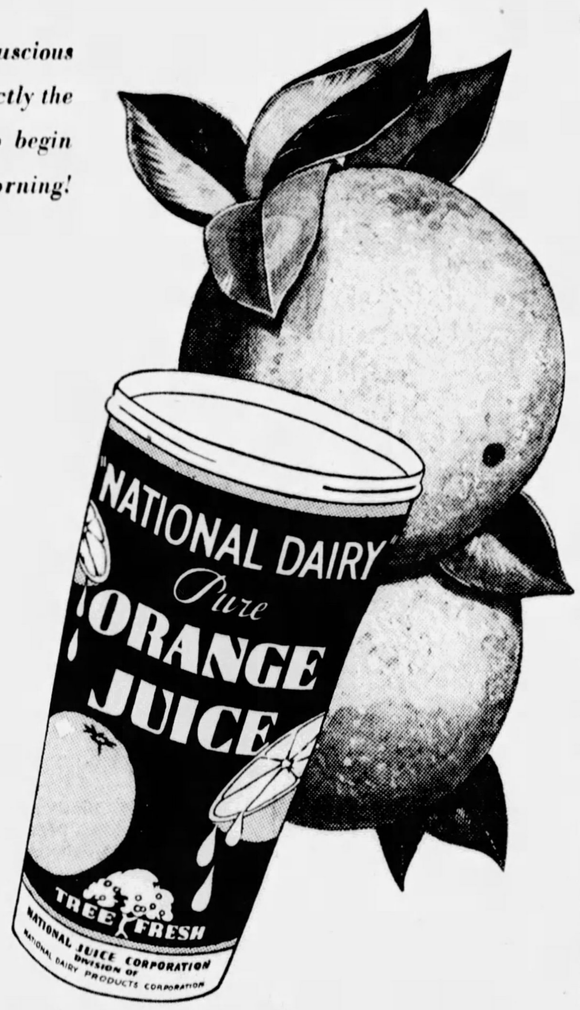
It's REAL orange juice

"National Dairy" Orange Juice is not a new drink of any kind. It is the juice from hand-selected, sound and perfect oranges squeezed right in the orange country. The oranges are peeled by specially designed machinery. By this special peeling, the most desirable juice of the orange—the "cream juice" which abounds in the outer surface nearest the sunshine—is preserved in all its delicate mellowness. It is interesting to know, too, that no human hand touches the fruit from the time of this special peeling process until you yourself pour out the golden juice.

Oranges, from which "National Dairy" Orange Juice is produced, are picked, squeezed and frozen within 48 hours. 4½ minutes after an orange is squeezed, the juice is frozen under vacuum at a scientifically determined temperature.

Incidentally, one of New York's leading hospitals is feeding "National Dairy" Orange Juice to 65 babies every day.

You will be amazed at the convenience of "National Dairy" Orange Juice. Here is real orange juice — without the usual breakfast rush. And far more healthful than juice which is squeezed and stands overnight.



A pint sells for only 20 cents. You may also order it in half-pint size at 11 cents.

Beginning tomorrow, you can enjoy real Orange Juice every day!

Delivery of "National Dairy" Orange Juice begins tomorrow. It is vacuum-packed in convenient cartons. The ideal method is to place the carton in your refrigerator for a full day; here it gradually returns to liquid. If you can't wait, follow the directions for melting on the package. Phone your order today!

ELECTION JUDGE GIVEN 60 DAYS IN JAIL

2 IN SIXTH WARD PROSECUTION GET MERCY

Joseph Hannon, judge of election in the First District of the Sixth Ward, was sentenced to jail for 60 days, and suspended sentences of 60 days each were pronounced on Bernard Julius, inspector, and Peter Petrosky, clerk, with a condition that they never serve again on an election board, when they pleaded guilty to negligence in counting the votes at the last May primary before Judge George V. Moore, in Criminal Court.

State Senator James J. Coyne and his political lieutenant, P. J. O'Malley, conversed together just outside the courtroom door a few minutes before the board members pleaded guilty. Not 10 feet away stood Coyne's political rival, Congressman P. J. Sullivan, and his corps of lieutenants, who were all on hand to appear as character witnesses for the election officers. There was no sign of recognition between Coyne and Sullivan. Coyne is said to have been the acting influence behind the prosecution of the election cases. He left before the hearing.

INSPECTOR IN HOSPITAL

DINNER OPENS EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE

Pitt Faculty Member Cites Instructors' Need for Knowledge of Science

The Western Pennsylvania Education Conference opened with a dinner meeting held by the school of education, University of Pittsburgh, at the Schenley Hotel last night. Speakers included Dr. G. A. Yoakam, of the University of Pittsburgh; Dr. Reba Perkins, of Indiana State Teachers' College; Dr. Bruce R. Payne, president of the Peabody College for Teachers, and Dr. Anthony M. Goldberger, acting dean of the School of Education, of Pitt.

Dr. Yoakam pointed out that the teachers of today must understand the implications of modern science and construct curriculums and devise methods and tests to bring about an effective system of education. Dr. Perkins, the first woman to receive a Ph. D. in Education from Pitt, declared that keeping up with constant educational changes is most vital to the teacher.

Average intelligence has risen tremendously during the last 25 years, according to Dr. Payne.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Were one to select at random the 10 most attractive numbers in recent American theatrical music we believe he would include the soul-stirring "Indian Love Call" from Rose Marie" and the dreamy "Make Believe" from "Show Boat." Tonight's theater of the air offers both selections in the same program, sung by radio's golden voice, Jessica Dragonette (WCAE at 8 o'clock). . . . Visualize yourself alone, lights low, a comfortable armchair and Josef Koestner's brilliant orchestral group interpreting Cadman's "At Dawning" and Ponchielli's "Dance of the Hours" (KDKA at 9:30) . . . Lowell Thomas gives Sir Hubert Wilkins a grand sendoff, KDKA at 10; Dorothy Lee, movie star, and maybe Peter Higgins, entertain on WCAE at 10:30; and this same hour of 10:30 on WJAS brings us one of the radio theater's grandest offerings, dramatization of news events as they happened in the week just passed.

DO YOU KNOW—

That Fred Waldner, tenor, hobbled to the microphone on a pair of crutches last night? His leg was broken in a recent basketball scrimmage.

That Helen Keller, the blind girl, listens to the radio with her fingertips? She can discriminate between instruments; likes the violin most of all.

That Joe Falvo (KQV at 6) once rated among the big four orchestra leaders in Chicago, with Art Kassel, del Lampe and Guy Lombardo? Joe is a brother of Bebe Falvo, the blues singer, who is to be heard over WTAM very shortly.

That Jeanne Aubert (KDKA at 8) rehearsed her broadcast for tonight in the KDKA studios a few weeks ago while playing Pittsburgh in "America's Sweetheart"?

That Dick Ridgely, the xylophone player, who was to give us Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee"—964 notes—in less than 60 seconds on WCAE tonight, has had to cancel the broadcast for another professional engagement? The champion xylophone player of the world raps off the composition in 58 seconds. Dick aims to better the mark—and we know he can!

Radio Sweetheart In Colors Sunday

A portrait painting of Jessica Dragonette will be reproduced in colors this Sunday in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. "America's Sweetheart of the Air," with millions of devoted followers, is heard over WCAE every Friday night at 8 o'clock in a coast-to-coast hookup of the National Broadcasting Company. More than 25,000 visitors applauded Miss Dragonette at the Radio Show in Duquesne Garden last fall. In appreciation of this reception and her particular adoration for Pittsburghers, Miss Dragonette will sing by special request tonight the beautiful "Indian Love Call" from "Rose Marie."

The LOUDSPEAKER

—By LOUIS REID—

NEW YORK, April 10.—The heavy sigh of relief heard in the radio palaces is that of the broadcasters aware that they can now proceed with a grandiose plan of educational programs without running the risk of economic disaster.

As Otto Kahn and other titans of finance underwrite the productions of the Metropolitan Opera House, so John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the Carnegie Corporation will provide the necessary funds for what is expected to be the most comprehensive radio educational plan in the world.

An effective start has already been made in radio education. Many programs designed to instruct are already audible to the listeners of the nation, have been for some time. There is Damrosch with his courses in classic music, there is Columbia's "School of the Air," which brings education in a skillful blend of entertainment and information, and there are countless individual speakers concerned with giving knowledge on every subject from adenoids to zebras.

But the broadcasters by the very commercial nature of their enterprise, by the desire to keep their business in the black, have not been able to do as much for educational radio as they would like to as they have been urged to by innumerable groups and individuals throughout the country. After all they are in broadcasting to make it pay, and commercial sponsors believe that there is no public for their message if associated with education.

And so radio education on a big scale has been allowed to languish, awaiting the time when philanthropists would bring up their money bags. Now that they are at the studio threshold a ticklish problem confronts the broadcasters. They must devise a schedule which will bring the greatest possible number of listeners to programs dealing with school and college courses and at the same time not alienate a vast army of ear-cuppers to whom education on the air is just another yawn.

American listeners have, in a way, been spoiled for any kind of radio program that is not specifically designed to entertain. They turn, in general, a deaf ear to those microphone periods expressly scheduled to instruct unless the periods are disguised as entertainment. That is why Damrosch's so-called music appreciation hour has gained such enormous popularity—its weekly audience is estimated at 8,000,000 persons. The program is adroitly free of any use of the word "education."

But it is education, nevertheless. Listeners are given information of classical music, of instruments that make up a symphony orchestra in a charming story-telling style. And the Damrosch-ian voice is relieved at frequent intervals by first-class interpretations of the music that has been discussed.

Radio education has attained its greatest glory in England. There listeners are treated to a steady parade of lessons, lessons on everything under H. G. Wells' sun. They often protest to the broadcasters, to editors, to the policeman on the beat against the flood of educational talks, but there is nothing they can do about it.

Broadcasting is government-owned, and the government puts education first in its radio policy. Neither sports, nor jazz, nor song can interfere with it. And a pooh-pooh for American broadcasting styles.

HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM IN REVIEW; LOCAL AMUSEMENT EVENTS

Eleanor Boardman's Film Comeback Leads Her Into Choice Roles

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.

Now that Eleanor Boardman has decided to go with Paramount, her comeback is moving along briskly.

Even though the final papers are not signed, she is rehearsing in "Daddy's Gone A-Hunting," Zoe Akin's play that, once upon a time, was to have been a Ruth Chatterton vehicle.

When this picture is finished, Eleanor will be sent to New York to play opposite Maurice Chevalier in "Life Is Beautiful."

Eleanor Boardman

Beyond this is the coveted feminine lead in Ernest Hemingway's "Farewell to Arms." Eleanor is to be the nurse and Gary Cooper the soldier. Barney Glazer is doing the screen-play of the novel.

With all these parts, the actress still will find time to be Mrs. King Vidor and to be mother to their two children.

ONE FOR THE BOOK

To help out a recent picture, the local Paramount Theater persuaded Mary Brian to make a personal appearance. Tying to be original, they had her act as head usher, with a spotlight turned on her.

During the half hour she stood there, Mary says not more than a half dozen people recognized her. Finally, she heard a boy say to a girl:

"That's Mary Brian."

The girl denied it. Arguing, they circled around Mary several times. At last, the girl came up directly in front of her.

"Say," she asked, "When did you quit making pictures?"

FARNUM'S COMEBACK

A source of real satisfaction to those of us who have been following pictures since the early silent days is the comeback of William Farnum. After making a good impression in a Norma Talmadge picture, he went to Fox to play King Arthur in "A Connecticut Yankee." (We won't mention that lapse. "Ten Nights in a Barroom," which fortunately was not widely seen). Now he is to have a good role in Evelyn Brent's "Pagan Lady." That excellent farceur, Roland Young, also is to play in this picture. As you may recall, Evelyn's husband, Harry Edwards, is co-producer of the film.

LATEST GOSSIP

Five social lights, worth as many millions, asked to be allowed to work in "White Shoulders" when an R-K-O company went on location to the Santa Barbara Biltmore. By way of souvenirs, the company sent them all $1 checks. One of the society extras was Mrs. C. Ogden Armour . . . A sight I never hoped to see was John Barrymore at the circus. The star came with another man and sat two rows ahead of me. When a plump girl, riding a white horse, sang a hymn while white doves fluttered around her shoulders, John twisted his head around and favored me with that famous sardonic smile . . . Josef Von Sternberg, discoverer of Marlene Dietrich, thinks he has another find in little Frances Dee, former extra girl, whom Paramount recently put under contract. He takes her to lunch and has her report on the set whether she is in a scene or not. As he directs, he explains the psychology of the scene to her . . . Robert Bow, Clara's dad, is now trying to peddle the red-head's cousin, William Bow, to the movies . . . The steady labors of Wilson Mizner are giving his friends worry.

"After 50 years," confessed Mizner, "I am being a traitor to vagrancy!"

TUNNEY'S CLIMB TO FAME TOLD

An interesting and personal story of Gene Tunney, in which the ex-Marine tells how he accomplished three objectives, appears in the May issue of the Cosmopolitan. Written by Steve Hannagan, a friend, the story clears some of the mystery that has surrounded the heavyweight champion, who held literary and social aspirations.

Seven years ago, when Tunney was relatively unknown, the story relates, he told his friend Hannagan that:

1—He was going to be the heavyweight champion of the world.

2—He meant to marry a girl whose name was in the social register, with whom he was in love.

3—He would then retire from public life and study the classics.

The writer tells how, directly and even ruthlessly, Tunney marched to these objectives, how he became friendly with men of wealth, how he met their sisters, and danced with debutantes.

The writer states that while Tunney is unpopular, he is one of the 10 best known figures of the day.

MANY ASK AMEN DINNER PLACES

Fred E. Obley, secretary of the Amen Corner, said today the demand for reservations for the club's annual dinner in the William Penn Hotel tomorrow night had exceeded the demand of all its previous dinners. Tomorrow's will be a testimonial to George W. McCandless, retiring president.

Principal speakers will be Dr. Wepil Fer Thenew, of the University of Prague; Dr. W. Warren Giles, Orange, N. J.; Justice William H. Keller, of the Superior Court of Pennsylvania; John B. Kennedy, associate editor of Collier's Weekly; Jim MacWilliams, court jester of the air, and the Rev. Dr. C. Wallace Petty.

On the entertainment program will be numbers by John McCloskey, Pittsburgh tenor, who recently returned to the United States after a successful career in Europe. He is now located in New York.

Soldier's Girl

Loretta Young is a girl who loves a soldier in the French Foreign Legion in "Beau Ideal," film coming Monday to the Warner. It is heralded as a sequel to the old silent picture, "Beau Geste."

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Harry Brown, banging his fist on the desk for greater emphasis, says next week will be positively and absolutely and completely the final week of "Trader Horn" in the Nixon. Another bang on the desk, and he says tickets for all remaining performances can be obtained at the b. o. now. All right, all right, Mr. Brown, we can hear you! We could hear you even without the telephone.

Wish —

I know the town will soon be overgay,
With scent of Spring in all her magic nooks;
New swains will find enchanting things to say—
And reap reward in soft, adoring looks;
But Spring holds little promise for a lad
Who flung your golden challenge to the wind;
Small use to mourn the chances that I've had—
The romance that I quickly left behind.

But still I like to think that there are spells
When you muse wistfully on our affair;
When you reread a verse of mine that tells
As best I could how much I used to care—

And stain it with a warm and poignant tear,
Your tribute to a lost and lovely year!

The Retort Terrible

It was in one of the Times Squarehead restaurants, and a paragrapher on a weekly magazine (that comes out when the management can scrape together enough coin) was complaining to a daily competitor. Said the weekly weakly:

"I don't think you'll want to use those two gags you just heard. I used them on my page two weeks ago."

The snapper was:

"Oh, that's all right. I want to make them public."

In Fewer Words

Nan Blackstone observes that the trouble with most movie shorts is that they're not short enough.

Gag

Capt. Frank Hawkes tells the one about the colored lad he took up into the clouds one day. Hawkes wanted to frighten the fellow, so he looped the loop a dozen times and did other flying stunts. After the landing Hawkes asked the passenger how he liked it. Said the breathless one:

"Them two rides was great!"

Frank asked:

"What do you mean two rides?"

Again breathlessly:

"The fust and the LAST!!!"

Oop!

And Harry Reichenbach knows a feller who just won a spelling bee, which bars him from ever becoming a movie magnate.

What an Hour!

Phil Baker, headlining the current Palace program, told his first long story on a stage the other performance. He usually tells puns and swift ones. But this was windy and pointless and Baker's story was greeted with a thud of silence. He stood there terribly embarrassed, of course, trying to think up a nifty to get out of the horrible sitch-ee-ay-shun.

However, a voice from the gallery broke the spell for him by yelling:

"Portrait of a man talking to himself!!!"

Hot Diggitty!

Willie Kane, the able representative for the World-Telegram in the West Side Court, tells about the stickler that stumps all applicants for the local fire department.

In the test a question that drives them all cuckoo is:

"What piece of fire apparatus won't go up a one-way street?"

No applicant ever has answered it correctly.

The answer is:

"A fire boat."

Blunder

Government sleuths had been shadowing him for many months but always missed him, so sly was he, and he could smell a cop 10 blocks away. The U. S. agents wanted him on a mail fraud charge, but it remained for a postmaster in Oklahoma City to trap him.

The elusive fellow is the husband of a musical comedy actress—let her stage name go. He is W. W. Easterday and the habit of larceny, even in terms of pennies, proved his undoing. He ankled into the postoffice and handed the clerk a dollar, demanding a two-cent stamp and change. He was given 98 cents and a stamp. He said he handed along two pennies with the case note. The clerk summoned the postmaster to straighten it out.

The postmaster, who had a poster of the fugitive on his office wall, immediately recog-Easterday.

Mail may now reach him at Atlanta, but his friends are urged to use only airmail postage, for the sight of a two-cent stamp drives him a little mad.

He is doing an eight-year term for practically an attempted theft of 2 cents.

The salesman yipped:

"Say, listen, when you get good enough to make any kind of a bow, this tuxedo will be out of style!"

Query

You've probably heard and enjoyed the song, "Trees," that is just becoming popular via the radio, stage and night club. The song is by no means a new ditty—it was first written and sung around New York at least five years ago.

"The "Trees" lyric is the famous and beautiful poem written by Joyce Kilmer, who was killed in the war. The song now is among the biggest hits, selling hundreds of thousands of copies, and some of us were wondering if Kilmer's heirs are remembered when the heavy royalties are divvied.

Command of Forces In Losing Battle Sacrifice To Duty, Not a Reward

agreed in thinking that, in the existing circumstances, this would be the best solution.

Such roughly was the situation on the morning of March 26th, as the conference at Doullens opened.

(Marshal Haig was obliged to go to Doullens as he had summoned his Army Commanders to meet him there. At his request, this town was selected for the conference instead of Dury, which had been designated the previous day.)

Will Power Essential

When I arrived in that town, about 11:30 a. m., Marshal Haig, shortly joined by Lord Milner, was receiving the reports of his army commanders in the Town Hall. The meeting was a protracted one, so that I had time to make a visit to the little school house in which I and my staff had established ourselves on October 6, 1914.

As my mind went back to this already distant period, when I compared our numbers, organization, armament and supplies as they were in 1914 with what existed now, I could not permit myself for a moment to admit that, powerfully reinforced as we were, we could allow ourselves to be beaten in 1918, when, with means so relatively meager, we had conquered in 1914.

The wise employment of our combined resources and an inflexible determination to win—here was still the formula for success. With the means at our disposal, the question of stopping the enemy was in the first place a matter of will power on the part of the High Command. There was no doubt in my mind as to the outcome of the enterprise, provided the Allied chiefs, with eyes wide open to each succeeding danger, should meet and dominate it in a spirit of close and energetic co-operation. That is what we had done on the Yser and at Ypres—and under what conditions!

I developed these fundamental ideas in the presence of the members of the French government while we waited in the garden of the Town Hall of Doullens for the Allied conference to begin. It opened at 12:45 p. m. in the Town Hall. There were present on the French side, the President of the Republic, M. Clemenceau, and M. Loucheur,and Gens. Foch, Petain and Weygand; on the British side, Lord Milner, Field Marshal Haig and Gens. Wilson, Lawrence and Montgomery.

Proposed as Leader

From the outset, all were unanimous in recognizing that Amiens had to be saved at all costs and that the fate of the war depended on it. I made some strong remarks in this sense.

Our front had already been driven back to Bray-sur-Somme, behind the lines of 1916. It was essential not to retreat any further, not to yield an inch of ground without fighting, to hold on at all costs where we were and with the utmost energy.

Such was the first principle to be clearly defined and communicated to all; then it must be put into execution without a moment's delay, especially by hurrying up reserves and using them to weld together the Allied armies.

Now the British had no more troops available to send south of the Somme, unless they were taken from the Arras sector, which was being heavily attacked and which no one could think of weakening. Help therefore could come only from the French Army.

On being questioned, Gen. Petain explained his program. He had decided to increase the number of divisions to be sent into Picardy; instead of the 15 specified the previous day at the Compiegne meeting, he now proposed to move 24 on to Montdidier. In this way he hoped to prolong his front up to the Somme, but he could not guarantee it. This extension, however, would only be gradual and slow, because moving the divisions at the rate of two a day would require considerable time.

At this point of the proceedings, Lord Milner had a private interview with M. Clemenceau, in the course of which he proposed that I should be entrusted with the conduct of the operations.

The French prime minister concurred in this idea and at once drew up a text through which I was charged with co-ordinating the operations of the Allied forces "around Amiens." Marshal Haig, perceiving at once the narrowness and insufficiency of this combination, declared that it did not correspond with the end he was seeking.

Made Allied Commander

He then asked that the arrangement should be extended to include the British and French forces operating in France and Belgium. In the end, the formula was still further expanded so as to comprise all the Allied forces operating on the western front. Agreement was reached on the following text, which was signed by Lord Milner and Clemenceau:

"Gen. Foch is charged by the British and French governments with co-ordinating the action of the Allied Armies on the western front. To this end he will come to an understanding with the commanders-in-chief, who are requested to furnish him with all necessary information."

At 2:30 p. m. the Doullens conference came to a close and we went for a hurried lunch at the Hotel des Quatre Fils Aymon, which I remembered from 1914. As we sat down, Monsieur Clemenceau turned to me with these words:

"Well, you've got the place you so much wanted."

It was not difficult to answer him, and Monsieur Loucheur joined in my reply, that to assume the direction of a battle which during seven successive days had been largely lost, could hardly be the object of any great desire on my part, but rather constituted, by reason of its risks, an act of duty and sacrifice in the service of my country.

Immediately after being invested with the mission which the two Allied governments had confided to me, I fixed my plan of action along the lines I had written to the French prime minister two days before. It can be summarized as follows:

1. The French and British troops must keep in close touch in order to cover Amiens.

2. With this object in view, the forces already in action must maintain their positions at all costs.

3. Covered by them, the French divisions sent as reinforcements will finish detraining and will then be used, first to consolidate the 5th British Army, and second, to constitute a massed maneuver for employment under conditions to be fixed later on. Instead of a British battle to cover the Channel ports, and a French battle to cover Paris, we would fight an Anglo-French battle to cover Amiens, the connecting link between the two armies.

I drew up the detailed arrangements for carrying out this general plan and, as time pressed, I went myself to explain them to those principally concerned.

THE modern Miss needs no "time out" for the time of month.

If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective in the relief of those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry on in comfort. Take enough to assure your complete comfort. If it is genuine aspirin it cannot possibly hurt you. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. It does not upset the stomach. It does nothing but stop the pain.

Headaches come at inconvenient times. So do colds. But a little Bayer Aspirin will always save the day. A throat so sore you can hardly swallow is made comfortable with one good gargle made from these tablets. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day, or a sleepless night.

Bayer-Tablets of Aspirin Genuine

Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folks to Enter Dogs in Kennel Club Show April 17-18

There never is a dog show anywhere in the radius of several hundred miles that doesn't attract some of Pittsburgh's dog lovers. And as one might expect, a number of prominent folks will have entries in the bench show to be held by the Fort Pitt Kennel Club in Motor Square Garden April 17 and 18.

Among them will be Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, who'll enter Scotch terriers; Mrs. Hartley G. Walker, of Edgeworth, English sheep dogs; Elizabeth Braun, daughter of the A. E. Brauns, of Warwick Terrace, Morewood Heights, her well known trio of cairn terriers; Mrs. E. C. Bothwell, Scotch terriers; Miss Margaret Coulter, of Greensburg, Scotch terriers; Jean Ellis, of Park avenue, New York, cocker spaniels; Mrs. Carl G. Vilsack, of Aylesboro avenue, Pekinese; and Miss Laura Mellor and her mother, Mrs. Clara C. Mellor, of Edgewood, wire haired terriers.

Yesterday brought a most notable wedding of interest here although it took place at Radnor, Pa., near Philadelphia. And among the reasons for this interest are the prominence of the bride and bridegroom and the bridal party which included the bride's young niece, Helen Louise Tunnell, daughter of the E. Paul Tunnells, of Pittsburgh.

Debutante Attendant

Helen's aunt, Miss Lilian Washburn Newlin, daughter of the William Ver Planck Newlins, of Wayne, Pa., and Peyton J. Van Rensselaer, member of one of New York's oldest families, were married yesterday afternoon in Old St. David's Church, Radnor. Only 30 guests, members of the families, attended the ceremony performed by the rector, the Rev. Crosswell McBee.

The wedding came as a surprise to friends, for no announcement of the wedding was made until late yesterday. Both are prominent in society circles in New York, Newport, Boston, Bar Harbor and Palm Beach.

Helen was the bride's only attendant, and Alexander Van Rensselaer, of Camp Hill Hall, Fort Washington, Pa., a cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

The Van Rensselaers will sail today for Italy, and will be in Paris and London for the season, returning the first of August to Newport. And they'll go to Palm Beach after the New Year.

The bride presented Helen to Newport society during the past summer, and this popular young deb made her bow to Baltimore society at the famous old Bachelor's cotillion.

Another wedding taking place out-of-town I want to talk about, that of Mabel Louise Coburn, daughter of the Arthur Middleton Coburns, of Syracuse, and Andrew Herron Mercer, Jr., of Syracuse, son of the Andrew Herron Mercers, of Wallingford street, taking place at 4 o'clock in the Grace Episcopal Church, Syracuse. Easter lilies, palms, and ferns banked the chancel, and urns of lilies and white tapers decorated the altar.

Weds In Syracuse

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of ivory satin in the princess mode with a full court train over which cascaded the bridal veil of tulle arranged with a cap of rose point lace and gardenias. The bride carried calla lilies.

Harriet Coburn as her sister's maid of honor and only attendant, wore flower blue lace and carried spring flowers. Dr. S. Robertson Mercer was his brother's best man, and Walter Matz, Howard Trage, of Syracuse, and Albert Betts, of Pulaski, N. Y., were ushers. A reception in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Theodore Williams, of Syracuse, followed. The young Mercers will make their home in that city after the first of June.

Richard King Mellons and A. Rex Flinns, who attended the Grand National, will arrive in New York the first of the week. The Alan Magee Scaifes will remain abroad until the latter part of the month.

* * *

Mrs. V. J. Niele, of Winterburn street, has announced the marriage of her daughter, Miss Emma Niele, to H. G. Olson, which took place in Morgantown, W. Va., on Saturday.

Miss Louise Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Byrnes, of Wilkinsburg, has chosen April 25 as the date for her marriage to Charles William Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Butler, of Washington. The ceremony will take place in the Wilkinsburg Baptist Church with the Rev. Dr. O. H. Sisson officiating.

Wedding Date Set

Miss Burns has chosen Miss Mildred Wilharm Boeringer as her matron of honor, and as bridesmaids, her sister, Miss Anna Burns, Miss Jean Howard, Miss Virginia Coombs Briggs and Miss Adah Dunham. Milton C. Butler, of Washington, will be his brother's best man, and the ushers will include Malcolm Hickock, of Salem, O.; David Thomas, Kenneth Maxwell and Claude Hines, of Roanoke, Va. James Wright will sing, accompanied by Edward W. Kountz, organist.

There will be a reception in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, after which Mr. Butler and his bride will leave for the South. When they return they will reside in Brinton, Edgewood Acres.

Club Notes

The Geography Club will have as guests, Dr. Ben Graham, superintendent of Pittsburgh schools, and Mrs. Graham, at its annual dinner this evening in the Roosevelt Hotel. Bedell Monro, of the Penn Aviation School, and Miss Bess Goodykoontz, assistant commissioner of education, United States Office of Education, will be the speakers.

Annual Dinner

The educational conference tomorrow morning at Webster Hall will be followed by a luncheon and round table discussion of geographic subjects.

* * *

Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, of Douglas, Ariz.; national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. Thomas Meany, Jr., of Philadelphia, will share honors at the luncheon which Allegheny County Council of the Auxiliary will give in the William Penn Hotel Thursday.

Mrs. Hoyal

The committee arranging the affair includes Mrs. A. H. Jennings, president of Allegheny County Council; Mrs. Ronald Thompson, general chairman; Mrs. Edward Crump, Jr., co-chairman; Mrs. Charles W. Dressler, Mrs. Fred P. Moore and Mrs. S. C. Bednar.

Annual election of officers will be held tomorrow at the meeting of the Grove City College Woman's Club in the Congress of Clubs. District Attorney Andrew T. Park will be the speaker.

The very happiest sort of family party was the anniversary celebration which the Twentieth Century Club had yesterday in honor of its past presidents and charter members. The dining room had been arranged as an auditorium. At one end sat the past presidents and other honor guests with here and there a daughter taking her mother's place. It was all very delightful and very personal and very intimate and marked the twentieth anniversary of the club on its present site.

Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, drama chairman, presided and introduced the honor guests, each of whom spoke. A charmingly told history was given by Miss Julia Morgan Harding and Mrs. William Reed Thompson recounted the club's early days. Later there was tea, for which the table decorations were white lilies.

The Monnett Club of Ohio Wesleyan University will meet for tea tomorrow at the Congress of Clubs with prospective students as special guests. Mrs. Margaret S. Worcester and Miss Keitha Covil are to be hostesses.

* * *

Mrs. C. C. Taylor, chairman of work for the blind in the State Federation, addressed the Thursday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg yesterday afternoon when the members were guests of Mrs. H. S. Loomis at her home in Penn avenue. A social hour followed the program. Mrs. Glen Stoltz and Mrs. Roscoe Seybold assisting the hostess.

MISS HELEN LOUISE TUNNELL . . . DEBUTANTE LAST WINTER

Miss Tunnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Paul Tunnell, the only attendant of the bride at the wedding of her aunt, Miss Lilian Washburn Newlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ver Planck Newlin, Wayne, Pa., and Peyton J. Van Rensselaer, member of one of New York's oldest families, yesterday afternoon in Old St. David's Church, Radnor, Pa.

Art-Industry Committee Meets

Mrs. John M. Phillips, chairman of the art-in-industry contest which the State Federation is sponsoring, met with her committee and the club editors of the daily papers at luncheon in Kaufmann's yesterday and gave the first intimation of the potentialities of the contest. Mrs. Phillips emphasized the fact that the contest is by no means commercial, that it has been arranged only to bring to public attention the possibilities for creative art through the industry of the club women, and to give expression to beauty.

There are now 20 entrants in the contest, which is to be staged through the courtesy of Kaufmann's in the auditorium of the store, from May 22 to 29. The contest is inclusive and broad in its scope, for not only are affiliated clubs eligible, but organized groups outside the State Federation are also permitted to enter. The only requirement is that a club competing for the $500 prize shall exhibit only work that has been done by its own members within the year. Groups may have exhibits made by women outside their membership, but these will not compete.

Mrs. Phillips spoke of the coming exhibition as the second step towards a home exposition, which if her dream is realized, will find its third and final expression in a home exposition in Pittsburgh's Town Hall with the entire state taking part and every country in the world represented. The first step, out of which the present exhibition grew, was the home exposition held on the South Side last fall.

Among the exhibits will be children's toys made by the members of the Knoxville Library Club. A bridal party with gowns and gifts for the bride will be the work of the Carrick Mothers' Club; the Bradford Woods Civic Club will display some especially fine needlework; the Woman's Alliance of the First Unitarian Church will have a gift shop in which will be shown handweaving and other arts. The Wilkinsburg Juniors will enter their puppet show, opening the week's series of programs with it.

The College Hill Club of Beaver Falls has made the costumes for a play which the members will give. The Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club will have a display of table decorations and the Monaca Woman's Club is making children's dresses which will later be given to the needy of the community. These are only a hint of what promises to be one of the most ambitious projects ever undertaken by club women.

New officers of the Dormont New Century Club are: President, Mrs. Howard H. Heinrich; vice presidents, Mrs. Harry M. White and Mrs. E. E. Dick, recording and corresponding secretaries, Mrs. Harvey L. Applegate and Mrs. J. W. King, Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Porter; financial secretary, Mrs. V. V. Kendall; publicity secretary, Mrs. E. L. Thomasen; director, Mrs. W. E. Whitemore.

Circle 187, Ladies of the G. A. R., will have a benefit card party Tuesday afternoon in the Oppenheim-Collins auditorium.

Officers elected by the Women's Association of the University of Pittsburgh are: President, Mrs. Frank Shockley; vice presidents, Mrs. Paul F. Shupp and Mrs. Judson A. Crane; recording and corresponding secretaries, Mrs. Howard Power and Mrs. George B. Hatfield; treasurer, Mrs. Ralph E. Turner.

A mother and daughter banquet will be given this evening, in the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Episcopal Church, by the Queen Esther Standard Bearers. A playlet, "The Fountain of Youth" will be presented by a cast of seven girls, and the program, which has been arranged by Mrs. A. C. McMillan, will include music.

GENUINE SIMPLICITY MARKS MODE IN CHARMING SUITS

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, April 10.— The claim of the suit is too insistent to be set aside. Women who have scored all thought of being intrigued by a suit are fast abandoning their attitude in the face of the charming models now making their appearance. The type of suit that is not too formal or elaborate, nor yet too simple and indifferent, is not so easy to find, or has not been until this season. Although genuine simplicity is the watchword of the suit, all sorts of clever touches and color contrasts have been employed to take away any hint of monotony or mediocrity from even the most utilitarian suit. The most useful suit is one of fine woolen, quite simple in cut and design and relying on some bright, unexpected note to help it scale the heights of smartness. Such a suit can be worn through the season for informal town and country use and if but one suit is to be purchased, a model of this kind should be selected in preference to either the classic tailor-made, or the more elaborate furred model.

SKETCHED HERE WITH is a splendid suit, a Chantel model. It is of brown woolen with a pink georgette blouse. The latter is of simple cut, enhanced by diagonal piecings which form the entire blouse, sleeves as well. A red braid belt and vertical insets of black cloth at the top of the skirt are unexpected notes in the ensemble. The central panel of the skirt has a slight flare at the hemline. There is a straight short jacket of brown woolen.

POPULAR LUNCHEONS

Noon-day plate luncheons are now served at Reymers' Tea Rooms at 40c, 50c, 65c and 90c, in addition to a la carte service. Mr. Eric Turin Nielson, new manager of service, pronounces these plate luncheons the best he has eve served. Mr. Nielson came to us from the celebrated Park Lane Hotel, New York City, and his name has long been associated with the highest type of restaurant service.

Evening dinners at Reymers' Clark Building and Oakland Tea Rooms also reflect Mr. Nielson's skill. There is one consisting of small filet steak, French fried potatoes, rolls and coffee, at $1.00; others more elaborate at $1.25 and $1.50.

If you are planning to entertain at Bridge in the afternoon or at Dinner in the evening, consult Mr. Nielson about the free use of the Tea Rooms.

Light lunches may be had at all Reymers' Fountains, where new prices are also in effect.

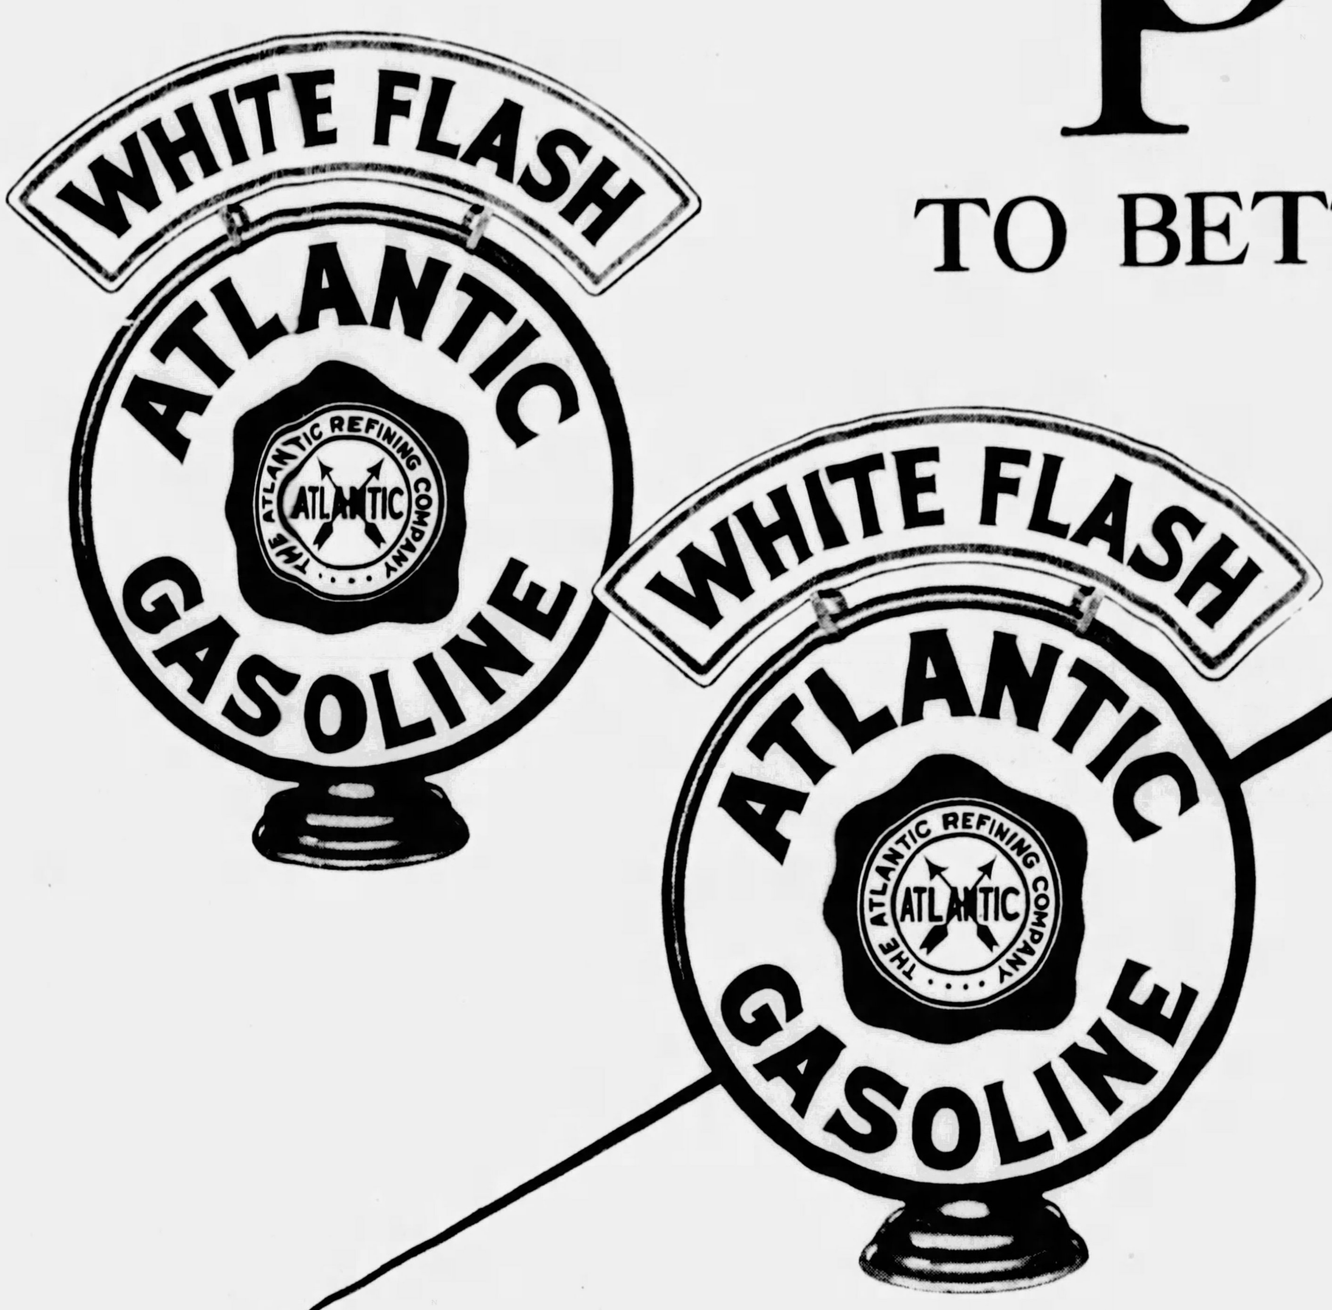
TO BETTER MOTORING



ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH

HERE are the official highway-signs to motoring satisfaction. No detours. No "closed for repairs." Just look for the familiar Atlantic globe, topped with the words WHITE FLASH. Buy your gasoline wherever you see it, and you'll go breezing along as smoothly and trouble-free as a bird a-wing.

ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH is the amazing new fuel that takes figures off your gasoline bill and puts them on your speedometer. Its flashing pick-up sweeps you ahead like a sprinter at the starting-gun. Its concentrated power sends you purring over the steepest hills as though they were level boulevards.

Remember: ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH is sensationally better, yet it sells at regular-gas price! It has no disagreeable odor . . . a feature you doubly appreciate if you drive a closed car. It means extra mileage and super-performance, at less cost. Use it always. Give your car a chance to show you what it can do.

Popularity of Grapefruit Is Well Deserved

Under Changed Growing Conditions This Formerly Neglected "Citrus Fruit" Has Lost the Bitterness That Has Kept It Out of Favor.

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND
Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator From New York.

Grapefruit, now so popular, was formerly rarely used. Brought to this country early in the sixteenth century by the Spaniards, it remained for many years an unaccepted fruit. This was due undoubtedly to the bitter taste that the fruit had when grown under unsatisfactory conditions. Today, with ideal growing facilities, it has become one of the most popular of all fruits.

The grapefruit belongs to the same family as the orange and lemon. They are known as the "citrus fruits." All such fruits are particularly useful because of their high content of easily digested sugar, mineral salts and vitamins.

The grapefruit is a health promoter, tonic in action and pleasing to the palate. It contains a goodly portion of mineral salts. Its alkali salts are found in excess of its acid salts. Hence, contrary to the common belief, its effect is to increase the alkalinity of the body rather than to make it more acid.

Grapefruit is rich in vitamins. It is particularly abundant in Vitamin C. This vitamin is the so-called "anti-scorbutic vitamin" which prevents scurvy. While we have little of the old-fashioned scurvy, we do see listlessness, laziness and lack of "pep," all signs of hidden scurvy.

In addition, this fruit contains Vitamin B. This vitamin promotes growth, aids the appetite and prevents certain nervous disorders.

Vitamin A is found in grapefruits in small amounts. Absence of this vitamin from the diet causes certain eye disturbances, and, in general lowers the resistance of the body to infections.

The cellulose content of grapefruit is of importance. It helps to overcome any tendency toward constipation. This is accomplished by the roughage it supplies to the intestinal content.

The juice of the grapefruit is exceedingly refreshing. Because of its sugar content and ease of digestion, it is of particular value in feeding the sick. It is a pleasing beverage and tempting to most persons recovering from illness.

In acute infectious diseases, particularly influenza, the juice of the grapefruit is highly recommended. Its bitter properties aid digestion. The high fluid content and alkaline reaction protect the kidneys and tissues of the body against toxins. These toxins or body poisons are formed in all infectious conditions and often do great damage.

Since grapefruit is marketed during every month of the year it is within reach of everyone. It is a highly desirable fruit and should be kept in mind. It is an excellent substitute for other fruits and provides for variety in the menu.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

All too frequently the American housewife depends almost entirely on salt and pepper for seasoning. The third member of the trio of fundamental seasonings—sugar—she sometimes fails to think of at all, looking upon it merely as a sweetener.

In this respect the French cook is wiser. She uses a dash of sugar to bind and accentuate the flavors of the various ingredients; not enough to sweeten, but sufficient to make a delicious difference in the final flavor of the dash.

Peppercorn, mace, allspice and large groups of other seasonings are also used by the French to achieve those delicate flavors that have brought French cooking the crown of acknowledged supremacy. No French chef ever disregards sugar as a seasoning agent. That dash of sugar gives point to the flavor of the food and makes it doubly delicious. Vegetables assume a new importance when properly cooked, properly sauced. And a little sugar makes all the difference in the world in vegetables.

Try these French recipes—and pay respectful attention to the quantities of sugar involved.

CAULIFLOWER BEARNAISE—Wash thoroughly 1 large head of cauliflower and separate into clumps. Drain and place in a greased casserole. Mix together 2 cups of peas, 1 large slice onion, 2 peppercorns, 2 cloves, ½ teaspoon of salt, 1 tablespoon of sugar. Simmer in a cup of water until the peas are soft. Melt 3 tablespoons of butter in a sauce-

PRUNES

THEY'RE a natural regulator.

Gently laxative, full of digestible fruit sugar, mineral salts, and valuable vitamins, prunes are good for everybody.

No need to bother with cooking. Just eat them as they come from the carton.

Or cover with cold water a few minutes, then drain.

Or steam them till they're plump and juicy.

You need fine prunes to serve this way. Be sure you get SUNSWEETS. They're the fanciest prunes California produces . . . tender, thin-skinned, sugar-ripe, full of fine flavor.

Remember, there is as much difference in prunes as in any fruit or food you buy.

Sealed in 1- and 2-lb. cartons to keep them clean and fresh.

LIVER WITH ONIONS—One-half pound beef liver, ½ cup flour, 2 tablespoons bacon fat, 10 large green olives, ½ teaspoon salt, paprika, 2 cups water, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup, slices of toast.

Scald the liver, removing the gristle or skin. Now roll the liver in the flour and salt and fry in bacon fat until light brown. Remove from the pan and sprinkle 2 tablespoons of salted flour in the fat, stirring until smooth. Add a cup of water, pepper and paprika, stirring to make a smooth gravy. Chop liver and olives, and cook gently in other cup of water for 10 minutes, adding the gravy and the catsup a few minutes before serving on toast.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Should a Girl Help Her Jobless Boy Friend?

Is it okay to help the boy friend when he's down on his luck.

Or will it turn him against you and make a loafer of him?

Alice asked us. She wanted to help Bob, who'd lost his job. He'd insisted on helping her once when she was in the same kind of a jam—and, even though she hadn't accepted that help, she wanted to give him a hand over his tough spot.

But there was that old notion that gents should be sturdy oaks, and ladies shouldn't help 'em.

So she began to wonder and doubt.

Helped Boy Friend

"Am I doing right?" she cried, "or am I making a terrible mistake?"

"I'll say you're making a mistake if you help that bozo!" snorts Flossie in disgust. "And a big one, too! I tried that little thing once, and I'd advise you to keep your money. He won't appreciate it. He probably won't even pay it back! And after he gets it, like as not he'll leave you flat!

"You say you love him . . . and you're sure he's all right. Well, I thought that too once. My Big Romeo lost his job, too, and I helped him—and how! And what happened? I'll tell you what, and if you know what's good for you, you'd better listen before it's too late. Here's my story:

"I was engaged to a man I thought the world of. He had a good job. And he lost it. And because I did love him and believed in him it wasn't long before I began to help him out. He hadn't saved much and that was soon gone. I was working, and getting good pay, and had a savings account, and I couldn't bear to see him going around with nothing.

Never Paid Back

"At first he wouldn't take my money. But I insisted. So finally he accepted my help. And he kept on accepting it for three years while he "looked for work"—which he finally did find—after he'd used up about $700 of my money.

"Did he pay me back? Sister, he did not! He is getting $75 a week now . . . and I've been sick in the hospital . . . needing my money. But he always has to have his salary for 'something else' to hear him tell it.

"I'll tell the world that it'll be a long time before I help out another gentleman in distress. Let your friend do his own rustling, Alice. You'll get nothing but a kick if you don't!"

Well, sister, I'll admit you seem to have been taken for a ride and I don't blame you for being offa the good samaritan stuff . . . but are you sure that it wasn't your own bad judgment that put you on the spot, and not your helpfulness?

You overplayed your hand . . . and I'm afraid your imagination ruled your head when you picked your Romeo. There's no excuse for any he-man to be out of work for three years even in the dullest times. You just let a hi-jacker play you for a good thing. And they're not all like that. If you don't believe me, listen to Dottie.

"I don't see why Alice should not help that friend of hers," says she, "providing she is sure he is worth helping. I am sure that she should be able to tell whether he is or not. I know that if he is worth it, she won't ever be sorry.

Trusted Him

"My case is exactly like hers, and I would like to tell her about it. About a year after I met my Jim he lost his job. He only had temporary work for almost a year. During that year I was working and getting a fairly good salary, so we went out just as we always had and I paid for all the amusements we went to and we went to lots of them, too.

"But, you see, I knew that he was trying honestly to get a job, and wasn't just loafing like some men do. So I even gave him carfare to look for a job because it takes too long and wears out too much shoe leather to walk from place to place as he would have had to. I gave him gifts on Christmas and his birthday, too. He didn't give me anything, but I didn't mind that because I knew he couldn't. I trusted him, because I knew that he was doing the best he could . . . and I won in the end.

"We've been married now for two years, and he's working. We're very happy. So you see, Alice, be sure of your man . . . Then help him when he needs it, and I know you'll win and be happy, as I am. He will repay you, as my husband is repaying me, for believing in him when things looked darkest."

Fay King Compares Training of Pugilist with Training of Movie Actress

By FAY KING

The pugilist who marries a picture actress is apt to find his life merely a little changed from rounds to reels.

If the marriage ends in a divorce it is not surprising to those who know how much a pugilist hates to train for a fight, and how much a picture actress must train for the films.

A pugilist trains strenuously for only a brief time before his contest, but a picture actress trains strenuously all the time to keep in camera condition.

After his battle a pugilist likes to loaf and get back to planked steaks again.

Imagine then how he feels when his home is like a training quarters.

Meals at minimum of nourishment. Masseurs beating an endless tattoo upon his wife's anatomy.

Madge Asks Question of Noted Theatrical Producer

I was not vain enough to think that Colin Cameron, the young talkie star, was particularly anxious to continue dancing with me, once his plea for my approval of Mary's theatrical engagement with him had been registered. I therefore looked at the clock upon one of the flower-covered brackets and pretended sudden consternation.

"Oh! I didn't realize how late it was!" I gurgled in approved feminine fashion. "I really must see about the supper. I am so sorry to cut short our dance, but will you take me to my husband please? There is something I want him to do for me at once."

"You cannot be half as sorry as I am," young Mr. Cameron assured me flamboyantly, "but, of course, if you insist."

"I must," I told him, smiling, and he gallantly escorted me to where Dicky was talking to Lillian, then bowing as if he were playing a scene upon the stage, he walked toward Philip Veritzen. But he had no more than traversed half the floor, than he veered and went toward the dancers, cutting in on Carolyn, thus patently transporting that young woman to the seventh heaven of youthful bliss.

"Clever foot work, or, rather eyework, that of Phil's," Lillian commented. "Did you see that 'keep off' signal he gave God's gift to matinee girls? Neither did I, but I know he gave it, by the look of his left nostril as well as the quick shift of young Mr. Cameron. He was trotting toward his master like a well-trained poodle when he got the office to shift."

"Looks as if he meant to make a report upon his conversation with you." Dicky drawled, and I sensed a question in his tones.

"I think he was going to do that very thing," I said, "and when I have a minute's time I want to consult you about my interview with young Mr. Cameron. Just now, however, I want you to hurry upstairs, waken Noel and bring him down here. It's almost time for supper, and he doesn't want anyone to guess that he had to go up and rest for a while."

"Of course not." Dicky acquiesced with instant comprehension of the masculine point of view. "I'll bring him back pronto."

As soon as he had gone I put into action the plan I had formed while listening to young Mr. Cameron, devoutly hoping that I could complete it before Dicky returned.

"Harry!" I appealed, "will you ask Mr. Veritzen to come over here for a minute? I want to ask him something."

"If I have to drag him by the collar, he shall be at your feet in another minute," he promised with a wide grin, as he walked away, and I turned to Lillian.

"I haven't time to explain," I said hurriedly, "but when they come back, will you take Harry just out of hearing for a few minutes?"

"But not out of sight, I gather," she retorted shrewdly, and I nodded.

"I want you to keep your eyes on me," I said tensely, "for I do not want to talk to that man a second longer than is necessary. Especially, I don't want Dicky to come back and see me talking to him. So when I give you our signal—"

"I'll come a-running," she promised with a grin, and rose as her husband and Mr. Veritzen reached us.

"We'll be back anon," she said, putting her hand on her husband's arm and scorning any excuse or subterfuge as is always her way.

Mr. Veritzen looked after them.

"Lillian is a direct soul," he commented. "I infer that you have requested her absence."

"Your inference is correct," I told him stiffly, for there was that in his tone which grated upon me. "I have something to ask you concerning Mary which I do not think you would wish anyone to hear. Indeed, you probably will not relish the question yourself."

"Dearest lady!" he expostulated softly, and he made tone and words a caress, "do you not know that there is no question in the world which you could put to me that—"

I held up my finger with a painful effort at archness.

"Better not finish that!" I told him. "I might take advantage of it."

"If you only would!" he breathed soulfully.

"I'm going to, right now," I said, a bit grimly. "The most surprising thing has happened. I'm sure you will be astonished also when I tell you that young Mr. Cameron has offered Mary a part in his new talkie."

I had given him a way out, but he did not take it.

"No, I am not astonished," he said gravely. "Cameron told me tonight that he intended offering her a role."

I wondered what would happen if I should speak the words hovering on my lips: "You mean, you told Cameron before he met Mary, to offer her the part." But I did not try the experiment, and said quietly instead:

"I am glad, for you will be prepared for my question. Will you promise not to be angry at me for asking it?"

"I think I have already answered that question," he said.

"Well, then," I drew a deep breath, as if marshaling my courage: "Can you give me your word of honor that if things were as they were, and you expected to make Mary a Veritzen star, you would permit her to accept this offer?"

Household Hints

Plants kept in a steamheated room should be washed two or three times a month with slight soapy water.

Pies mean work to many of us, so it is wise to mix an extra amount of pastry when we do make one. It can be rubbed over with lard and placed in the refrigerator for a couple of days before using.

When mending a rip in the glove, buttonhole the two edges with a fine needle and fine thread, never silk. Now catch these threads together in a buttonhole stitch and you will have a neat and lasting repair.

How to Keep Well

Danger of Silicosis to Workers

Man has been subjected to various ailments because of the very nature of his work. Laws have been enacted and enforced to prevent unnecessary exposure to disease.

Dr. Copeland

These are wise laws, but in spite of them there remain various diseases afflicting man in his daily labors. "Silicosis" is one of these.

Silicosis is a disease of the lungs. It is produced by breathing in great quantities of dust containing a high percentage of silica. The disease is common in the mines of South Africa and Australia. It has been reported in the United States and Canada.

It is found in men who work in siliceous rock or dust, in metal mining and coal mining. It is encountered in the quarrying of sandstone and granite, in tunneling, excavating, sand blasting, stone carving, grinding and polishing.

Just how silica acts on the lung tissues is not definitely understood. As a rule it produces a chronic bronchitis and this may lead to one of the forms of pneumonia.

The afflicted person becomes extremely susceptible to infections of the lungs. Repeated attacks of pneumonia lead to a general lowered resistance and, following this, tuberculosis may be contracted.

The occurrence of silicosis seems to depend upon the percentage of crystalline silica, tiny sand flakes, present in the substance inhaled. Men who are occupied in work of this nature over a period of five to 10 years are very likely to develop the disease. There have been reported cases of silicosis where the length of exposure to the dust has been for a much shorter time.

After continued exposure the symptoms gradually appear. There is an obstinate cough and progressing failure of health. Within a short time the afflicted person is unable to work.

Much has been done to reduce the prevalence of this disease. Proper ventilation of mines has gradually diminished it. Men are now protected by the wearing of masks similar to those worn by our soldiers during the war.

Long continued exposure to the dust is to be condemned. It is recommended that in these dusty industries the men work in short shifts. At certain periods they should change their work, doing tasks where exposure to dust is not required.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, April 11

This day will be conspicuous for the predominance of private affairs, with social, domestic and romantic activities engaging the attention almost exclusively. Friendship, courtship, pleasure and society hold sway, with the prospect of intrigues, secrecy and mysterious angles complexioning these.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to have a year in which the purely private affairs and relations may engage the attention. Domestic, social and especially affectional concerns may be uppermost, or business in connection with these or with art or intrigue. Be careful with all correspondence, lest there be regrettable misrepresentation or deception.

A child born on this day should be clever and cultured, gifted in all that makes for social and artistic prestige.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Personal Note of Thanks To Thoughtful Friends

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother passed away a week ago and I have received many flowers, spiritual bouquets, and cards of sympathy. must I write them each a personal letter of thanks, or would it be proper to send a card of acknowledgement engraved like this:

Miss Therese Vorhees gratefully acknowledges your kind expression of sympathy

The cards you purchase in the stores are not considered proper, are they?

MISS V.

Far, far better, because more personal and warmly appreciative in their effect on the sender of these kind of expressions of sympathy, is the more of thank-you. Engraved cards must be used by people in public life, people who, under these circumstances, receive thousands of messages. But, for the usual circumstances, when we can write notes, it is better taste and social judgment to do so.

Your note probably would read something like this:

Dear Mary:

You and Tom were most kind to send us your friendly message of sympathy and understanding, and we thank you deeply. The flowers that came, too, to tell us of your thought for us, were beautiful, and were sweet symbols of your kindness. Do know how much we appreciate your goodness.

The American Way and the Continental Way

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

People have informed me that it is incorrect to eat holding the fork in the left hand, the knife in the right hand, and transferring the food to the mouth with the fork. They say the only correct way is to cut the food in this position, and then transfer the fork to the right hand always.

You will do me a very great favor by giving your authority for the right way. I think either is correct.

W.

You are right—either form of eating is correct, and we should use the one we prefer. The fork-shifting method of eating is associated with this country; the non-fork shifting method, with practically all other countries. And the reason this question has arisen is that so many Americans, in traveling, now observe the non-fork-shifting method of eating, and observe, usually, how very convenient and un-fussy it is.

When we get used to eating in the continental style (and we can get used to it in no time at all, if we wish), the constant putting down of the knife and shifting of the fork, after a piece of meat has been cut, does seem awkward and the motions involved seem unnecessary.

I am distinctly in favor of the non-fork-shifting method of eating.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Better get the old elbows in form for the coming silly season when no sleeves or short ones will be the rule of fashion. Cold cream them every night. If the skin is rough, wash with soap suds and oatmeal before anointing with the cream.

Nail polishes made with a foundation of cream are best for nails that show up cracks and ridges. Lanolin or cold cream must be applied every night and milk should be added to the diet. Using the scissors instead of a nail file will cause brittle nails to break and to behave in an ill-tempered manner.

Those owly women who prowl round half the night and won't get enough sleep never look strictly up to beauty snuff. Eight hours are necessary, if the body is to make up for the depletion brought about by the activities of the day. Loss of sleep means loss of complexion color, dullness of eyes, lack of pep and puffs under the soul transoms.

Harsh shampoo soaps send hair into a state of tantrums. They weaken the structure of the shafts and irritate the scalp. When hair "acts up," won't curl or stay out, give it a change of shampoo.

Rhythmic dancing will put flesh on skinny shanks. Muscles will develop. Nobody ever saw a ballet dancer with legs like pipe-stems. Walking is recommended, but it isn't strenuous enough to make a speedy job, to change thin legs to normal ones. Lifting on the toes, high kicking, bicycle riding and jumping rope are healthful exercises.

Toe-nails should be cut straight across. By cutting down at the sides, ingrowing nails will form. Once they are established, it is difficult to be rid of them. Corns can be removed, but they return if the shoe continues to press upon the flesh. Inflammation between the toes, with scaling skin, is usually a form of ringworm and calls for medical treatment.

Work piled high, but she must go home!

A monthly occurrence! Her employer says nothing, and yet—

CAPABLE—she knows every detail of her work. Efficient—down to the very tips of her speeding fingers. Fully dependable—until a certain period every month. Then—good only to make excuses! But excuses do not halt the pains. Midol does.

Any woman who still submits meekly to the rule of the calendar should investigate the merits of these merciful tablets at once. They are as harmless as they look. You take them when your time comes, and you don't suffer. Or, if pains have started, they will subside in five to seven minutes. Midol never fails!

Specialists produced Midol for just one specific service—to end periodic suffering without harm. Without any hindrance to the normal periodic process. Midol is not a narcotic. So you may take it as often as there is need.

Over a million modern women who depend on this comfort avoid even one moment of periodic pain. Just say "Midol" to your druggist.

pan and place over fire. Stir constantly and when thoroughly mixed remove from fire and gradually add the cup of boiling water, stirring vigorously to keep smooth. Return to fire and let it boil gently for five minutes. Then add banana butter and mix thoroughly. Have yolks well beaten and add to mixture, stirring rapidly to prevent uneven cooking of eggs. Cook until quite thick. Remove from fire and add vanilla. Cool and pour into baked pie crust. Cover with meringue. Put in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) from 8 to 10 minutes until delicately browned. Serve very cold.

HOT SPICED TONGUE—Boil, skin and trim a good-sized beef tongue. Rub the surface well with ½ teaspoon ginger and 1 teaspoon allspice. Slice a small onion and fry it in butter. Dredge the tongue with flour and brown it in the onion-seasoned butter. Put in a casserole. Make a sauce by blending 1 teaspoon flour with the fat in the pan and adding 1 cup stock, the juice of 1 lemon and ½ cup of seeded raisins. Pour this sauce over the tongue and bake 30 minutes.

MOCK GOOSE—Parboil a leg of pork and remove the skin. Rub with butter, sprinkle with powdered sage, salt, pepper, bread crumbs and finely minced onion. Roast in a moderate oven until tender and nicely browned. Bake a well-seasoned bread dressing in the pan with the pork. Serve with fried apple rings.

BREADED BREAST OF LAMB—Cook a breast of lamb in water for 45 minutes or until tender. Drain, remove the bones and press under a heavy weight until cold. Cut into pieces convenient for serving. Dip each piece in melted butter. Season with salt and pepper, then dip in fine bread crumbs, and fry in hot fat until nicely browned.

BOSTON BROWN BREAD—One cup yellow cornmeal, 1 cup rye meal, 1 cup whole-wheat flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons soda, 1 pint sour or buttermilk, ⅔ cup molasses.

Sift ingredients and measure. Sift again with the salt and soda. Add molasses and buttermilk and mix well. Turn into buttered molds filling two-thirds full. Cover tightly and steam 3 hours. If 12-ounce baking powder tins are used, two hours' steaming will do, though longer cooking improves the bread rather than harming it.

POT ROAST—Four pounds chuck or top sirloin, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons fat, 1½ cups boiling water, 4 halved carrots, 4 onions, 4 halved potatoes, 1 can tomato soup, 1½ tablespoons flour additional.

Wipe meat and rub flour, pepper and salt into surface. Brown on all sides in heated fat, add water, cover closely and simmer until almost tender—about three hours—adding a little additional water if necessary. Put in vegetables and tomato soup and cook until tender—about three-quarters of an hour. Thicken gravy with additional flour rubbed smooth with a little cold water after removing meat and vegetables from pan.

If liked, press 2 or 3 whole cloves into meat before cooking. These quantities serve eight.

GINGER SAUCE—Melt 1 tablespoon of butter, add 1 tablespoon of flour and 1 cup of syrup. Bring to boiling point, add 3 tablespoons chopped preserved ginger and 3 tablespoons syrup from preserved ginger. Syrup used in this recipe is that from the canned fruit or the water in which fresh fruit has been cooked. In the latter case add sugar to taste.

HALIBUT CREOLE — Two pounds halibut, ½ cup tomato catsup, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 2 cups water, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper, parsley, sweet dill pickle.

Place catsup, water and onion juice in a pan and heat until boiling. Mix butter and flour together and stir into the sauce. When it boils, season with salt and pepper and cook for several minutes. Pour boiling water into a deep pan to a depth of ½ inch. Lay fish in it for one minute—skin side down. Remove from water and take off skin. Place in a well buttered pan, season with salt and pepper. Top with slices of pickle and pour half the ketchup sauce over the fish. Bake 30 to 45 minutes, basting with remaining ketchup sauce. Serve the fish surrounded with sauce from the pan. Garnish with parsley.

MARBLE ORANGE JELLY—Soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in 1 cup cold water, then add to ¾ cup boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add 2-3 cup sugar, ¾ cup strained orange juice and 2 tablespoons strained lemon juice. Chill. When the gelatin begins to stiffen, remove one-third the quantity and beat this until light. Serve in glasses, in alternate layers of whipped jelly, plain jelly, and cream. Chill thoroughly before serving.

SHE WAS ALWAYS LEFT BEHIND

SHE NEVER seemed to have the pep that the other girls had. Nor was she so good-looking either. Her complexion was sallow. Wrinkles had appeared—years too soon. Little wonder that men found excuses when her name was mentioned.

What a pity that so many girls lose beauty so soon . . . very often caused by the poisons of constipation. This could be prevented, easily, pleasantly . . . by eating a delicious cereal.

Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, use with each meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps the intestines clean of all poisonous wastes. How much better than taking habit-forming pills and drugs.

Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Use for making fluffy bran muffins, breads, omelets, etc. Look for the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. The largest-selling All-Bran.

BILL M'CARTHY MAY BE LEAGUE HEAD

SINCE BILLY EVANS took himself out of the picture by announcing he intended to stick with the Cleveland club, several others who were mentioned as possibilities for the presidency of the American League to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Ernest S. Barnard also have been eliminated. For a time it looked as if Barnard's successor might be William Harridge, present secretary of the league, but according to Sam Otis, of Cleveland, and others who are in a position to know what is going on in baseball's political circles, Harridge is now out of the running unless a compromise choice becomes necessary. The same goes for Ed Barrow, business manager of the New York Yankees.

William Harridge

Only two men are said to be under consideration for the post. The one who is believed to be the first choice of the club owners, or of the majority of them, is William M. (Bill) McCarthy, former president of the Pacific Coast League, and the other is L. C. McEvoy, vice president of the St. Louis Browns.

MCARTHY, A FIGHTER on the order of Ban Johnson, is the man who attracted nation-wide attention while president of the Coast League from 1920 to 1923 by making war on the gambling element. He carried on other reform drives until he incurred the ill will of some of the club owners by starting a campaign against syndicate ownership.

A prolonged fight ensued when McCarthy charged that the purchasers of the Seattle club were already in control of another franchise in the same league, the result being that Harry A. Williams was elected to succeed him as president. Claiming he had not been legally deposed, McCarthy carried the matter to the National Board, which upheld Williams on the ground that a majority of the clubs had voted for him.

THE ABILITY HE showed as an executive and the reputation he earned as a fighter for clean baseball are said to have made McCarthy look to most of the American League magnates like just the man for the vacant presidency. It is understood that the post has been or will be offered to him.

McEvoy might have been the accepted candidate were it not for the law suit which his club has pending against Commissioner Landis in connection with the latter's refusal to let the Browns send Player Bennett out again on option. Ban Johnson's opposition to Landis once placed the American League in an embarrassing position, and the club owners will not hastily elect another man who might not be acceptable to the commissioner.

ONE OF THE historic boxing centers of New York, the Olympia Club in Harlem, passed out as a fight arena when its chairs, benches and ring were sold for $227 to satisfy a judgement of $2,646 for unpaid rent. It was in the Olympia ring that John Lester Johnson broke a couple of Jack Dempsey's ribs in 1916. Freddie Welsh, Johnny Kilbane and Benny Leonard were champions who fought there. Jess McMahon was running the club when it succumbed to the boxing slump in February. The place will be leased as a garage.

A. A. Stagg

FOOTBALL MEN ARE recalling that the late Knute Rockne gave A. A. Stagg, veteran Chicago coach, credit for having provided the foundation for the playing system that made Notre Dame's teams the most colorful and successful in the country.

"Our system probably was derived from Stagg's in its origin." Rockne is quoted. "Jesse Harper began part of it, and I may have contributed some more, but I think in its elemental stage it was based on Stagg's old plays. We have, of course, evolved a lot of new things since, and very little of the old remains, but just the same give Stagg credit for the original idea in part."

THE MOST COPIED football styles are those of Rockne and Warner—the Rockne system with its shift and the Warner system with its double wing-backs, which Ralph Cannon describes as creating in effect a nine-man line.

There has been quite a swing to the double wing-backs in the last few years, but it is predicted that the more efficient and dramatic Rockne system will survive longer.

ROCKNE USED TO explain in this way wherein his system differed from Warner's: First, Notre Dame uses a quick shift, comes to a complete stop, loses momentum and then is off again before the other team has been able to spot the formation. Second, the offensive end boxes the tackle alone, and Notre Dame has no wing back. Third, the lead halfback takes a defensive end out or in, alone. Fourth, Notre Dame depends on deception and speed, with power minimized, so that light, small men can play the game, preponderence of bulk not being essential, whereas the Warner system is based largely on power, with some deception. And fifth, Notre Dame does a lot with the forward pass, for which Warner does not go in so extensively.

IN LOSING FIVE out of seven games played up to date in the series with the Detroit Tigers, the Pirates have been running true to the spring form of National League clubs in general. Thus far 51 games have been played as exhibitions between clubs of the two loops, and of these the American has won 28 against the National's 23.

Only two National League clubs are able to show more victories than defeats in their meetings with American League outfits. They are the Cardinals, who have won four games and lost one, and the Giants, who have won seven and lost six.

IT HAS BEEN A dull week for Helene Madison. Outside of cracking Ethel Lackie's 50-yard world record, setting a new American record for the 250-yard free style and helping to set a new world mark for the 400-yard relay in Minneapolis, and smashing Gertrude Ederle's seven-year-old mark for the 220 in Chicago, the girl swimming champion hasn't done a thing.

Tonight she will attack Martha Norelius' 600-yard record of 7 minutes 59 seconds in Cleveland. Out of 16 world swimming records for women, the Seattle star now holds 13, and out of 54 American free-style records she holds 26, with four additional marks set this season which have not yet been recognized as official.

Joe Walcott

THE OLD DAYS of the fight game will be brought back in memory to many of the fans gathered at the St. Nicholas arena in New York tonight, as one of those appearing in the ring will be none other than the once mighty Negro welterweight champion, Joe Walcott. Joe, who, by the way, celebrated his fifty-ninth birthday anniversary last Tuesday, isn't going to do any fighting, of course, but he will be in there to second his protege, Earl Smith, in a four-round preliminary to the Ben Jeby-Laddie Lee feature. A light welterweight standing only 5 feet 1½ inches, Walcott was the most formidable fighter of his inches that ever lived, flattening such big men as Joe Choynski, Dan Creedon, Jimmy Ryan and Billy Edwards. Boxers whom Joe could have whipped with one hand get more money for 10 rounds nowadays than the Barbados Demon made in years of terrific fighting.

15 TEAMS VIE FOR SCHOOL LAURELS

By JESS CARVER

The seventeenth annual University of Pittsburgh interscholastic and university swimming championships get under way tonight in Trees Gym pool. Before the splashing and splattering is over, existing records will be in for quite a body beating and the Erie Central High squad, which is on hand to defend the title it won last year, will undergo some uneasy moments.

A crackerjack entry of 15 schools is slated to compete for the schoolboy championship. Nine schools figured in the scoring in last year's meet, during which seven records were shattered. Erie Central copped the verdict by a four-point margin, with Carrick winding up in second place. Erie Academy third and Munhall and Coraopolis in a dead heat for fourth.

Tonight's competition will consist mainly of trial heats, two school and as many university finals being carded. The meet will be opened with the staging of the scholastic relay of 160 yards. The schoolboy fancy diving crown and the Pitt 150-yard back stroke and the 200-yard breast stroke laurels will be awarded. Following is the complete card for tonight's splashing:

100-yard free style, scholastic, finals—Record made in 1930 by Erie Central High. Time, 1:22.

40-yard free style, Pitt, trial heats—Record made by William J. Wright in 1928. Time, :18 4-5.

Fancy diving, scholastic.

40-yard free style, scholastic, trial heats—Record made by T. O. Matthews in 1925. Time, :19 seconds, and by Willard Norton in 1929, and by John Reilly in 1929. Time, :19 seconds.

150-yard back stroke, Pitt, finals—Record made by F. Wooldridge in 1930. Time, 1:48 2-5.

100-yard back stroke, trial heats—Record made in 1928 by H. Stanton, Schenley. Time, 1:06 2-5.

220-yard free style, Record made in 1930 by E. Lindberg, Munhall. Time, 2:31 2-5.

200-yard breast stroke, Pitt, finals—Record made by C. Jackson in 1927. Time, 2:45 2-5.

100-yard breast stroke, scholastic, trial heats—Record made by Joseph Schmieler, Carrick, in 1930. Time, 1:2 1-5.

100-yard free style, Pitt, trial heats—Record made by W. Wright in 1927. Time, :55 4-5.

100-yard free style, scholastic, trial heats—Record made by Willard Norton in 1929. Time, :57.

TOLEDO.—(AP.)—Helen Madison, 17-year-old swimming sensation from the Washington Athletic Club of Seattle, added another American record to her string here last night when she broke the 250-yard free style mark. She made the distance in 3:02, clipping 2 2-5 seconds off the former record.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(AP.)—Fifteen-round boxing bouts, with a decision by the referee and two judges, when a national or international title is involved, would be permitted in Missouri under a bill passed late yesterday by the House. The bill now goes to the Senate.

BUENOS AIRES.—(AP.)—Julio Moreno, one of the most popular boxers in South America, died yesterday of injuries received in an automobile accident. He was a lightweight standing second in popular favor to Justo Suarez.

NOME, Alaska.—(AP.)—Al Carey, Nome, drove his dog team to victory here yesterday in the Nome-Golovin race to win the first prize of $1,000. Carey, winner of the race last year, covered the 158 miles to Golovin and return in 16 hours, 26 minutes, 42 seconds.

LONDON.—(AP.)—Phil Scott, retired British heavyweight, has decided to take another fling at prize fighting. He has accepted terms for a 15-round bout with Larry Gaines, Toronto, Ont., Negro boxer, and Canadian heavyweight champion, at the Leicester Stadium, June 13.

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—(AP.)—Babe Ruth ran his home run record for the exhibition season to four yesterday when he drove one high on the right-field embankment in the second inning of the Yankees' game with Asheville. The drive scored Lary.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—The Senators have about decided to send Ad Liska to Youngstown, for treatments to his sore arm. The submarine ball hurler continues to feel uncomfortable when he throws. He thinks his present difficulty might be similar to that he had in 1925, when a physician removed the soreness by snapping a back muscle into place.

Fight Results

At Denver, Col.—George Manley defeated Charley Belanger, 10 rounds.

At Milwaukee, Wis.—Roger Bernard defeated Harry Dublinsky, 10 rounds. Frankie Battaglia defeated Haakon Hansen, 10 rounds.

At Stockton, Cal.—Bobby Vincent knocked out Joey Roberts, 5 rounds.

At New York, Dave Alter defeated Jackie Tannyhill, 8 rounds. Harry Sabia and Charley Nelson drew, 10 rounds.

At Paterson, N. J.—Al Diamond defeated Al Roy, 10 rounds.

At White Plains, N. Y.—Rodie (Kid) Whalen knocked out Johnny Bates, 10 rounds.

At Philadelphia.—Midget Fox defeated Ross Stoltz, 8 rounds. Bobby Dean defeated Johnny McShey, 8 rounds.

LOCAL TEAM IN TOURNEY

The Downtown Y volley ball team will compete in the Western Pennsylvania volley ball championships at the Altoona Y. The teams placing first and second will compete against the two eastern tournament winners in the final at the Downtown Y April 25.

SHOOT TOMORROW

The Western Pennsylvania Trapshooters League will stage its first official tournament tomorrow afternoon at the Wilkinsburg Gun Club. Shooting will begin at 12:30 o'clock. The program will be 100 targets at 16-yard rise and a handicap race of 50 targets.

Seats for Pirates' Home Opener On Sale

Officials of the Pirates have announced that reserved seats for the opening contest and the other games of the inaugural series here would be opened to public sale at 9 o'clock next Monday morning at Spalding's, Wager's, 6121 Penn avenue and the Grill Restaurant, 339 Fifth avenue.

It was further announced that the distribution of tickets by mail will be continued and that mail orders would be filled as usual.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT (Reg. by U. S. Patent Office) By RIPLEY

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: A WREATH OF LAUREL LEAVES WAS THE MOST VALUED PRIZE—The laurel, to which ancient mythology attributed wonderful purifying and curative powers, in time became the most coveted prize in the Greek and Roman world. The laurel wreath was the reward of the successful competitor in the ancient Grecian athletic games. The conqueror in battle, the Roman emperor returning triumphantly from victories over the barbarians, the inspired poet all aspired to be crowned with this sacred and highest symbol of triumph and fame.

TOMORROW: THE FAMOUS HUNGARIAN WHO COULD NOT SPEAK HUNGARIAN.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM NAMED

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—The United States Lawn Tennis Association has selected Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex.; Frank Shields, of New York, and Sidney B. Wood, now a student at the University of Arizona, to represent the United States against Mexico in their first-round Davis Cup tie to be played at Mexico City, May 1, 3 and 5.

The American color-bearers will leave San Antonio on April 21 for Mexico City and will put in several days of intensive practice in the high altitudes of that city. The series will start with two singles matches on Friday, May 1, followed by the doubles on May 3 and the final two singles matches on May 5.

J. D. Adoue, Jr., a member of the U. S. L. T. A. executive committee, will act as non-playing captain.

IRISH GRIDDERS PRACTICE

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 10.—(AP.)—Voluntary spring football practice will be resumed this afternoon at Notre Dame under the direction of Coaches Heartley (Hunk) Anderson and Jack Chevigny, assistants to the late Knute Rockne.

The suggestion was made that spring football practice be cancelled, but Mrs. Rockne and school officials were of the opinion that the late Notre Dame leader would have wanted things to go on as in the past. They also believe that starting practice will have a better psychological effect on the players than leaving them idle.

Practice will continue to the end of the month, making a total of less than six weeks' work. Several football stars are working with the track and baseball teams.

Rockne Had Strong Hold On His Players; Seldom Mistaken in His Men

ROCKNE'S LIFE STORY—NINTH INSTALMENT.

By WARREN BROWN

(Copyright, 1931, Chicago Herald and Examiner. Distributed by Universal Service.)

The hold that Rockne had on his players, and especially his faculty for appealing to their emotions, was one of his marked characteristics. But there was once, at least, when his boys began to check up on him. For reasons which, I hope, will be obvious, the locale and the identity of the characters shall, for the most part, remain nameless. The team, in one of Jimmy Phelan's years, had arrived in the territory of one of its rivals for a game. Phelan, walking down the street with a classmate, Mike Nigro, overheard a conversation which caused him to suspect that an attempt was being made to cause dissension on the team.

Knute Rockne

Phelan, acompanied by Nigro, reported back to Rockne and a meeting was called, at once.

Rockne rose to the occasion. He roused the players, as only Rockne could, and climaxed his speech with an appeal to go out and avenge the death of one who, for the purpose of this episode, shall be called "Jones."

UNDERSTOOD MEN

"Went away from that meeting," Phelan says, "convinced that this team, and its coach, had been responsible for the death of 'Jones', and I tell you that we walloped our opponents in a good, old fashioned way.

"Coming back on the train, we got talking about the incident, and finally asked one of the old timers how long after the game in question 'Jones' had died.

"'At least three years,' said the old timer. 'He died of pneumonia.'"

Rockne understood his men, better, I think, than any other coach.

And yet there is one incident on record where one of his players fooled him.

The player was Harry Mehre, whose position was center although, as he himself relates:

"I was the greatest halfback that ever reported for practice at Notre Dame—until I reported."

Notre Dame was playing Indiana, and it had been raining steadily. The field was a sea of mud, and there came a time when the ball rested close to the Notre Dame goal line, forcing Gipp to prepare to kick from beneath his own goal posts.

ROCK FOOLED

"It was a critical situation," Mehre says, "and the pass from center had to be perfect, when you considered the conditions.

"I was on the bench and Rock sent me in, telling me that I had to make that pass, that I was

PIET FARMED TO WICHITA

Staff Correspondent.

DETROIT, April 10.—Just before his team pulled out of Decatur last night, Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates, announced that Recruit Second Baseman Tony Piet was farmed out to the Wichita club, of the Western League. Tony left later in the evening for Wichita.

Piet was one of the most promising of the Pittsburgh recruits, and the Pittsburgh officials have an arrangement whereby they can recall the Polish lad on short notice. Manager Art Griggs, of the Wichita team, apparently liked the style of the fleet and powerful white-haired youth when he saw him in action at Paso Robles. Tony starred for the Waco club, of Texas League, last season. The Pittsburgh club has an interest in Wichita. The farming of Piet reduces the Pittsburgh squad to 29 players, including Pitcher Steve Swetonic.

'HAWKS TAKE HOCKEY LEAD

MONTREAL, April 10.—(AP.)—The Chicago Blackhawks forged ahead in the playoff series for the Stanley Cup last night by defeating the Montreal Canadiens, 3 to 2, in a long overtime game. The Hawks won in the third overtime period after coming from behind to tie the score in the last four minutes of the regular playing time. The victory gave Chicago two victories in the three games played so far in the series. The lineup:

Canadiens—2.		Chicago—3.

Umpires—Liston and Stanage.

DETROIT, April 10.—The Pirate-Tiger baseball game scheduled for Navin Field this afternoon was canceled at noon on account of wet weather. The two clubs arrived here this morning in a heavy downpour. The steady drizzle ceased just before midday, but the moist conditions were so pronounced the home officials decided to dispense with the contest carded for the day.

The inter-league rivals are down on the books for games tomorrow and Sunday.

The Bengals have taken the measure of the Buccos in five of the seven fights, they adding to their laurels yesterday in Decatur, where they trimmed the Freebooters, 6 to 4.

The scrap in Decatur was finished in a rainstorm. Threatening clouds gathering about noon began to throw off their moisture just as the game got under way, but there was a cessation of the raindrops during the first five innings during which time a crowd of almost 3,000 appreciative fans was treated to some real baseball.

RAIN DRENCHES PLAYERS

The skies let loose again in the sixth and drenched the athletes, but the umpire in charge of the contest would not listen to the pleas of Manager Ens and the Tiger officials for a cancelation of hostilities. The official remained adament and was successful in getting the nine rounds reeled off.

Bednar's mother and father, along with other home folks, came up from Nokomis to see Andy twirl. Andy appeared to have a lot of stuff to show the Nokomis folks, but the field by this time was very wet and he was unable to show in his best style. Andy, however, came out of the game with a perfect batting average—he went to the plate once and connected for a clean hit.

Needless to state, the Pirates are glad to be back in the major realm. Their long jaunt was very

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Well, the season can start now. Griff gave President Hoover his annual gold baseball pass. But if things get any tougher, he will have to take a sterling silver one next year. The pass admits Mr. and Mrs. Hoover together. Catch Griff issuing individual oakleys when they cost him $60 apiece.

Nick Altrock

It is good at any American League park. I suppose if the President wants to run up and see the Phillies play the Pirates, he would have to pay to get in.

Griff don't mind spending plenty for a solid gold pass, but it burns him up because it's only good for two admissions and 16 secret service men always crash the gate when the President comes in.

GRAHAM APPOINTED GOLF PRO AT SCHENLEY

Sam Parks, Jr., Pitt Golf Captain, Reaches North-South Semi-Finals

BOB TO ASSUME NEW DUTIES NEXT WEEK

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

If you aren't a public links golfer, and yet have come to know the smiling face of Special Policeman Bob Graham at the Mellon Bank, be advised that when you find him absent right soon, it's not because he's been given the gate . . . at least by the bank.

Bob has been given a gate, all right enough—the gate to a golf career that should bring him laurels untold. He has just been appointed golf professional at the Schenley Park municipal links, succeeding Al McBride, who went to South County Park, and will assume his new duties when the course is officially opened next Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

CAPABLE MAN

Graham is one of the few amateur golfers who have stepped into a responsible golf professionals' berth, and it augurs well not only for his ability as a golfer—and that is attested by the 60, six under par, he scored last season—but also for his power for imparting a knowledge of the game, and a sense of management.

The thousands of golfers at Schenley Park will welcome Bob in his new role; he is known far and wide for his prowess in local and national public links tournaments, being, aside from a regular scorer, one of the longest drivers in the district. He started playing golf, like the other members of his well-known golfing family, when he was only knee-high to a grasshopper, in fact, when he was only 10 years old, at Royal Belfast, Ireland, his native land. As a caddie he developed his game and since 1922 has been grabbing more and more of the golf limelight.

Graham is a brother of John Graham, president of the South Hills Country Club and former president of the West Penn Golf Association, and of the late Lieut. Sam Graham, of the city police department, both of whom gained reputations themselves as linksmen.

Graham was a member of the 1929 national public links team, which played at St. Louis, but lost out in a playoff for the last place following the qualifying test. He was runner-up in the city championship last year.

Director of Public Safety Edward G. Lang announced Graham's appointment. Lang will inspect the Schenley course Sunday with a view to opening it April 15.

Veteran Stars Win In Rochampton Golf

LONDON, April 10.—(AP.)—The class of the older professionals began to make itself felt today—in the second round of match play in the Rochampton invitation golf tournament. Herbert Jolly, Michael Bingham, Charles Whitcombe and Fred Robson stroking their way to victory.

Whitcombe had the hardest task disposing of C. H. Gadd, the youngster who eliminated Abe Mitchell, in the first round this morning. The Ryder Cup captain won by the narrow margin of one hole.

Jolly defeated O. Sanderson, 5 and 4; Bingham beat Mark Seymour, 4 and 2, and Robson eliminated Bert Hodson, 1 up.

The first and second rounds were at 18 holes.

Betty Perkins Out Of Dogwood Tourney

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 10.—(AP.)—Betty Dix Perkins, British star and medalist in the Sedgefield Woman's Dogwood golf tournament, was defeated, 5 and 3, by Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, in their semi-final match today.

Miss Wattles in the final tomorrow will meet Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, who beat Helen Waring, of New York, 3 and 1, in the other semi-final.

No. 6—HOW TO BAT.

By AL SIMMONS

WORLD CHAMPION HITTER.

Ever since I've been in the big leagues stories have been written about my batting stance. Maybe I do stand queerly up there at the plate. But it's my natural style, and, as I see it, the first word of advice to any hitter is to be natural and easy at the plate.

In this picture the youngster is using my hitting style. But there are other things to note, too. He is using a long bat to overcome that stepping in the bucket business. Note, too, that he's standing far back in the box. That's to take the ball after the break. There are two types of hitters. One stands up in front in an effort to hit the ball before it breaks. The other stands back and gets the ball after the break. Either style is okay if it's natural. I personally stand back far because I think such a hitter has a better chance against a fast ball pitcher.

Some fellows crowd the plate; others stand back from it. The fellows who crowd usually are "choke" hitters. The others are what we call free-swingers. The choke hitter is apt to have trouble with inside pitches. The other chaps will have difficulty with outside balls. So, again, it's just a matter of taking your choice.

The big advantage of choke hitting is that the hitter can wait to see the pitch before he swings. He isn't as easily fooled by a change of pace.

There's one fault with the boy hitter here in the picture. He's holding his bat too low and too far forward. A fast ball would be across the plate before he could even get his bat back to his shoulder. Hold your bat back, but free from the shoulder. Keep it shoulder-high until the pitch starts. It's easier to shift down for a low ball than it is to lift your bat from the waist to the shoulder to cut at a high, fast one.

All of which brings us back to the same old thing. The first rule in hitting is be natural and free and easy. Babe Ruth, Rogers Hornsby, Lou Gehrig, Babe Herman, Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins all are pretty good hitters, you'll have to admit. Yet no two of them hit alike except for one thing. They're all natural and easy at the plate. Their styles are their own, but they're natural styles.

BURGETTSTOWN NINE FORMED

By TOM BIRKS

Burgettstown, that little village on the Panhandle, is going to play a prominent part in the pennant race for the Washington County loop. Backed by the businessmen, the Burgettstown Community Baseball Club, a newly-formed aggregation under the managerial wing of Cutt Whalen, is serving notice on the other members of the loop that nothing less than a championship aggregation will be tolerated.

The Washington County League is composed of several real smart teams, and Fred Knodle, district commissioner for Honus Wagner in that neck of the woods, is not willing to concede Whalen's team an edge over the other members.

The Washington Eagles, Duncan Millers, Canonsburg and the other members of the loop are classy outfits, he says, and the teams have noted the activities of Manager Whalen in lining up a great team for Burgettstown. The county loop is going to have a real race this season.

Whalen will build his pitching staff around Mack Mooney, who featured with the Wheeling Baurs. Charley Hamilton, former Monmouth College star; Red Riddle, classed as one of the best southpaws in the Panhandle; Father Casey, Ted Salleffi, another portsider, and Willis Crawford are in line.

Augie Replogle will carry most of the burden of the catcher's duties, but Al Roche, who played with the Troy Hill Millers, is trying out for the job.

William (Abe) Martin, local southpaw pitcher, whose home is in Beechview, this morning left to report to the Evansville, Ind., team of the Three-Eye League.

COLLINS SIGNS WITH PHILS

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—(AP.)—Phil Collins, star pitcher of the Philadelphia Nationals, today signed a two-year contract with the club. He was the last of the club's holdouts.

The amount of salary Collins is to recveive was not announced.

The pitcher arrived in Philadelphia early today and conferred with L. C. Ruch, president of the club, for a short time, after which came the announcement that Phil was in the fold for the season.

Collins, whose home is in Chicago, said he had been working out at Northwestern University and was in good condition. Last year, Collins won 16 games for the Phils and lost 11.

HOMANS BOWS, DUNLAP WINS AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., April 10.—(AP.)—George T. Dunlap, Jr., New York golfer and intercollegiate champion, continued his winning stride in the thirty-first annual North and South amateur tournament here yesterday, but the defending champion, Eugene Homans, of Englewood, N. J., fell by the wayside.

Dunlap, the medalist, won his quarter-finals match on the thirteenth hole, eliminating Howard Tryon, Elmira, N. Y., 7 and 5. The college champion, playing under the colors of Princeton, was out in 35, one under par.

Homans, who won the 1930 tournament, was 1 down to T. Sufferen Tailer, Newport, R. I., at the turn, but the Rhode Islander showed a more consistent brand of golf on the back nine to win, 5 and 4.

J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., who came to Pinehurst with a string of titles acquired in Florida winter tournaments, defeated Richard S. Tufts, of Pinehurst, 3 and 1. The pair was all square at the turn.

Forbes K. Wilson, of York Harbor, Me., was 4 down to Samuel M. Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh, at the turn, and 6 down on the thirteenth, but the former, a Yale golfer, braced to win the next three holes. The seventeenth was halved to end the match. Parks, captain of the University of Pittsburgh team, went out in 35. Wilson's putting was costly to him. He three-putted three of the first nine greens.

TECH TRACKMEN DRILL

If there is strength in numbers, the Carnegie Tech varsity and freshmen track and field teams this season will be very strong aggregations. Fifty-five varsity and 40 freshmen team candidates are working under the direction of Coach Guy Halferty. Because the Bowl cinder path is not in shape, Schenley Park is being used as a practice field.

BRANNON, KISER IN WINDUP AT MOOSE

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor.

The Moose Temple arena, downtown, enters upon the last lap of the indoor boxing season tonight, when the sport will be resumed there following a two weeks' layoff during the Easter season. Promotor Apples Meyers has only a handful of Friday night dates left at the Moose before he moves his activities outdoors to the Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock.

Eddie Brannon, local Negro lightweight, meets Ray Kiser, of Tulsa, Okla., who has boxed before in the Moose ring, in the 10-round main bout. Both are tough and hard fighters and the bout promises to be a grueling one.

Howard Mitchell, of Cincinnati, and Marty Gornick, of Whitaker, box the six-round semi-final, with Mitchell, making his first appearance here, touted as a great prospect with a fine record. Steve Senich, of Homestead, and Don Frazier, of the Hill, will box the second bout, and Carl Montebano, of Braddock, and Carl Cesko, of Uniontown, are in the opener, at 8:30.

Kaiser weighed 137 pounds and Brannon 137¼ at 3 p. m. today. Gornick and Mitchell both scaled 138½. Senich weighed 129½ and Frazier 128¼. Cesko tipped the beam at 161½ and Montebano at 159½.

Between Rounds

The Tiger Rammdall-Jimmy Beamont bout has been definitely closed for McKeesport next Thursday night.

Three southpaws appeared on the Motor Square boxing card last Monday night, and another ote Moose Butch is billed there next Monday against Frank Grande in the semi-final to Elsie Andre Bell-Midget Wallace battle. The card has been completed with the signing of Nick Zimmo of Jeannette, and Leon Porter, of Los Angeles for the second bout. Eddie Heuner and Joey Barrote were in the opener.

Frank Novak, North Side heavyweight, has been matched to box Leo Pearce in the semi-final at the Moose Temple next Friday night and Joe Dokter, of Buffalo, in the main bout at Canton, O., April 17.

The Franklin (Pa.) club is trying to match Tony Phillips and Tiger Joe Randall for Friday night, April 24. Bouts arranged for the above are: Buddy McAllister vs. Jimmy Moore; Mickey Fenton vs. Billy Flanagan; Johnny Zeck vs. Andy Nagey and Joey Boser vs. Ken Hargraves.

Jack (Kid) Berg defends his world junior-welterweight title against Billy Wallace in Detroit tonight. Ben Jeby meets Laddie Lee in the 10th. Nicholas city, New York, with Harry Smith and Fred Lenhart in the semi-final and Willard Dix against Willie Feldman in another 10-rounder. Pat Haley meets Jimmy Smith in Philadelphia and Billy Petrolle takes on Lope Tenorio and Johnny Jadick meets Davy Abad in St. Louis.

LOCAL TENNIS MOGULS HOLD SPRING CONFAB

P. T. A. LEAGUE MAY CREATE THIRD SECTION

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Representatives of nearly a score of local racquet groups will congregate in annual spring meeting of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association at the P. A. A. at 8 o'clock this evening. Plans up for discussion include major projects of the district next year and it is likely that all of several hours will be consumed ere the windup of the lengthy program.

MAY SPLIT GROUP

Among the leading items listed for consideration is the 1931 make-up of the P. T. A. Inter-Club League. This bi-divisional circuit operated last summer with eight teams in Section I and 10 in Section II. Prospect of several applications for position in the lower sector, however, has led to speculation as to the advisability of splitting this division into two secondary loops of co-equal standing and, in the event that the anticipated requests for admission are filed and acted upon favorably, it is probable that decision on the matter of creating a third section will be reached tonight.

Chairman Frank S. Smith, Edgewood captain and head of the West Penn Tournament Committee, will report preliminary progress of his followers toward promotion of the forty-third Western Pennsylvania Championships slated for the Stanton Heights Golf Club courts the week of June 20. Smith and his adherents have been gathering for noonday sessions each Friday since the winter pow-wow of the P. T. A. and it is understood that, as a result of effort thus expended, work on tourney affairs is further advanced than it has been at this stage of the campaign for many a season.

ELECT OFFICERS

Election of association officers for the coming year is likewise billed for the impending séance. It is probable that J. Phillips Davis, University Club star, will retain the presidency bestowed on him in 1930, but the destiny of the remaining posts is somewhat more uncertain. Present incumbents are J. Phillips Davis, University Club, president; Frank S. Smith, Edgewood, first vice president; Austin Famariss, College avenue, second vice president; Paul G. Sullivan, P. A. A., secretary; J. D. Mattern, University Club, treasurer.

Attention also will be directed toward the annual Tennis Night smoker, intercity tennis, junior and boys' tennis and public parks competition.

BUCS ARE KEPT IDLE BY RAIN

enjoyable, yet they are extremely anxious for the opening bell, which will be sounded for them in Chicago Tuesday. They are due to leave Detroit Sunday night for the National League stronghold. Monday is an open date for the Freebooters.

The Pirates scared the Tigers in the ninth inning of the rain game at Decatur. The Bengals had our boys blanked on a 6-to-0 count when the Pittsburghers opened up to score four runs. Rolly Hemsley hammered in three of the tallies when he tripled with two out.

FRENCH GOES WELL

Larry French and Andy Bednar were on the mound for the Pirates, Tom Bridges and Charley Sullivan doing the slab trick for the enemy. French yielded only one run in six rounds, but Bednar ran afoul of some ill luck. He missed a hunt shortly after he entered the game, and the little mixup helped to get him into a jam.

Outfielder Jonathan Stone, of the Tigers, gave the populace a big moment in the eighth when he hit a homer to deep center, one Tiger being on at the time.

Ens today received word from Chicago that a capacity crowd of more than 45,000 fans probably would attend the Bucs-Cub opener there Tuesday.

Sharkey to Engage In Four Battles

NEW YORK, April 10. (INS)—Jack Sharkey, of Boston, is to fight four heavyweights this summer, according to announcement today of his manager, Johnny Buckley.

He will fight Primo Carnera, of Italy, in Brooklyn on June 10, and in July, he will engage Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, if the bout is attracted as planned. In August, he will be ready to meet Mickey Walker, and in September he will take on the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling bout.

Buckley said Sharkey had had no disagreement with Madison Square Garden and "barred no fighters or promoters."

MOYNIHAN SIGNED

CINCINNATI, April 10. (AP.)—Joe Meyer, athletic director of Xavier University, announced tonight that Timothy Moynihan, captain and center of the Notre Dame 1929 football team, has signed a one year contract to coach the Xavier line.

BOWIE MUTUELS

BOWIE, Md., April 10.—(Special.)—The mutuels on the seven races at the Bowie race track yesterday paid a total of $254.80.

Wrestling Show Card Completed

Two matches to a finish and three 30-minute bouts will make up the program of wrestling to be presented at Motor Square Garden Wednesday night by the Pittsburgh Wrestling Club. One of the finish matches will be between Jim McMillen and Young Romano, and the other between Dick Shikat and Andy Zahraroff.

The time matches are as follows: Wladek Zbyszko vs. Hans Steinke; Rudy Dusek vs. George Tragos; Young Clinstock vs. Jack Washburn.

Sparky Ewalt Wins In Amateur Bout

Sparky Ewalt, Pastorius A. C., defeated Dan Pulley, Pittsburgh Lyceum heavyweight, in the feature bout of the amateur boxing show staged by the Pastorius A. C. in McKees Rocks last night. The summary:

112 pound class—Henry Pontano, Am bridge, defeated Tony Marino, Hogan A. C.

118 pound class—Andy Kosel, Valley A. C., defeated Kid Mawing, Hogan A. C.

135 pound class—Eddie Shea, Valley A. C., defeated Kid Roffo, Pastorius A. C.

147 pound class—Ray Wolbach, Superior A. C., defeated Jack Horen, Ambridge A. C.

160 pound class—Frank Kladick, Pastorius A. C., defeated George Malahos, Ambridge.

Heavyweight class—Sparky Ewalt, Pastorius A. C., defeated Dan Pulley, Pittsburgh Lyceum.

Shannopin, Chartiers Regular Greens Used

Regular greens on all 18 holes will be in use at the Shannopin Golf Club and Chartiers Heights Country Club tomorrow afternoon. It previously was announced that the use of regular greens at Shannopin would not be permitted for another fortnight, but the exceptionally favorable weather resulted in a change in plans.

VOLLEY TILTS TODAY

The semi-final round of the senior high school volleyball tournament in Section III will be played this afternoon at Fifth Avenue High. Carrick and Fifth meet in the unbeaten bracket and South Hills and South in the beaten bracket.

Carrick defeated South and Somers, while Fifth defeated South Hills in its only match yesterday.

White Sox Sell Berg to Indians

CHICAGO, April 10.—(INS.)—Moe Berg, White Sox catcher, has been sold to the Cleveland Indians, it was announced here today by Sox officials. The price was not revealed. Berg was a holdout on the Sox this year.

Plants Quit New York; Where, Why They Go

—By B. C. FORBES—

Mr. Forbes

MOST COMMUNITIES are interested in attracting industries. Some of them cannot conduct very intelligent advertising campaigns to make known their facilities and advantages. They know that the establishment of new industries brings new wealth, increased employment, more trade, more property on which to spread taxation.

New York City is losing industries by the hundred, yet no body or individual, no chamber of commerce or merchants' association or board of trade is interested even to keep tabs on what is happening. Apparently civic consciousness is so low, so lackadaisical, so indifferent that nobody cares.

I have tried every likely source of information but no up-to-date data can be found—surely a reflection on the city, its municipal authorities and its trade organization.

WHY THE exodus from New York City and state?

Where do departing concerns go?

THE MAIN reasons mentioned by migrating enterprises are:

1.—Unsatisfactory labor conditions, including arbitrary unions.

2.—Higher wage scales here than at other points.

3.—Heavy taxation on profits in New York state.

4.—High rentals in New York City.

5.—Workmen's compensation burdens.

6.—Lower power rates and more tranquil labor in the South.

WHICH SECTIONS gain what New York loses?

So far as can be ascertained from data not nearly as up-to-date as it should be, almost two-thirds of the departing concerns went to some other part of the Middle Atlantic states. One-fifth of them chose New England.

There was a wholesale exodus of leather goods manufacturers to Pennsylvania, to secure lower labor and space costs. Many firms making women's clothing moved to other centers, large or small, within 150 miles of the metropolis.

New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania received a considerable number of millinery and lace-goods firms, while many shirt manufacturers moved from the city to Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Connecticut, North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia.

THE PRESIDENT of a Syracuse knitting company made this explanation:

"I am moving my plant South because of competitive conditions. We are no longer able to produce our goods profitably in New York state.

"Our decision was based primarily on the uncertainty that surrounds our chief production costs in New York state—wages, hours of labor, insurance premiums and transportation. We are tired of trying to do business on the edge of a volcano that may wipe us out any moment . . . We have some reasonable assurance in the South that we are not to be legislated into bankruptcy."

Mark A. Daly, who has gone into the subject, states:

"It is a fact that no industrial concern manufacturing cotton goods in New York state has any thought of making any capital expenditures whatsoever in extending or increasing the capacity of their plants in New York state. If any such expenditures are made they will be made in the South."

I AM TOLD that almost the last manufacturer of men's hats left in New York City is preparing to leave, mainly because of wage and trade union handicaps.

QUITE A number of manufacturers who located plants elsewhere maintain sales and show rooms, etc., in the metropolis. New York remains, of course, the premier city for exhibiting and buying and selling goods.

Manhattan Island seems destined to become less of a manufacturing center and more and more devoted to financial operations, mercantile activities, security and produce and other exchanges, office buildings and, for the present, apartment houses.

The Southern Pacific Company some time ago moved many of its office force from New York to San Francisco and now the Erie announces that its headquarters are to be moved to Cleveland, home of the Van Sweringen brothers, who dominate the road.

The complaint sometimes is made that living conditions in New York are less conductive to employe loyalty, dependability, punctuality and efficiency than in communities offering fewer distractions.

NEW YORK'S indifference to the coming and going of industries presents opportunity for more enterprising communities.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Irregular — Lone Star Gas Active

STOCK MARKET IRREGULAR AT CLOSE

Short Covering Cancels Most Of Early Losses; Bethlehem And Westinghouse Weak

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Bears found the stock market sold close to a stand still today, and in the late trading decided to take profits in advance of the weekend.

The market worked gradually lower during the early hours of trading with the rails again dragging the list down but trading dwindled off close to the lightest volume seen this year.

Short covering in the last hour canceled most of the early losses of 1 to 5 points, and net gains of a point or two were numerous. Fresh weakness cropped out in Westinghouse Electric and Bethlehem Steel in the final dealings, however, giving the list an irregular tone at the finish. Transfers were only about 1,600,000 shares.

U. S. Steel closed up a fraction, after a temporary advance of more than a point in response to its unfilled tonnage figures. Bethlehem, however, lost nearly 2. Westinghouse Electric dropped more than 3 points to the lowest in four years, reflecting an unofficial estimate of a $2,000,000 deficit for the last quarter. In the rails, New York Central closed nearly 2 higher, after dipping below its December minimum. Illinois Central, Norfolk and Western and Southern Pacific gained about as much. Union Pacific regained most of an extreme loss of 4½. Tobaccos were strong. American Tobacco "B" closing about 4 higher. Auburn gained 7, and Nash 1½, net.

The steel tonnage figures, showing the small increase of 30,136 tons for March, provided no surprise, as Wall street observers had generally agreed that there would be no significant change.

The tobacco issues rose coincident with the taking effect of the previously announced increase of 2 cents a package in cigaret prices by two leading tobacco store chains, apparently ending a price cutting war. Wholesale prices, however, are unchanged, so manufacturers will not benefit for the moment, at least.

Estimates of March railway earnings now appearing indicate that the seasonal uptrend will be reflected in a less drastic decline than that of February. Heaviness of railroad bonds looked worse than it really was, owing to the dissolution of the syndicate which recently distributed the New York Central issue.

That the Nash Motor directors saw fit to declare a quarterly dividend of $1, despite the fact that the December-January-March earnings were only about 40 cents a share, was regarded as a hopeful portent. President Nash issued an optimistic statement.

Credit conditions were stationary, with call money at 1½ per cent. There were no concessions in the outside market.

Plant Employment Gains in New York

NEW YORK, April 10.—Factory employment in New York State increased 1½ per cent in March over February.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 10.—The curb market limped along quietly today, unable to show much of a trend. At times the tone was rather heavy, but the turnover was again too small to give any weight to the narrow and irregular price changes.

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.) Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Rockne's Life Story

he greatest passer on the squad, nd that he knew I wouldn't fail m.

"I had my doubts, and they ere many. But I went in. When reached the ball, I found it lf sunk from sight in a pool water. I was shaky, and knew rn well I'd never make a ecent pass. Right beside me as Slip Madigan, and the ought occurred to me that he d played some center. So I ked him to move over, and ake the pass. Madigan did, nd the ball went back, straight id true to Gipp, who booted it r down the field, and out of nger.

"I was taken out of the game, ght away, and Rock slapped on the back.

"'I knew you had the guts, new you could make that pass od,' he said."

RD TO CONVINCE

"It took a long time for me to nvince Rock that it was Madin, and not I, who had saved day," concluded Mehre, in ating one of the few episodes record, that there was ever a e when Rockne did not know at was doing, and who was ing it, in connection with tre Dame football, on or off field.

ockne's words of instruction to players varied according to umstances.

One of his speeches has since used by coaches whom he eloped. Mehre using it with ng effect on his own Georgia gers before a Yale game.

ockne would go down the line words of instruction of cau- and of inspiration to his ting players.

"And you guards," he would under, "go out and get on the tom of that pile, and stay ere. I'll come out and tell when the game is over."

immy Crowley, one of the Four semen, tells another story out this Rockne inspirational , which may or may not have l its origin in the circumnces surrounding the stay of op at Notre Dame.

Modernizing it, Crowley preits the story as of his own time, l places its scene in the dressroom, before the Army game

KED HUMORISTS

From end to end, Rockne sind out the players, starting with pt. Adam Walsh. Each one's lits were magnified. Criticism istic as only Rockne criticism ld be, heaped upon them.

Stuhldreher was held up as the west order of all quarterbacks ller was this, that was all that s awful. Layden was that and rds almost failed him. Rockne rmed and ranted, raped and ved, and finally:

"And you, Crowley—will you e so kind as to take the ball nd score a few touchdowns?"

Rockne always like to have me player on his squad who in ddition to football ability, posed a fund of humor.

Crowley answered this descripn to the letter, and a rather timate friendship developed beeen him and the coach.

When Rockne was assembling s old stars for that game last ll, with the New York Giants professional team, he wired owley asking him to play, and ging him to start training. And owley promptly wired back:

"Never mind about my condition. Get that line in shape."

Except to his intimates, Rockne never cared to discuss relative alues of other teams or players hat had played and fought for im. He was pestered, throughout his lifetime, by requests to express an opinion on the kicking, passing, and running ability of the Four Horsemen as compared with the backfields of 1929 and 1930. I was with him one day when a casual acquaintance, who was neither coach nor player, and who had no possible interest in the matter save making conversation, approached him with a technical football question that might well have led, upon circulation, to some embarrassing results.

POLITE, BUT FIRM

Rockne was polite, damnably so.

"There was a little boy," he said, "who once wanted to see the circus, and he obtained a job watering the elephant. The day was very hot, and he carried pail after pail of water, until his back seemed breaking, and he was at the point of exhaustion, irritated, and very uphappy.

"To him came a lady, who wanted to know if he was attached to the circus. The boy allowed that he was.

"'Over yonder,' said the lady, 'there is sloshing around in a tank of water, a huge creature that they tell me is a hippopotamus. Can you tell me, my good young man, whether it is a male or a female hippopotamus?'

"The boy eyed the lady with fine scorn.

"'Madam,' he said, finally, 'that is a question which can be of no interest save to another hippopotamus.'"

The casual acquaintance did not press his request for the answer to the technical question he had proposed.

THE SECRET SIX -:- By Frances Marion

Fugitive Trio Hides Near Watchful Police

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Louie Scorpio, known as "Slaughterhouse," is looked upon as a tough character. While in a disreputable restaurant he talks to the proprietor, Johnny Franks, and Nick Mizoski, known as the "Gouger." They ask him to join them in selling moonshine. Prompted by the great profits he will make, he consents. He accompanies them to the place where they make the stuff. While in the building police raid it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER II.

When the police smashed in the door of Johnny Franks' "plant" it marked Centro's first raid. The town was still in its swaddling clothes, a tree-lined suburb built up by the industrial plants and stockyards that supported it, and with a few new buildings, evidence of wartime prosperity, along its single track street car line.

Hence the raid surprised Johnny and his gang almost as much as, the next day, it surprised the town itself.

When the crash of the axes came, and Metz dashed out, Franks, the Gouger, and Scorpio followed. Vronski, blubbering on the floor where Franks had felled him, rose unsteadily and staggered after them. With a snarl, Franks shoved him back, pulled the door to, and bolted it. He hurried out—just a split second before the police dashed in, seizing the Russian.

Reporter on the Job

"Quick," whispered Franks, as they gained the yard. "No time to make it for the street now—the bulls are watching." He dashed to the row of packing cases, pulled one out, and motioned beyond.

Again the sirens screamed, and flashlights began to play along the board fence. The three dived into the aperture left by the empty case, and pulled it in after them.

Inside, Donlan, a grizzled veteran of the federal office over in the city, examined the simmering still with the police.

"Making corn," he explained to the officers. "This stuff is single-distilled, full of fusel oil and other junk, and comes out white. Sometimes they sell it that way and call it White Mule. Sometimes they color it and put a little creosote in, so the chumps will think they're buying Scotch. Hell—it would poison a horse."

"Been a lot of it around town lately," volunteered one of the policemen. "They've been dealing it in the stockyards and around the residence sections, too. There's an organized gang behind it."

A hail from the street door interrupted the conversation, as a tall, dark youth entered, nodded genially at the officers, and shook hands with Donlan. Donlan grinned crustily. "Hank Rogers—from the Courier over in the city," he explained to the Centro officers. "Nice guy." Then he looked sharply at the reporter. "Say!" he demanded. "How did the papers get hold of this so quick?"

"Now you want to know as much as I do!" grinned the newspaperman. Donlan grinned too, and briefly explained the "pinch."

"There's a gang—but all we have is the gang's cooker—the man who tends the still," he lamented.

Donlan and the officers turned toward the prisoner, as Hank, with a grin, made sure he wasn't being watched, and quickly hid a pint of liquor under his coat. "I'll be goin' along and phone this in," he remarked to Donlan, who nodded and again turned his attention to Vronski.

Fugitives in Building

"Listen, you!" commanded Donlan, slowly and menacingly. "Do you want to go to headquarters with us and see the gold fish? No understand? Well, it's a nice piece of rubber hose that we'll lay across your ribs till you talk. So you might as well do it now."

Vronski blubbered and cringed anew.

"Hell!" ejaculated Donlan. "Take him in!"

The policemen hustled the captive to the waiting cars.

Donlan, unbolting the back door, accosted the two officers in the yard. "Got one guy—the cooker," he declared. "Seen any out here?" The officers answered in the negative.

"Well, there's a gang of them and they were in there all right. Got away somehow—we went through the building and they don't seem to be there. Looks kinda funny."

The policeman shrugged.

"We were here just about the time you broke in — they wouldn't have had time to make a getaway from here," insisted the officer.

Donlan grunted.

"I'm leaving a couple of men to watch the still and the hootch," he said. "Maybe you'd better stick around here, and I'll leave a couple in front—just in case they did hide in the building and might come out later." He turned to leave.

In the dark behind the packing cases the trio waited, breathlessly apprehensive. This, it appeared, was to be a siege, if those policemen waited around. Scorpio's brow furrowed in deep perspiring grooves, as he racked his slow brain for some means of escape.

Then the trio started to sudden attention.

"That bunch of old packing cases might be full of booze," one of the officers was saying. "Suppose we go through them while we're waiting."

DAILY TRUE STORY — Buck's Bear

Bear Responsible for Owner's Prosperity

"You won't ketch nothin', Mr. Stuart."

Pop Lane's chin beard waggled just as they do in the vaudeville hick acts.

I suggested that I would have exercise, anticipation and scenery while I was trying to lure a few trout from the stream.

"I always thought the idea was to ketch 'em," Pop said and winked broadly at several of the natives who were enjoying the spring sunshine from the porch of Pop's general store.

A general laugh went up.

"Belknap Brook ain't what it used to be," one of the men informed me.

"Brook's just like it always was," Pop put in. "The trouts ain't what they used to be. What didn't run up some other stream had growed too smart to be took in by a tuft of silly feathers tied to a hook."

It had been some years since I had gone up to Belknap for spring trout fishing. I had explained my intention of getting out at dawn next day and Pop had assured me that it would be a day wasted.

"How about it, Chet?" I asked.

Chet Peaslee had given me lodging at his comfortable home here many a season during my fishing trips.

Crowd Amazed

"You're like to get a mess—enough for supper. Pop isn't always right about everything," he grinned broadly and turned to the storekeeper. "Are you, Pop?"

It was not three in the afternoon when I had caught all the law allowed in weight for one day's fishing. In numbers they were 41.

As I came up from the little wooden bridge to the road and down to Pop Lane's store the usual crowd was there. Evidently someone on the porch notified Pop, for he came out and waved his hand at me. I waved back and pretended that I was going to walk past the store.

Naturally Pop believed that I was ashamed to stay and admit failure.

"I'll bet your back's near broke, totin' home them trout, Mr. Stuart," he shouted.

A good laugh followed.

"I could have done better," I answered, turning back and sitting on the steps.

"I told you," Pop reminded me.

I unslung the creel and handed it over to Chet Peaslee.

"Kind of heavy," he said with surprise, and looked in.

"By thunder, he caught one. Fetch me a newspaper while I roll it out for Pop to see," he said.

"One!" Pop cried, scornfully. "I allowed he might get as much as six—no more—guess I'm always right, Chet——"

Chet secured the paper and gently eased out the 41 handsome trout. Pop Lane stared at them, then at me. He eyed my bait box and the still wet flies in my hand.

"I'd a sworn there wasn't 40 trouts in th' whole length of Belknap Brook," he said.

"There are 41 less. I expect to do as well tomorrow," I boasted.

"Well," and Chet winked at the others, "Pop is always right—almost always right—just as right as he was about Buck's b'ar."

At this a shout went up from everyone except Pop and myself. Pop hurried into the store.

"What about it—what bear and who is Buck?" I asked.

"Kind of long story, Mr. Stuart. I'll tell you about it at supper tonight while we're having broiled trout and bacon."

We stopped on the way to Peaslee's handsome farm residence to leave 10 of the trout with a neighbor for his sick wife.

Chet's wife can broil trout and bacon in a way that would make the highest priced chef turn quite green with envy.

After the edge of my appetite was taken off—and 10 miles in wading boots up and down a spring stream will bring on some appetite—I could find time to listen.

Inherits Farm

"Just what made Pop get flustered and go back in the store when you mentioned Buck's bear, Chet?"

"Oh for land sakes" his wife said, "Chet will never get through telling that story."

"It's interesting, it points a sort of moral. And it is—well, I best tell it."

Chet passed another helping.

"Buck Bennett is a nephew of Pop Lane. Don't know as you've met him. He lived on the ridge before you get to Gilmanton. He's got him a new fangled gas and oil place and a stand for pop and such truck."

"Start at the beginning, Chet," his wife suggested.

"Oh, yes. Buck worked around as a hired man. He never had much of anything. And he had only two relatives. One was old Grandsir Emerson and the other is Pop Lane. Grandsir Emerson had about two acres of land, a tumble-down house and barn and just managed to get along.

"You see, old Grandsir, as everybody called him, was too poor to take Buck in and help him and Pop Lane was too mean to help him. He wouldn't even give Buck a job unless he worked for his keep. Well, sir, Grandsir died and he left a will. I know about the will because, being a notary, he came to me to have it witnessed properly."

"How did the old man feel toward his two heirs?" I asked as Chet had stopped talking for a moment.

"I guess the old man thought that dancing and such things had died out when he stopped feeling young. He had an idea that Buck was no earthly use, but he was a sort of square old chap at that. He had $1,800 in cash, the little piece of property that wasn't worth, buildings and all, $800, and a cow—also he had a pet, a bear cub."

"Ah, enter the bear," I suggested.

"You haven't heard anything funny yet. The old man left his property fifty-fifty to Pop Lane and Buck, but he made Pop Lane sole executor with power to divide the property as his judgment dictated. Those are practically the words the old man wrote in his will."

Seeks Legal Advice

"The plot doesn't thicken, I can see through it now, Chet," I said.

"I'm betting you don't. You deal in stories but I bet you you can't see how this came out—and I'll leave it to your fairness to decide. Well, sir, Pop Lane looked over things after the funeral. He was one of the town appraisers.

"The result was that he appraised the old place at eighteen hundred dollars.

"'Now we're splittin' even,' is about what he said to Buck—'this here little farm is worth eighteen hundred. You get it. I take the eighteen hundred in the bank as I got me a home and you ain't. Well," Chet chuckled, "poor Buck couldn't kick much, because the will let Pop do the dividing.

"'Now as to live stock,' Pop went on to Buck. 'There's only two items of live stock.' They tell me that Buck was surprised. He thought there was only one item, the cow. He suggested selling the cow and dividing the $60 but Pop was too slick for him.

"'There's two items — this here cow and that there b'ar cub—both is alive, both is live stock. So I'm givin' you th' b'ar cub. More'n that, I'm givin' you all what's in th' house and barn, Pop went on."

I began to laugh. Already here was a new twist.

"Buck went to a lawyer friend about it. The lawyer told him that to take it to court would cost him more by double than everything was worth even if he won.

"Well, sir, Buck had him a little car and he lived on the place and worked around as usual, getting more cash because the farmers didn't have to keep him. And he got mighty fond of that little bear cub. He used to feed it sweetened water and he said it was the first pet he ever had.

Marries Widow

"Then some official came along, an oil company official, and told Buck he should put in a gas station because it was on the ridge at a cross road with no gas station within miles. This was done and then Buck built a sort of roadside stand and sold things, soda pop and cigarets and candy.

Everyone petted his bear. Finally Buck had another idea, right on top of his prosperity. He filled pop bottles with sweetened water and sold them for five cents, to be fed to his bear. All through the rest of that summer people stopped to feed that bear, not only kids, but grown-ups. Some days Buck would clean up several dollars just with about a quarter's worth of sugar. The next season he got two more bear cubs and he rebuilt the house, made the barn into a garage and repair shop, hired the handsome young widow Rawson to cook doughnuts and pies and wait on the stand.

"Well, sir, you drive past there now—a handsome place he has. White cottage, flowers and shrubs and the gas station and garage and roadside stand painted to match across the road. Pop Lane has never got over it, especially as Pop was planning to make the pretty little Widow Rawson Mrs. Lane No. 4, and Buck married her.

"It was like this. I told Pop he wasn't treating Buck right when he divided up the property. He swore that it was legal and right, because, he said, Buck would just waste the money anyway. Pop never got over boasting that he is always right, but when he gets too persistent about always being right, just say to him, 'How about Buck's b'ar?' That stops his boasting. Look here, perhaps you could find the makings of a story in this, Mr. Stuart."

Lamar Boys Have Quite a Time Joshing With Mouse

(From the Lamar, Missouri, Democrat)

"There was a funny thing happened at Creasey's sale, Friday, although it caused Earl Parker to get his shoulder broke. Earl caught a mouse and put it into George La Rue's pocket for a joke. George took it and told him he could make him eat it, and Earl said he didn't look like he could start anything with him. George made a rush at Earl, who was standing with his hands in his pockets. He grabbed him and threw him down and fell on top of him and while he had him down he tried to make him eat the mouse. Earl's shoulder hurt him, but he didn't let on. He went down to Oscar Dickinson's. Oscar had to cut Earl's shirt off and told Earl his shoulder was broken. The boys have a good deal of fun over it, but are sorry it happened."

To Study Power Rates

Governor Appoints Engineer To Investigate Electric Charges Here.

Governor Pinchot has taken another step in fulfilling his campaign promise to make sure that public utility companies deal fairly with the public.

As a result of the appointment of Maj. Clayton W. Pike as advisor to prepare a rate case against the Duquesne Light Company, a thorough study of the operations of the local power organization will be made for the first time.

There is no doubt about the fact that Maj. Pike is a competent engineer, well fitted to undertake a complete study of the local utility situation. He has been the principal consulting engineer in previous rate cases brought in Philadelphia as well as in this city.

While Maj. Pike is expected to begin the preparatory work necessary for the rate case at once, the Governor does not plan to have the case submitted until the proposed Fair Rate Board is brought into existence. The bills necessary to replace the Public Service Commission with this new regulatory body are now before the legislature.

The operation of public utility companies is such a complicated problem that it is impossible for the layman to know whether his electric light bill is reasonable or not. Governor Pinchot has stated that the power companies of the United States overcharge $500,000,000 a year. He also declared that the spread between the average cost of 5.96 cents a kilowatt hour for domestic consumers and 1.35 cents for industrial consumers is too great. The proposed case will bring the facts to light and will definitely settle the question of power rates in this city.

Maj. Pike may also be expected to arrive at a fair valuation figure. There has never been an independent appraisal made of the actual worth of the Duquesne Light Company's properties.

No one wishes to unfairly prosecute the power company. It is necessary for the Duquesne Company to prosper in order for it to give satisfactory service.

Under the complacent attitude of the Public Service Commission some of the utility companies of this state may have been taking advantage of official laziness. The rate investigation in this city and at other points will determine just which companies have been dealing fairly with their customers.

The power companies which have a clean record should have nothing to fear at the hands of the governor's investigators.

A Gentleman Passes On

The passing of Nicholas Longworth removes a distinctly major figure from our public life.

His career was one of true distinction and of honorable public usefulness. A conservative Republican throughout his life, he served his party with loyalty, dignity and effectiveness. His attitude toward political adversaries was one of fairness and respect.

Three times he was elected to the great office of speaker of the House of Representatives, and had he lived, he would doubtless again have become the speaker upon the convening of the newly-elected Congress.

Widely mentioned for the presidency in 1927, he was a man whom his party delighted to honor, and so amiable and appealing was his human side, that even his opponents derived pleasure from the honors that he received.

His nature was rich and many-sided: his character had strength and stature; his code was that of a gentleman.

And his death is mourned by all, not only among the large circle of his intimates, to which his engaging charm and personal talents endeared him, but in the larger world of public life, where friend and foe, alike, are conscious of their loss.

Go Down the Line!

Public Desires Probe of Public Works Affairs To Be Most Thorough.

The public will support former Controller Evans in his intent to have the present councilmanic investigation of the Department of Public Works as thorough and comprehensive as possible, within the limits of the typical cases selected to be subject of the probe.

"I want the Mayor, Director Lang, then perhaps 40 or 50 inspectors on the stand," said Mr. Evans. "I want to go right down the line."

One assumes that Mayor Kline will be willing to testify as soon as his health permits. One feels certain there will be no hesitancy on the part of Director Lang, who has shown a disposition toward frankness that is pleasing to the public. As for 40 or 50 inspectors, the number appears ominous as regards the length of the probe, but truth, not time, must be the big idea now.

The public wants Council to get at the truth in this matter, and it is certain that any obstacle against all the truth coming out will result in condemnation against the persons responsible.

Go right down the line!

More Trees for State

Nurseries Engaged in Shipping More Than 7,000,000 Seedlings to Applicants.

Forest tree seedlings are being shipped from the state nurseries at Mount Alto and Greenwood at a rate indicating that great interest in reforestation is being taken throughout the state. Applications have been filed with the Bureau of Forest Extension for more than 7,000,000 tree seedlings for planting this spring, and they have been going out since the last week in March.

In addition to seedlings sent to private planters from the State Forest Tree Nurseries there will be plantings of 500,000 trees in the state forests, increasing the number in these woods to 40,318,617 in all.

This state activity is one that will be of great future benefit. As to "living to see the benefit" consider the case of a Crawford County man who applied for forest tree seedlings to plant a 35-acre pasture lot that is unprofitable. Sugar maples that he himself planted now are large enough to tap. Black walnuts that he planted are bearing nuts. All his life he has planted trees, and he will continue as long as he lives, he wrote in making his application for state seedlings.

CONSCIOUSNESS AND SURVIVAL

By Archibald Henderson

The further man penetrates the secrets of Nature, the deeper he digs, the likelihood of attaining to absolute certainty about the fundamentals seems less sure. In mathematics can we say even now with certainty, in dealing with aggregates each infinite in number, that either A is B or A is not B? We cannot be sure even of this. Is space three dimensional or many dimensional? Is time like a river flowing smoothly on like a river, or is it a function of movement, changing with velocity? Is life itself an accident or part of some general scheme? Does the individual survive, as such, after death?

These and many similar questions are unanswerable categorically by science at the present time. Recently J. W. W. Sullivan, the British writer on science, has addressed leading questions of this sort to a number of outstanding figures today. The answers, although given by famous authorities and students of science, differ very widely.

For example, Sir James Jeans takes the idealistic point of view, and assumes that the universe is a vast dream of mind. Perhaps nature is not governed by determinate laws, as we have long imagined. Heisenberg has established, it would appear, a certain principle of indeterminacy about natural phenomena in the case of the atom. We may predict, from certain data, by a sort of law of averages, the velocity on the position of an electron at a given instance, but not both. This is a direct outcome of the principle of quantum mechanics. And now Einstein, in conjunction with Tolman and Podulsky, puts forward the notion that we cannot give an exact description of the past path of a particle.

Accordingly, the new quantum mechanic is playing hob with our old assurance and our old certitudes. It imparts a principle of indeterminacy about the past as well as the future. We cannot often quote, with assurance, the famous statement: "The past at least is sure." The principle of the quantum mechanics involves an uncertainty which is analogous to the uncertainty in the prediction of future events.

It would appear then that we must reorganize all our notions about time. According to the old terminology, we said that events "happen." But the new point of view differs widely from this. Nowadays we may accept the point of view of Herman Weil, who says: "Events do not happen; we come across them."

Perhaps, then, we are all parts of a general mind. Perhaps the universe, with every thing and being in it, is a great thought rather than an infinitely complex machine. As Jeans suggests, perhaps each individual is a brain cell in a universal mind.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

IF YOU HAD IT TO DO OVER AGAIN, WOULD YOU HAVE YOUR CHILD?

OR WOULD YOU DECIDE THAT LIFE WAS A TRAGIC GIFT FOR A CHILD, AND MOTHERHOOD A BAD BARGAIN FOR YOU?

You look at your adored darling and then you glare at me in horror. What sort of an unnatural monster am I to even suggest that motherhood's a bad bargain? And how can life—life with its sweet love and thrilling adventure—be a tragic gift for anyone?

I'm not an unnatural monster. I'm simply printing two questions which thousands of desperate mothers and fathers are asking today. If you've never heard those questions, it's time you did. They are part of the world in which you live—THAT WORLD FOR WHICH YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE.

Here, today, is a letter. A real letter. Written by a real mother. Reading it, in your happy home, with the laughter of your own babies sounding in your ears and the smell of your own good dinner drifting in through the kitchen door, this letter will appall you. But it will sound tragically familiar to other readers. For there's many and many an American home today where children are not laughing—where there's no smell of dinner drifting through the door.

"Elsie Robinson:

"You won't print this letter. It doesn't fit in with your pretty theories about life. But I have to write it because I have been reading one of your typical outbursts about the 'glory of motherhood' and the 'precious gift of life.' Let me tell you—life isn't always a precious gift and there is plenty of motherhood that isn't glorious.

"Look at my life. I had your theories once—when I was first married and terribly in love. Even though we had hardly a cent when our baby was born, my husband and I both had those theories. Then he fell sick. I had to go to work. For three years I supported and nursed him—then he died and I was left alone with the baby.

"Maybe you wouldn't talk so fine if you had ever been left alone with a baby, not a penny and no decent training. The boy and I have had four years of it and it has been four years of hell. Sometimes I work—more often I don't. We have never known a time when we had enough, really enough, food. And of course our clothes are always in rags. I don't care for myself so much. I feel as if all feelings had been ground out of me long ago. But the boy—

"He's 7. You know how a 7-year-old boy ought to look. As carefree and silly and dear as a little puppy. My boy doesn't look like that. He has the face of an old man and there is fear—real fear—in his eyes. He talks like an old man, too. He has said to me often that life isn't worth while. Think of a 7-year-old boy saying that. But it is true. Life isn't worth while, for either of us.

"I made a big sentimental gesture when I indulged in motherhood—for that was what it was—SELFISH INDULGENCE. My husband and I wouldn't have dared go into any other business on earth with the capital we had then—yet we became parents without a thought and believed we were doing something wonderful. WHAT HAS IT MEANT TO OUR BOY? Seven years of misery so far. God only knows what lies ahead.

"Don't talk to me about motherhood. It's a selfish luxury for the rich. For me it is a curse—for my boy it is worse than death.

"I am not giving my address. I don't want your charity. But I would just like to make you face facts, once in a while.

"SADIE R—"

I faced them, Sadie—long ago. With a seven-year-old boy by my side. And the same hunger under my ribs, and the same hate in my heart, that's gnawing you now. So I know. That's why I'm printing your letter. That's why I'm answering for you when some people say—as some people will say—

"I don't think much of a young mother who feels like that!"

WELL, WHAT DO YOU THINK OF A GREAT, RICH NATION OF PEOPLE WHO LET A YOUNG MOTHER AND A STARVING BOY FEEL LIKE THAT?

Isn't It So?

One good word quenches more heat than a bucket of water.

When a woman strikes a bargain she takes one of her size.

It takes a woman with sound judgement to generate silence.

Blessed is the man who can get money without letting money get him.

One sure place to dodge a traffic jam is on the straight and narrow way.

It doesn't take a good judge of animals to discover the good points of a porcupine.

A man never really knows what it means to be insignificant until he attends his own wedding.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Grandmother's Garden

Though I love every one of Earth's flowers
As up toward the sunlight they grow,
Still my memory seeks the bright bowers
Of a garden I knew long ago.
Sweet alyssum and bridal-wreath lifted
Their petals like pearls to the light,
And the faint scent of violets drifted
To sweeten the whispers of night.

In the garden my grandmother tended
Where primroses and poppy and rue,
And the fragrance of spice-pinks comes blended
With memories of sunrise and dew.
How I love to live over in dreaming
Glad days all untouched by regret,
In her garden with mellow light gleaming
On its borders of shy mignonette.

Text For Today

But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matthew, vi:33.

Germany's Champion Girl

She Has Power, Plenty of It.

MAKE YOUR BOW TO FRAULEIN MARTEL JACOBS

Following the war Germany developed a passion for athletics, and a marvelous army of athletics, male and female, developed.

They take sun baths with little clothing; certain groups, numbering about 25,000, even get along without ANY clothing within their own special enclosures.

Modern young Germans take long walks and runs, practice every kind of athletic sport, drink little of anything except water, not even much beer, although they can get all they want—good, and a large glass—for two cents.

This typical German girl athlete seen in action is throwing the discus, an ancient Greek sport.

Fraulein Jacobs is the champion javelin thrower of Germany. If you stood half a block away from her she could hurl a sharp javelin and send it right through you. Of course, she wouldn't do it, being kind-hearted.

Once javelin throwing was most important in war—before we improved our methods of wholesale killing with gun powder, machine guns and gas.

However, this is written about sports, and not war—about a remarkably powerful and beautiful young German girl.

You will admit that a girl of this type is more important to the human race than something with a leg three inches round, an arm that looks like a piece of string, hips as flat as saucers and a concave chest.

You never will keep down a nation that has girls of this kind. The children of this mother will have "something to grow on."

Women were not made to be slinky, slithy, cocktail-drinking, cigaret-puffing shadows.

They were intended to be strong, beautiful, substantial, powerful girls and mothers.

That thought is offered to the modern American girl wondering how she can reduce her weight by a few more ounces.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 10.—Thoughts while strolling: Won't someone tell Lou Tellegen he is no longer The Great Lover? Maybe after all he was only a Passing Fancy. They say Morton Downey plays only black keys and by ear. What became of Fred Merkle? Nobody slings adjectives like A. P. Herbert, of London Punch.

Albert Keller, a Frankford (Germany) boy, who made good in the city. Some day I'd like to see a Chinese restaurant on the ground floor. William Kent is graying, too. Catch me buying any more bonds. What else can the Astaires do besides that loping dance?

"Grand Hotel" as a play is far better than the book. The way they come reeling out of those German beer places! Who remembers the peek-a-boo waist? I always want to write it Zona Grey. And Zane Gale. That moist sweetness of spring showers. Isabel Paterson, the book critic.

A new luncheon place in the 40's is getting the Dinty Moore-Sardi "celebrity" crowd. Fifth avenue is going to seed. But wait for the new Radio City! The Capitol ushers may not dress so grandly but they are the politest. Sez he! What's become of Tommy Lyman?

Byron Newton, who wrote that poem about New York. You know, over-dressed and under-fed. And now lives quietly at Bayside. An East Indian fakir spurting fire in a drug store window.

The smallest of the Metropolitan stars—Lily Pons. Those frail, elderly ladies with white lace collars and cuffs who drive in the park daily. Suggesting the calmness of blue ice. Jules Glenzer's alert flair for life. Harold Ross' side hair part.

Never see a russet apple. Cabaret sign: "Hot sole slappers and lazy hip rollers." No one beats Lee Patrick portraying a tough stage lady. Those mournful cornet street soloists. And the drab of a mackerel sky. Why doesn't a Welsh rarebit taste as good as it smells?

Clarence Budington Kelland, in toastmastering a recent dinner, led off with: "The function of a toastmaster is to be as dull as possible in order to make the speakers whom he is to introduce appear brilliant. As I look up and down the table at this array of speakers, it occurs to me this evening I shall have to rise to new heights of dullness."

* * *

Rennold Wolf once said the best after-dinner speeches are composed in taxicabs going home by people who had never been called upon to speak.

Willard Keefe has a character in his recent play chirp: "I feel lower than a well digger."

And still another philosophies: "I never sock a lady unless I love her."

* * *

Mr. Keefe is a newspaperman and press agent who came within an eyelash of authoring what the Rialto would call "smash hits." He has a raw sense of realism that wobbled somewhat in his first efforts, but producers are confident they will galvanize eventually into something that will knock the town cold.

* * *

Evansville, Ind., has not forgotten a local boy who made good in the city—Joe Cook. A bronze has been placed at Fourth and Oak, his old home, in the yard of which he learned many of his acrobatic didoes that lifted him to a deserved celebrity. Inscribed on the bronze is this: "At every stage performance and in movies he mentions Evansville, Ind."

* * *

On Court street in Gallipolis, O., there is also a bronze dingus indicating where this performer used to live. "People from everywhere stop and look at it," wrote Harry Maddy. "Some weeks there are two or three."

Wise Words

Patience is a flower that grows not in everyone's garden.—Proverb.

Woman knows that the better she obeys the surer she is to rule.—Michelet.

Winged time glides on insensibly and deceives us, and there is nothing more fleeting than years.—Ovid.

The boundary of man is moderation. When once we pass that pale our guardian angel quits his charge of us.—Feltham.

Men's hearts ought not to be set against one another, but set with one another, and all against the evil thing only.—Carlyle.

It is often more necessary to conceal contempt than resentment; the former being never forgiven, but the latter sometimes forgot.—Chesterfield.

The blessing of an active mind, when it is in good condition, is that it not only employs itself, but is almost sure to be the means of giving employment to others.—Anon.
